DOWD SAW DOLAN AND SHOULDERS ON SECRET TRIPS

Circuit Attorney Conducting Inquiry Into Alleged Pay-Offs Questioned Imprisoned Ex-Policemen.

HE SAYS RESULTS ARE SATISFACTORY

Reports 'Investigation Is Accomplishing Something Substantial'—With Ex-Lieutenant Several Hours.

Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd, who is investigating alleged pay-offs to police by brothel operators, made secret trips this week to interview Louis Shoulders and Elmer Dolan, former St. Louis policemen now serving prison terms for perjury in the Greenglass ransom inquiry, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Dowd was accompanied by his first assistant, Raymond A. Bruntrager, when he visited Dolan at the federal reformatory at Texarkana, Tex., yesterday and Shoulders at the medical center for federal prisoners at Springfield, Mo., Wednesday.

Results of the interviews were not disclosed, but the Post-Dispatch learned that Dowd and Bruntrager talked for several hours with Shoulders but only for a short time with Dolan.

Names in Lutz Records. Records kept by Mrs. June Alma Lutz, murdered brothel operator, contain names identical with those of 30 St. Louis policemen, including Shoulders and Dolan.

Shoulders was a lieutenant in the Newstead avenue police district, where Mrs. Lutz was reported to have operated one of her establishments. Dolan, a former patrolman, also was stationed in the district. He had been a member of the police morality squad.

Dowd and Bruntrager, who have been absent from their offices in the Municipal Court building and from their homes for almost a week, refused to discuss details of their trip, which also is reported to have included interviews with other possible witnesses in the payoff inquiry.

Dowd said he was "satisfied" with results of the trip, adding: "The investigation is accomplishing something substantial."

Interviewed Woman. He and Bruntrager are known to have been in Arkansas to interview a woman who had worked for Mrs. Lutz.

The circuit attorney, explaining the reason for the "hush-hush" phase of the investigation, said some persons have expressed a willingness to give information but are afraid of publicity.

For that reason, he said, his office obtained a room Monday in Hotel Jefferson so that members of Dowd's staff could conduct secret interviews.

Dowd said he questioned several women who appeared later the same day at the hideaway quarters at the hotel. The circuit attorney said his questioning was not done at the hotel.

The women included some who had worked for Mrs. Lutz, Dowd added. He and Bruntrager left the city Tuesday morning and returned early today.

A woman employed by Mrs. Lutz has identified several policemen by their photographs as among the officers alleged to have accepted pay-offs at Mrs. Lutz's establishment at 308A

SENATE PASSES PEACE PLEA, ASKS PRESIDENT TO PRESENT IT TO U.N.

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—

THE Senate passed and sent to President Eisenhower today a resolution urging other peoples to join with the United States "in a renewed effort for world peace."

The resolution, previously passed by the House, does not require a presidential signature.

Congress asked Mr. Eisenhower to present it to the United Nations when he welcomes delegates to the tenth anniversary of its founding in a meeting in San Francisco.

The resolution puts Congress on record as reaffirming "the deep desire of the people of the United States for an honorable and lasting peace."

The telephone has been ringing steadily at the state income tax offices at 2730 North Grand and 2400 Big Bend boulevards since state revenue agents started their camera pursuit of income tax evaders here last Monday.

Sylvester Bresnahan, in charge of the State Revenue Department, income tax division, here, said only seven taxpayers had come into the offices and declared themselves delinquent, but "we've had telephone calls by the dozens from some pretty frightened people."

It is safe to assume, Bresnahan said, that they read in the newspapers that a crew of agents from the revenue department in Jefferson City are here photographing federal income tax returns to compare them with tax payments made to the state.

"The callers want to know how many years back they have to go to get caught up," Bresnahan said. "We tell them three years under the state law." The volunteers who come into the offices are charged a 25 per cent penalty, plus 6 per cent interest per year on the tax they owe.

500 CHEVROLETS TO BE EXPORTED TO RED BULGARIA

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—

A Department of Commerce spokesman said today the department has approved the export of about 500 Chevrolet passenger cars to Communist Bulgaria.

The spokesman said the order, handled by a Brooklyn dealer, involved $1,017,000.

It was the biggest single export transaction with the Soviet Union or its satellites since 1949, the spokesman said.

The department announced yesterday it had penalized Willys-Overland Export Corp. because it did not report that some 100 Jeeps shipped to Lebanon had been diverted to Communist Romania.

The department spokesman who disclosed approval of the shipment to Bulgaria said the two cases could not be related.

He said the Jeeps were four-wheel drive vehicles and as such were on the department's list of strategic items barred for shipment behind the Iron Curtain.

The British Foreign Secretary repeated that in a speech to the Pilgrims of the United States here last night.

"The Russians will always find us ready to take account of their legitimate requirements and to give them the security which is their due," he said. "But we are equally determined to secure satisfaction for our own needs."

"I do not believe that all opportunities for step-by-step advance are yet exhausted. This particular seam is not yet worked out. It may still produce rich results."

He warned the ministers oppose a strict agenda, or list of subjects, for the summit meeting.

Nehru Due to Visit London Prior to Big 4 Talks. LONDON, June 17 (UP)—Official sources here said India's Prime Minister Nehru is expected to visit London for talks with Prime Minister Eden on the eve of the top-level Big Four conference at Geneva, beginning July 18.

These sources said Nehru has been made "aware" that a visit to London early next month would be welcome.

Nehru now is visiting in Russia at the invitation of the Soviet government.

Sources here said he has given no firm indication of his timetable or further plans.

3 U.S. OFFICERS SAID TO HAVE BEEN EXPELLED FROM RUSSIA

Assistant Military Attaches Reported to Have Left Moscow 2 Weeks Ago—Cause Not Learned.

LONDON, June 17 (UP)—Private advices received here today said three assistant United States military attaches have been expelled from Russia.

Th reports said each of the three was declared persona non grata and left the Soviet capital about two weeks ago.

The three ousted Americans were identified as Lt. Col. John S. Benson, Capt. Walter Mule and Capt. William R. Stroud.

(In Washington, the Army gave the addresses of the three officers as: Capt. Mule, Fort Monmouth, N.J.; Lt. Col. Benson, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Capt. Stroud, Kewanee, Ill.)

The Army had no comment on the London reports but merely made available the addresses in reply to inquiries.

It was understood here that the matter was hushed-up at the time on grounds the United States State Department felt publication would not be in the national interest.

Reports received here said the Russians also had withheld publication of the action in an apparent attempt to prevent the ouster becoming a public incident.

The cause of the expulsion was not known here but was said to have stemmed from an incident in Moscow sometime in early May.

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Russia was reported today to have expelled three American military attaches who were part of the embassy staff in Moscow.

Informed officials declined to reveal the names of the American military officers involved or to say whether they have already left Russia as ordered.

U.N. STAFF TO SAVE $7000 BY FLYING TOURIST CLASS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 17 (AP)—The word got out that Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and all his around that Secretary General employees going to San Francisco for next week's U.N. anniversary meeting would fly tourist class. The saving is $7000.

So at his press conference yesterday, a correspondent asked Hammarskjöld: "Are you taking a hox lunch?"

He replied: "I guess some kind soul will see to that."

He is arriving in San Francisco tomorrow evening.

Adenauer had luncheon with the Big Three foreign ministers before their afternoon conference began.

Adenauer has made it clear that the date of his trip to Moscow must follow the Geneva conference, where President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Eden, and French Premier Faure are to meet with Soviet Premier Bulganin.

West Germany will have a team of observers there.

The duration of the Geneva conference is still to be decided. The West's original invitation suggested a four-day meeting but President Eisenhower has indicated he would stay longer if the discussions are fruitful.

Macmillan said before the talks began here that a short summit conference in Geneva would only provide a start on what he said he hoped was a new phase in diplomacy. He hoped negotiations would continue, he added.

The British Foreign Secretary repeated that in a speech to the Pilgrims of the United States here last night.

"The Russians will always find us ready to take account of their legitimate requirements and to give them the security which is their due," he said. "But we are equally determined to secure satisfaction for our own needs."

WEST REPORTED TO HAVE AGREED ON PROCEDURES FOR BIG 4 TALKS

They Will Be Taken Up With Molotov Next Week in San Francisco—Adenauer Joins Conference.

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Foreign Ministers of the three leading Western nations have agreed on all procedures for the forthcoming "summit" parley with Russia, a British source said today.

They will be taken up with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov for discussion in San Francisco next week.

This word followed an informal three-hour morning conference of the foreign ministers for the United States, Britain and France.

The British informant also said the Western powers are in agreement that West German Chancellor Adenauer is well able to deal with the Russians when he goes to Moscow later at Soviet invitation.

No Pre-Conditions. Thus, it was added, the Western group is imposing no pre-conditions on the Chancellor's visit.

The British spokesman said an afternoon session of the ministers would deal chiefly with the timing of Adenauer's trip.

United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles planned to fly back to Washington later today.

British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan arranged to see United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and tour the U.N. headquarters before holding a private conference with Adenauer.

The other participants in the ministers' session was French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay.

An informant disclosed that the ministers spent some time in their opening session in a wrangle over Pinay's complaint that published stories indicated United States-German agreements were sealed in Washington and he was expected only to ratify them here.

Dulles was reported to have convinced Pinay that only the basis for agreements had been discussed with Adenauer early in the week. The statement that all three later agreed Adenauer would have a free hand on his Moscow trip appeared to bear that out.

An informant said that today's discussions included a turnover of what subjects might come up in the Big Four meeting and how the Russians will act there. The impression was given that the West was ready for anything the Russians will spring, but Western spokesmen declined to tell reporters what they think this might be.

Talks Begin Monday. The Big Four talks will begin Monday in San Francisco and culminate in the summit meeting at Geneva, Switzerland, July 18.

UPWARD TREND IN CRIME HERE HALTED IN MAY

More Cases Solved—Report by Chief of Police Credits New Policies.

The upward trend in the number of major crimes committed in St. Louis was halted last month, it was disclosed today in a crime report issued by Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell. There were 11 fewer crimes here last month than in May 1954. Totals for last month were 2256, compared with 2267 a year ago.

O'Connell said it has been at least a year since the monthly crime report has shown a decrease.

For the first five months of this year, however, major crimes here totaled 12,862, whereas for the same period last year the total was 11,037. The number in April of this year was 2691, or 435 more than in May.

Chief O'Connell pointed out that last month was the first month in which new crime reduction plans were put into effect in the department. Some of the changes were concentrating plainclothesmen in the Detective Bureau; establishing flying squad of officers to rush to scenes of crimes, and placing some traffic patrolmen on beats total heretofore had not been patrolled.

The change undoubtedly accounted for a better showing of crimes solved last month than a year ago, police said. Total solutions in May 1955 were 597, compared with 487 a year ago, or an increase of 110 in crimes solved.

An analysis of the crimes and solutions last month as compared with May 1954 follows:

There were eight murders, seven of which were solved last month; a year ago there were three, all solved. Twenty-nine rapes were committed and 16 solved, compared with 22 committed and 13 solved last year.

There were 121 robberies and 66 robberies solved last month, compared with 148 committed and 45 solved last year. A total of 201 aggravated assaults were committed and 131 solved last month. A year ago there were 214 and 150 solved.

Four hundred and eighty-two burglaries were reported and 95 of them solved last month, whereas a year ago there were 520 committed and 115 solved. Larcenies over $50 totaled 201 with 15 solutions last month and 161 with 15 solved last year. There were 908 larcenies under $50 last month with 138 solutions, compared with 901 committed and 95 solved a year ago.

The report shows 304 automobile thefts and 127 solutions last month. A year ago there were 298 with only 45 of the thefts solved.

Increases were shown in the categories of murder, rape, both types of larceny and automobile theft. But solutions of the crimes in those categories also increased.

ALL AMERICANS IN BUENOS AIRES BELIEVED SAFE

EMERGENCY U.S. NEWS CENTER, June 17 (AP)—The United States Embassy in Buenos Aires reported last night that so far as is known all Americans in the revolt-affected Argentine capital are safe.

A message from the embassy to the State Department, released here, said:

"All embassy personnel safe and insofar as now known all other Americans also. Embassy property undamaged except some broken glass due to concussion."

The message was received at the State Department's relocation site for civil defense operations at about 8 o'clock.

Officials were understood to have received word also that at the time the message was filed things were momentarily tranquil although fighting and aerial bombardment continued sporadically throughout the afternoon.

Earlier the emergency White House had reported that it had been unable to get in touch with American Ambassador Albert J. Isaacs in Buenos Aires since about noon yesterday.

DIXON VS. YATES IN HOUSE VOTE ON DIXON-YATES PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—It was Dixon vs. Yates when President Eisenhower's controversial Dixon-Yates power plan came to a vote in the House.

Representative Henry Aldous Dixon, a Utah Republican, backed the Administration in the 198-to-169 vote against building a new TVA power plant as a substitute for Dixon-Yates.

Representative Sidney R. Yates, Illinois Democrat, voted for TVA and against the Dixon-Yates plan.

The two Congressmen are not the Dixon and Yates public utility executives whose names the plan bears.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 17 (AP)—Who's head of your house? The husband—or the wife? Think it over. The answer may cost you money.

Consider: Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bogatin decided to fly to Philadelphia last week under the new government regulations. The plan allows husband and wife to travel on a fare and a half, instead of two fares—under certain conditions. They must begin the trip together on a Monday, Tuesday or a Wednesday. Holder of the half fare must return on a Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday. Full fare can return any day.

Bogatin wanted to come on a Wednesday. His wife had to stay over until Saturday. Could he ride the half-fare ticket, leaving full fare for his wife?

Why, no, said the young woman at the airline ticket office. The head of the house was the one who traveled full fare. Since arriving back in Mem-

He Walks Across Lake Shore Drive at Rush Hour as Autos Screech to Halt.

CHICAGO, June 17 (UP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov rolled across the Midwest plains in a special Pullman car today, leaving behind him a slightly shaken Chicago and group of angry demonstrators at Omaha.

The stocky diplomat went on a surprise whirlwind tour of Chicago during a five-hour stopover late yesterday. Before his train pulled out he had:

Caused the worst traffic jam on Lake Shore drive in years by walking across that thoroughfare in defiance of speeding rush hour traffic.

Flustered United States Steel officials who didn't know whether the distinguished Communist should be allowed to tour the company's huge South Side plant.

Held a running interview along the lake shore with a Russian-speaking reporter, giving his opinion on the smell of Chicago's stockyards, Molotov cocktails, and the nation-wide civil defense alert.

Molotov caused an uproar of a different sort when his train rolled into Omaha, Neb., early today.

From 60 to 70 displaced persons from Lithuania and Latvia were waiting in the pre-dawn darkness carrying placards reading "Molotov go to hell instead of to San Francisco" and "Communism soaked with blood of Lithuanians."

Molotov and his party of 60, bound for the United Nations meeting at San Francisco, apparently were sleeping off their Chicago visit. They didn't make an appearance, but a few Russian bodyguards peered from the darkened windows.

In Chicago Molotov threw the police department into a mild state of siege.

2 WARSHIPS SAID TO HAVE JOINED FORCES HEADED BY EX-MINISTER

Dictator Blames Reds for Attack on Churches at Height of Uprising—Rebels Still Fleeing to Uruguay.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, June 17 (AP)—An unidentified radio station claiming to be a clandestine organ of an anti-Peron command said today naval forces had risen against the government at the base of Puerto Belgrano in southern Buenos Aires province. It said two warships cruising off Buenos Aires yesterday had joined that base.

The radio station did not give its location. It also broadcast a claim that army garrisons in Cordoba and Entre Rios provinces had rebelled.

The clandestine station said the army garrisons of Corrientes and Entre Rios provinces, and the cities of Rosario and Cordoba, arose against the Government. It said the sea fleet was concentrated at Puerto Belgrano under orders of R. Arm. Anibal O. Oliveri, who until yesterday was Argentine minister of navy.

President Peron has blamed the Navy for the revolt against him, and named a new Navy Minister.

159 Reported Killed. Meanwhile, a dispatch out of Buenos Aires said federal police announced there were 156 deaths in Thursday's revolt, with 96 persons gravely injured and 750 additional wounded.

(This dispatch, filed at 7:36 a.m. St. Louis time, was the first received directly from Buenos Aires since last night. It did not reach the United States until 2:14 p.m.)

The Argentine state radio broadcast a communique barring all flights over greater Buenos Aires under the penalty of heavy fines.

Roman Catholic churches in Argentina were attacked by rioters yesterday during the climax of the uprising against the Peron government.

This was confirmed indirectly today by Peron himself. In a broadcast to his countrymen, Peron blamed Communists for depredations against the churches and counseled priests to obey police orders.

He promised the Government will not allow any further depredations against churches. He gave no details, but unconfirmed reports reaching Montevideo said six or seven churches in Buenos Aires had been set afire.

Peron spoke to Argentines by radio for 13 minutes, at noon. In a similar broadcast last night he announced the revolt was over, that the navy was responsible for it, and that Argentina was under a state of siege.

Rebels Flee to Uruguay. Fleeing naval and air officers took refuge in this country, bordering Argentina.

There was no late word from Rosario, 170 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, where rebel forces were reported last night to have seized the city. Rosario, Argentina's second city, has a population of about 500,000. Buenos Aires is a city of nearly 3,000,000.

In today's speech Peron expressed condolences to relatives of those who died in yesterday's air attacks on Buenos Aires by about 40 planes which struck mainly the Government House. This rambling building in the Plaza de Mayo houses the principal government offices, including Peron's own. The central area of the city was the scene of a pitched battle for a time yesterday afternoon.

Communications Blackout. At the time Peron spoke today direct communications with Buenos Aires had been blacked out for 15 hours.

Peron promised justice will be meted out to those who tried to start a rebellion against him, but declared all this will be done under the law. Practically, however, all due process of law is suspended in Argentina under the state of siege.

Peron sought to blame Roman Catholic priests as in part responsible for the start of the rebellion. He has been seeking for seven months to curb powers of the church in Argentina. Yesterday, just before the revolt began, Peron was excommunicated by the Vatican.

Peron declared his government was ready to prevent any Communist or other disorders. He declared he was a Catholic and not against religion, and advised Catholics of his nation to await a referendum on his proposal to separate the church from the state.

Peron said the rebellion ob-

HOUSE BACKS DIXON-YATES FOES PROMISE FIGHT IN SENATE

Democratic Drive to Divert Funds From Private Power Project to TVA Is Rejected by Lower Chamber.

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—Senate opponents of Dixon-Yates today promised a last-ditch fight to cripple the controversial power project even though a similar effort failed decisively in the House.

The House yesterday rejected a Democratic drive to divert funds for the private power project to the Government-owned Tennessee Valley Authority. It did so in passing a $1,272,122,800 appropriations bill to operate TVA, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Reclamation Bureau, Bonneville Power and the Southeastern and Southwestern Power Administrations in the new fiscal year starting July 1.

The House thus handed President Eisenhower a triple victory. Overriding its Appropriations Committee, the Democratic-controlled body gave tacit approval to Dixon-Yates, killed a move to expand TVA's own generating capacity and restored all the money the President had requested for reclamation and flood control projects.

AEC Fund Reduced. The House, however, voted only $618,000,000 of the $1,045,000,000 requested by the President for the Atomic Energy Commission.

The House log-rolled an extra $90,000,000 worth of reclamation, rivers and harbors and flood control projects into a bill that already contained $436,000,000 for such work.

In view of the House action, Senate Dixon-Yates opponents admitted their chances of crippling the project appeared slim. Senator Albert Gore (Dem.), Tennessee, said that, nevertheless, they would fight to knock out of the appropriations bill a $6,500,000 fund for a transmission line to link Dixon-Yates with TVA.

Gore would not predict the outcome. He said "it is very difficult to defeat a combination of the power of the presidency and the private power trust."

A special Senate Appropriations subcommittee was to continue hearings on the TVA portion of the public works bill today.

Big Test in House. The big test came on a motion by Representative John Phillips (Rep., California), to reverse the Appropriations Committee's action in applying the $6,500,000 originally intended for the Dixon-Yates transmission line toward a new $90,000,000 TVA plant at Fulton, Tenn., near Memphis.

The motion carried 198 to 169 on a standing vote. Democrats considered upstaging the decision by demanding a roll call, but gave up the attempt because of the size of their defeat on the standing vote.

Representative Clarence Cannon (Dem.), Missouri, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, had planned to offer a resolution to bar using the $6,500,000 for the Dixon-Yates-TVA linkup line. But he withdrew it after seeing the margin of the Administration's earlier victory.

The House boosted the total amount of the appropriations bill by $98,376,555, but it still was $417,042,200 below Mr. Eisenhower's original budget requests.

Memphis Official Heard. The Dixon-Yates fight moved to the Senate Appropriations subcommittee, where a representative of Memphis declared today that the city "will be forced" to build its own electric power plant unless the Administration drops the Dixon-Yates contract.

Thomas H. Allen, municipal utility chief of Memphis, urged that Congress provide funds for a TVA steam power plant. "Memphis does not intend to again be subject to the domination of a utility holding company from which it freed itself in 1939," Allen testified.

He predicted that the Atomic Energy Commission will not pay "the excess cost of this power indefinitely" and that "sooner or later it will be unloaded on Memphis."

SENATE UNIT SAYS AUSTRIA PACT HAS SHORTCOMINGS

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today urged ratification of the Austrian treaty even though it does not "satisfy fully the desires of all the parties."

No treaty does, the committee said, and the Austrian pact "is no exception."

The committee's report was made public shortly before the Senate scheduled debate on the pact. Democratic leaders expected quick and overwhelming ratification.

The committee said the recently-signed treaty does assure Austria independence and does not contain provisions so onerous as to justify any further delay in bringing it into effect.

The committee unanimously approved the treaty Tuesday. In its report, it urged the State Department to do what it can to get Russia to remove its troops from Hungary and Romania. Under terms of the peace treaties with those nations the Soviet Union was permitted to maintain troops there to protect communications lines to its forces in Austria.

FBI AGENT SWEARS MAYOR WAS NOT AT RED MEETINGS

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—An undercover man for the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the Communist party swore yesterday he never saw former Mayor John Mullen of Clinton, Pa., attend a single Red meeting.

George E. Dietze, a Pittsburgh engraver, told a Senate Internal Security subcommittee he was in a position to know, too, since he was the doorman at meetings from March 1944 to March 1950.

"It was my business to remember faces," he said, adding he thought it "ridiculous" to call Mullen a Red. Mullen now is political action director of the CIO steelworkers.

Dietze's testimony conflicted with that of another FBI undercover agent, Joseph Mazzei, who testified last week that Mullen was a Communist functionary and had attended closed party meetings with him. Mullen has denied "absolutely" any Communist links.

COMPLAINS LIFE OF CRIME NETTED HIM ONLY $3 PROFIT

DALLAS, Tex., June 17 (AP)—A 37-year-old burglar, arrested with three younger pals, complained that he had shown but a three-dollar profit since moving to Dallas for a life of crime.

"I quit selling hot sugar-rat stamps in 1946 with $48,000 cash profit," said the former Army mess sergeant. He said a bad heart kept him from going straight but that stealing had not been profitable.

His wife left him, he continued, and he came to Dallas with $54. He had $57 when police searched him.

Pope Sees Expelled Prelates; Crowd Cheers Them at Airport

Pontiff Hears First-Hand Story of Strife in Argentina—Relations Virtually Have Been Broken.

VATICAN CITY, June 17 (AP)—Pope Pius XII today received the two Roman Catholic prelates expelled by President Peron's government, from Argentina.

The two churchmen, Auxiliary Bishop Manuel Tato of Buenos Aires, and his assistant, Msgr. Ramon Pablo Novoa, arrived in Rome late last night to the cheers of young Catholics crowding the airport.

They were brought by Vatican automobile at 10:30 a.m. today to the private audience hurriedly arranged to give the 79-year-old head of their church a first-hand account of the church-state conflict in their homeland.

It was Bishop Tato's expulsion Wednesday which resulted in the excommunication from the church of Peron and his government. The Pope was described as deeply grieved at events in Argentina.

The two prelates still wore the cloths in which they arrived in Rome. All Vatican protocol was brushed aside for their audience, which lasted an hour and 25 minutes. Then the two prelates were received by the Vatican's pro-secretary of state for extraordinary affairs, Msgr. Domenico Tardini.

The Vatican's Observatore Romano said the Pope received the prelate "with most effusive amiability."

His Holiness vividly interested himself in their dolorous trials," it added.

The newspaper said the Pontiff, "in most comforting terms, then reaffirmed his particular good will for the prelates, for the entire Argentine episcopate, clergy and faithful of that Catholic nation so singularly dear to him, for so many reasons."

The Vatican radio described the expulsion of the two prelates as "brutal," and said subsequent events in Argentina "had profoundly upset Catholics in the whole world and friends of liberty and human dignity."

Peron, said the Vatican radio, "did nothing but follow the iniquitous path of persecutors of all times. But, perhaps, he has surpassed them all in speed. Since last November until today, he has burned up the road."

Elsewhere in the Vatican today, mass was celebrated for Argentina's Catholics. Cardinal Giuseppe Siri, archbishop of Genoa, asked during the service that the more than 60,000 members of Catholic Action groups over the world pray that "the light of liberty will return for the persecuted in Argentina."

Cardinal Siri, ecclesiastical head of Italian Catholic Action, described Peron's treatment of the Catholics as "a new thorn in the crown of thorns for which the Sacred Heart of Jesus bleeds." Today is the Catholic feast day of the most Sacred Heart of Jesus.

The cardinal said that current events in Argentina—"that mournful South American nation"—are a sign of "how alive Christ is in the hearts of the masses."

Church sources generally agreed that the church's excommunication had in effect, if not formally, at least temporarily broken or suspended diplomatic relations between the Vatican and Peron's government.

The immediate effects of excommunications are to deprive those who incur it from the sacraments of the church and from contacts with faithful Catholics.

LATIN-AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS SIDE AGAINST PERON

One Accuses Argentine Dictator of Backing 'Thor Against Jesus Christ.'

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, June 17 (AP)—Many Latin American newspapers are expressing support for the Argentine Catholic church in its conflict with President Juan D. Peron's regime.

The independent Brazilian newspaper Correio de Manha said Peron was "backing Thor against Jesus Christ." In playing the thunder god of Norse mythology, Peron had "shocked all those who love religious and cultural liberty," the newspaper declared.

J. E. De Macedo Soares, popular editorial commentator in the newspaper Cariooca, wrote that "to fight with students is one thing, but to fight with the church is to tamper with human morals."

The Brazilian Chamber of Deputies unanimously adopted a resolution calling for "sympathy by the democratic conscience of the Americas for the Catholic church and the Argentine people, who are victims of persecution."

'Whose Turn Is Next?' In Montevideo, Uruguay, the traditionally anti-church morning newspaper El Dia wondered editorially "whose turn would come next." El Dia said it would not defend the clergy, which in the past had fully backed Peron. "But it is sad to see that in Argentina, in the past democratic, tolerant, and free, the low passion of hatred and vengeance has been unleashed" by Peron, the newspaper added.

A cartoon in Mexico City's morning newspaper Novedades depicted a huge figure of a priest labeled "Argentine Catholics" and a small figure labeled "Peron." The Argentine strong man, looking up at the priest, asks: "Shall I put an end to this, or will it put an end to me?"

The newspaper Excelsior in the Mexican capital predicted the present crisis in Argentina would produce numerous martyrs in view of the deep devotion of the faithful there.

Under the banner "Peron, Hitler and Catholicism," the Lima, Peru, morning newspaper La Prensa said "the tactics followed by Hitler and those now used by Peron in Argentina are in reality the same."

In Valparaiso, Chile, the Catholic daily La Union declared the Argentine situation is linked with Peronist plans to remove from the Buenos Aires cathedral the remains of Gen. Jose de San Martin, hero of the independence war against Spain.

The Peronists aim in moving the general is "to destroy the past," the newspaper said. "The new 'justist' regime in Argentina cannot bear to hear of that authentic grandeur of the past in our sister country."

Another Catholic newspaper, La Religion in Caracas, Venezuela, said the Peron regime was repeating "the history of all persecutions."

Six Dead in Brazil Train Crash. RIO DE JANEIRO, June 17 (AP)—Two commuter trains collided in a suburb of Rio de Janeiro last night, killing six persons and injuring about 100.

FTC Charges 1750 Food Brokers Conspire to Stop Competition

St. Louis Firm Among Those Named—Complaint Says Agreement Is Injurious to Public.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 17—The Federal Trade Commission today charged 1750 food brokers throughout the country with conspiring to eliminate competition in the sale of food.

The FTC complaint named the National Food Brokers' Association and its members, comprising 75 per cent of the nation's independent food brokers engaged in securing orders for food for which they receive a commission from the seller.

The complaint was one of the largest fair trade actions instituted by the commission in recent years. The association was charged with engaging in an illegal conspiracy "to the prejudice and injury of the public."

A St. Louis firm, Carter-Wagner Brokerage Co., and its president and treasurer, Harry L. Wagner, were among those named in the complaint. The firm has offices at 406 Market street. Wagner, the FTC said, is a member of the association's advisory committee.

The commission gave the association 30 days in which to file an answer to the charges. Aug. 15 was set as the date for a hearing. If found guilty of the alleged conspiracy, the association and its members could be served with a cease and desist order by the FTC and fined a maximum penalty of $5000 for each violation.

Watson Rogers, president of the association, declined comment on the FTC charges pending a study of the complaint by attorneys for the food brokers. Rogers and 21 members of the association's executive and advisory committees were named in the complaint.

The commission gave the association 30 days in which to file an answer to the charges. Aug. 15 was set as the date for a hearing. If found guilty of the alleged conspiracy, the association and its members could be served with a cease and desist order by the FTC and fined a maximum penalty of $5000 for each violation.

JUDGE FINDS MAN MARRYING NIECE HAS ANOTHER WIFE

LOS ANGELES, June 17 (AP)—Harold J. Rauch, a paving engineer, married Elizabeth Cook Mullendore last Feb. 6. She is the niece of municipal judge F. B. Mullendore.

Shortly before this marriage Judge Mullendore had placed Rauch on probation on a child support complaint made by Rauch's third wife, who had won an annulment.

Rauch went back for a social call on Judge Mullendore to inform him that he had married into the family. The judge promptly started an investigation and learned that Rauch had acquired a spare wife along the way, one Ruby McGowan Rauch.

Yesterday Rauch was sentenced to a year in jail on a bigamy charge and Judge Mullendore's niece and Ruby, too, indicated they would seek annulments.

TRIBUTE PAID TO MARSHALL BY PRESIDENT EISENHOWER

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower paid tribute yesterday to Gen. George C. Marshall as a man who has "given much to the maintenance of our national security, the preservation of freedom, and the establishment of a just peace in the world."

The President's tribute was read at a luncheon given by former officials of the Marshall Plan for European recovery who met to honor the wartime military leader who later became Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense.

The occasion was the publication of a book about the European recovery operation, "The Marshall Plan and its meaning," was written by a former Marshall Plan official, Harry Bayard Price.

LANGER ASSAILS KANSAS CITY'S ANTI-CRIME UNIT

Says Bill to Bar Deportation of Impastato Was at Request of 'Missouri People.'

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—The Kansas City Crime Commission was accused on the floor of the Senate yesterday of a "dirty, underhanded, sneaky attempt" to discredit Senators William Langer (Rep.), North Dakota, and Olin D. Johnston (Dem.), South Carolina, sponsors of legislation to halt deportation of Nicola Impastato.

The accusation was made by Langer as he and Johnston defended their sponsorship of the legislation.

Langer said neither he nor Johnston knew Impastato, who served a prison sentence for a narcotics violation, but introduced the legislation "at the request of some Missouri people who believed Mr. Impastato had not been treated fairly."

Richard K. Phelps, who was assistant United States attorney in charge of the Impastato case in 1942. It said Impastato was assured there would be no attempt at deportation if he pleaded guilty. He did so and served about two-thirds of a two-year sentence. Phelps now is Jackson county prosecutor at Kansas City.

Langer's criticism of the Kansas City Crime Commission was based on letters it wrote other Senators opposing the Impastato legislation.

EISENHOWER GRANDCHILDREN VISITING AT FORT SHERIDAN

CHICAGO, June 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower's three grandchildren arrived at nearby Fort Sheridan yesterday for a visit with their maternal grandparents. Their arrival by plane from Fort Leavenworth, Kan., was announced by the Fifth Army, to which their grandfather, Col. P. W. Thompson, is attached.

The children of Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower were accompanied by secret service men. The children are Dwight David, 7 years old; Barbara Ann, 6, and Susan Elaine, 3.

Maj. Eisenhower is to graduate June 24 from the Army Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth. He then is to be assigned to Fort Monroe, Va.

PRESIDENT ENDS 3-DAY DEFENSE TEST WITH PLEA ON RESERVE BILL

Calls Measure Too Important for Rider—Asks Public to Back Urgent Things Needed for Safety.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

EMERGENCY U. S. PRESS CENTER, July 17—President Eisenhower today wound up the nation's three-day civil defense test with a strong appeal for support of his plan to build up and reorganize the national military reserves.

He said that approval of a pending reserve bill in Congress is so important that it was "no place to attach any social or political legislation."

The legislation is stymied by a proposed rider sponsored by Representative Adam Clayton Powell, New York Democrat, a Negro, requiring racial desegregation in reserve units in all states.

Speaking in a radio broadcast from the secret Pentagon outside Washington, the President called on the American people to "lend your support" to the "urgent things" he said must be done for the safety of the American people.

"I do hope you will take these matters to heart," he said, "and support the proper kind of legislation. We should remain strong, we must never let down our guard."

'Losses' Estimated.
Government officials today topped up the huge "losses" the nation theoretically suffered in the three-day operation in which Americans suffered under a simulated air attack by the "enemy."

The estimate of those "killed" in Wednesday's nuclear attack on 55 cities in the continental United States was 8,200,000. The simulated blast and fire "injured" 6,550,000. Total destruction was inflicted upon 6,700,000 dwelling units and another 700,000 units were damaged. The damage was not habitable. There were 1,600,000 units damaged but not habitable due to radioactivity and 2,200,000 units located out of the blast range were rendered uninhabitable because of radioactive fallout.

The mobilization production committee, composed of representatives of 10 important government agencies, worked on an analysis of the effects of the bombing on the 55 cities in major industrial areas of the United States. Their finding was that the nuclear attacks, if real, would have resulted in a loss of 6 per cent of the nation's manufacturing capacity. This surprisingly low loss of industrial capacity would have resulted because the attacks were aimed at population centers in downtown business districts.

President Leaves Hideout.
Meanwhile, the President, who left Washington hastily Wednesday as the capital's No. 1 refugee from the enemy attack, became the first to breach the strict security regulations clamped on all those even remotely connected with the Civil Defense exercise.

Mr. Eisenhower, apparently on a whim, left the secret White House late yesterday at an undisclosed place outside of Washington and went to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., to have dinner with his wife and mother-in-law, with whom he had had lunch at his hideaway only a few hours before.

The speed and the ease with which the Eisenhowers exchanged visits by automobile was a breach of the governmental restrictions which were intended to keep from potential enemies any indication as to the location of the so-called relocation points for the President and other key Government officials to which they retreated when the theoretical enemy bombers drove the Government out of Washington.

The breach in the security regulations came not through the effort from reporters, who were scrupulously following the rules, but from the President's press secretary, James Hagerty, who officially announced where the

President's Text on Defense Test

EMERGENCY U. S. NEWS CENTER, June 17 (UP).
Following is the text of President Eisenhower's speech on Operation Alert:

MY Fellow Americans: For two days I have been participating in Operation Alert. This exercise has had the very serious purpose of attempting to determine whether the Government of the United States in the face of terrible disaster could continue to carry on its needed normal functions and provide the kind of services that would be necessary to the United States under these conditions.

Now, due to the careful planning of the Office of Defense Mobilization, under Dr. (Arthur S.) Fleming, and the other departments of the government, this particular part of the test brought me great encouragement.

What I should like first to say to you is my deepest impression of this exercise: The most devout daily prayers that any of us has should be uttered in the supplication that this kind of disaster never comes to the United States.

It is for this reason that I plead that we remain strong. We must face the facts of today's world as they exist. We must never let down our guard until we can be assured that that peace for which we so earnestly pray is definitely coming in such a way that we can have confidence in its effectiveness.

Now to be prepared against the possibility of a disaster of this kind coming to us, not necessarily so serious as the one we attempted to evaluate, but in any disaster of this kind, there are many things that we must do outside of just keeping ships and planes and guns and airplanes and the rest of it.

Perfect Liaison Needed.
First of all, the Government itself must plan steadily along the lines that were exemplified and tested in this latest exercise. The liaison between the Federal Government and the Governors of our several states, and the Mayors of our great cities, must be perfect.

Especially, I think, these local officials, upon whom such great burdens of preparation will fall, must remain close to our Civil Defense Administration under Gov. (Val) Peterson; if that liaison is what it should be, if the plans made are effective, so that we know what each must do in time of emergency, countless Eisenhowers were for lunch and for dinner.

Today the President took part in the final exercises at the Defense Department relocation site outside of Washington. The location of this center is more famous than it is secret but the exact location still is officially classified information.

When this ceremony ended the President again was scheduled to go to the Gettysburg farm where he will stay until he leaves for Washington. He is scheduled to leave Washington by plane on Sunday for San Francisco where on Monday afternoon he will deliver a speech welcoming delegates from all over the world to the tenth anniversary session of the United Nations.

In Secret Hideouts.
While the President was breaching the security rules, directors of 31 Government departments and agencies, along with 15,000 of their employees, worked in secret hideouts outside Washington on the job of helping the nation recover from the initial disastrous effects of the simulated attack.

Cabinet members managed to get in a few licks at routine Government business unrelated to the Civil Defense exercise. Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey told reporters at the emergency press headquarters late yesterday that the exercise was "extremely worthwhile."

He said it had called attention of Government officials and the nation to the enormous problem which would have to be faced should an enemy attack. Would Seize Food Outlets. Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse visited emer-

STUDENTS FROM INDONESIA, VIET NAM END TOUR HERE

Two Indonesian students and a Viet Namese were to leave here today after touring the city yesterday with John O. Sutter, son of St. Louis County Public Administrator Orval C. Sutter. John Sutter and the students concluded a two-week tour here from Washington, D.C., where Sutter is on the Indonesian Desk of the State Department.

Sutter met two of the students at Djakarta, Indonesia, where he served as vice consul from 1952 to 1954. They are Boedi Harsono, a law student at George Washington University, Washington, D.C., and Widodo Sukarno, studying finance at New York University.

The third visitor was Vu Ngoc Hau, of Viet Nam, who is studying medicine at George Washington University. The group yesterday viewed Barnes Hospital and the courthouse at Clayton. They stayed at the Sutter home, 2303 South Milton avenue, Overland.

TOW MEN END STRIKE, TAKE CARS ILLEGALLY PARKED

Towing away of illegally parked automobiles was resumed in the downtown area this afternoon after settlement of a one-day strike by drivers of City's Service, Inc., 34 North Boyle avenue, which has a Police Department contract for the work.

Thirteen men walked out yesterday in protest over dismissal of one, but he was taken back today.

In the meantime today, automobiles that ordinarily would have been towed away by police order were left as they were, and the owners were saved some trouble and towing fees.

$1,539,000 CITY PAY RISE GIVEN COMMITTEE OK

Aldermanic Ways and Means Group to Recommend Passage Next Friday.

The aldermanic ways and means committee today approved a revised pay plan which will increase salaries of 8200 city employees by $1,539,000 a year. The committee will recommend its passage at the Board of Aldermen meeting next Friday.

The committee met after a regular meeting of the board to consider the bill, which was forwarded as an amendment to an earlier bill which provided for increases of $728,000. The Civil Service Commission approved the amended bill last night.

The new plan, recommended by Personnel Director R. Elliott Searce, was adopted by the commission after it received a report from the Governmental Research Institute which reviewed the proposals.

The report stated that wage rates set up by the new plan "were more equitable and defensible" in light of charter provisions requiring the city to meet rates paid by private businesses and industries.

Adoption of the plan, which has been described as acceptable by unions representing 5200 of the city's employees, is expected to ward off a threatened strike by 3000 of the employees.

Union representatives warned city officials Wednesday that there was "a grave possibility" that work stoppages would result unless a new pay plan was enacted by the time the Board of Aldermen recesses for the summer next Friday.

Wages for about 200 craftsmen employed on an hourly basis are increased from 5 to 10 cents an hour in accordance with wage increases granted recently in negotiations with private industries. The remainder of municipal employees are on a monthly basis.

Salary increases ranging from $2.17 to $30.44 a month are provided for most of the remainder of city employees. About 360 will receive no increases.

Increases up to $8.67 a month are provided for 2286 workers; to $15.92 a month for 618 workers; to $20.80 a month for 1690; to $25.78 for 2413; and to $30.44 for 898 employees.

The new plan was recommended by Searce June 1 as a substitute for a plan submitted last Jan. 19. The earlier plan was not approved and submitted by the commission to the Board of Aldermen until April 19.

Anti-Discrimination Bill Backers Offer Arguments in Its Favor

Church Leaders Among Advocates at Aldermanic Hearing—Conciliation Program Provided Before Any Penalties.

Proponents and opponents of a proposed city ordinance to outlaw discriminatory practices in theaters, restaurants, hotels and other places of public accommodation were heard this afternoon at a hearing conducted by the aldermanic legislation committee at City Hall.

First to be heard were those in favor of the proposed legislation. Opponents were to be called later.

The Rev. Patrick J. Molloy, moderator of the Catholic Interracial Council, said:

"We know that legislation alone is not the answer to the problem of discrimination. However, legislation does create a climate of opinion that makes more difficult the actions of the prejudiced and more easy the actions of those fully respectful of their fellow men."

Conciliation Provision.
Adolph K. Schwartz, who as chairman of the legal committee of the St. Louis Council on Human Relations helped write the present bill, said it was based on the best parts of similar ordinances in Washington, D.C., and Portland, Ore.

The unique part of the St. Louis bill, he said, is the provision that problems will be solved by conciliation. As an example, he said if a theater owner refused to admit a patron of a minority race, a member of the council would try to settle the differences by conciliation. If this method failed, there would be a public hearing. Failing this there is a provision in the bill for prosecuting violators in court and upon conviction they may be fined $25 to $500.

The Rev. Ralph C. Abele, chairman of the racial and cultural committee of the Metropolitan Church Federation, spoke in favor of the measure, saying, "I don't know of a single factor more important" than this bill in easing the end of segregation in schools this fall. Any failure to proceed with this matter to make democratic citizenship a reality "plays into the hands of rabble rousers," he added.

"All clergy who take the gospel seriously will support the bill," he said.

Others who spoke for the bill were Mrs. Henry Heiligenmann, representing the Council of Catholic Women and Milton I. Goldstein, president of the Jewish Community Relations Council.

BIG STORE SALES LAST WEEK 5 PCT. UNDER 1954 LEVEL

Dollar volume of department store sales in the St. Louis area for the week ended last Saturday was 5 per cent lower than in the same period a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today. The entire Eighth Federal Reserve District showed the same decline.

For the four weeks ended last Saturday, sales here were 5 per cent ahead of the corresponding four weeks of 1954 while sales in the district as a whole were up 4 per cent.

Nationally, sales last week were higher in seven reserve districts, lower in four and unchanged in one.

viously was directed against him personally, since the air bombings and ground attacks center on Government House (the Casa Rosada, or pink house).

Knew in Advance, He says.
He added he had learned beforehand, through intelligence sources, what was in store, and had left the Government House to stay elsewhere.

It was announced that V. Adm. A. Cornes was named navy minister replacing R. Adm. Anibal Osvaldo Olivieri and took over his new duties immediately. One report said Adm. Olivieri had disappeared.

In last night's broadcast, Peron said the Naval Ministry—"where the revolutionary command was located"—had given up and that the chief "culprits" were under detention. Peron's success apparently was due to army refusal to go along with the revolt. "Not one corporal, not one soldier, has failed in his duty," he declared.

The President said the "situation is entirely under control," although "there are still some small points to occupy, disarm and submit to justice."

A later broadcast by the Argentine State Radio, heard early today in Santiago, Chile, said "absolute tranquility reigned throughout the territory of Argentina."

The broadcast warned all persons in Buenos Aires to stay clear of the plaza area because "numerous" unexploded bombs in the region would be detonated.

One of the air raids caught hundreds of workers who had gathered in the plaza to demonstrate their support of Peron in his fight with the Roman Catholic Church. The Government-sponsored General Confederation of Labor (CGT) called a 24-hour mourning strike to honor or the "memory of the defenders of Peron's doctrine."

Uruguay's interior minister, Francisco Camarra, said 36 planes carrying 90 officers and men from Argentina's naval and air forces landed here yesterday and last night. The first known civilian refugee, Congressman Miguel Angel Zavala Ortiz, crossed the broad Plata river to Colonia, Uruguay. He is a member of the opposition Radical party. Camarra said all refugees were ordered interned and their weapons seized.

Refugees Reported on Warship.
More of the rebellious navy was reported fleeing to Uruguay aboard one of Argentina's three training cruisers, the 6800-ton 25th of May and the 6100-ton coast defense ship Pueyrredon.

One report said they were bound for Montevideo while another said their destination was Punta del Este, the south Uruguayan peninsula off which the German pocket battleship Graf Spee took shelter before it was scuttled in World War II.

The Argentine navy also includes two battleships, two cruisers, 15 destroyers, nine frigates and three submarines. The military refugees said they had to abandon the revolt because Peron's men had captured their naval base at Punta Indio, denying them their source of fuel and bombs. Some of the officers said army units in outlying provinces had been slated to join in their revolt but apparently did not.

Heavy fog over the city also interfered with air operations and prevented a planned amphibious landing on the Buenos Aires waterfront by naval marines.

Two waves of bombers and fighter planes attacked the government house. Rebel forces were reported to have entered the building but were quickly overwhelmed by loyal troops rushing to the square.

In London, the British Foreign Office said windows of the residence of the British ambassador in Buenos Aires were smashed in the fighting.

The excommunication of Peron, announced just before the revolt, was incurred as the result of his expulsion from the country of Auxiliary Bishop Manuel Tato, one of Peron's chief adversaries in his fight with the church.

In his speech last night, Peron declared: "We will never forgive the infamy of our enemies." The navy, he declared, must bear the "stigma for all time" for having betrayed "faith and country."

Peron spoke from the War Ministry, indicating the rebels had succeeded in bombing him out of the Government House.

The Government cut off all unofficial communication with foreign cities last night, apparently to free the services for official traffic. Telephone service was halted in midafternoon but international cables kept functioning intermittently until early evening, when communication companies in New York reported their facilities had been interrupted "by order of the Argentine Government."

Second Attempt in Nine Years.
Yesterday's attack was the second military rebellion against Peron since he was elected president nine years ago. The first occurred in September 1951, when Peron announced that loyal forces had "crushed" a revolt of army officers who he said had planned to kill him and his wife, the late Eva Peron. Forty Argentine military men fled to Uruguay, then and many anti-Peron leaders were jailed.

Peron's feud with the church flared into the open last November, when he accused some members of the Roman Catholic clergy of conspiring against his regime. Since then 79 priests have been arrested on charges ranging from spreading false rumors to disrespect for Peron.

In the ensuing months the Government restricted church influence on education, legalized divorce, and ended Government subsidies for Catholic schools. It also canceled the official observance of religious holidays and has scheduled a constitutional convention to end Catholicism's status as Argentina's official religion.

The struggle was climaxed with the expulsion of Msgr. Tato, auxiliary bishop of Buenos Aires, and his assistant, Msgr. Roman Pablo Novoa, on charges of inciting disorders last weekend in which 29 persons were injured. Msgr. Tato has been acting as head of the church in Argentina frequently in recent months because of the continuing illness of Cardinal Santiago Luis Copello, the primate.

Msgr. Tato and Msgr. Novoa, who denied the charges against them, were put aboard a special Argentine plane Wednesday morning and arrived in Rome last night. A large crowd of Catholics cheered them at the airport.

Fire Damage to Churches.
The U.P. report listed the following Buenos Aires churches in flames: St. Dominic, St. Nicholas of Bari, St. Francis, Our Lady of Mercy, Saint Ignatius, Our Lady of Shelter and Saint John, all situated in the heart of the capital. The inference was that they were set afire by anti-church supporters of Peron in retaliation for yesterday's events. The residence of Cardinal Copello also was reported burned. One dispatch said the Curia—the center of church activities in Argentina—was destroyed. (Government troops isolated Buenos Aires from the surrounding province today, U.P. dispatches said.)

(The Royal Dutch Airlines announced it has suspended its flights to Buenos Aires for a 24-hour period "pending developments" there. The capital city already was isolated with the port and airfields closed.)

The regular ship between Buenos Aires and Montevideo did not arrive today and port authorities in Montevideo assumed it had been prevented from leaving the Argentine capital.

(The Scandinavian Airlines said one of its DC-6 airliners was damaged slightly by gunfire in Buenos Aires yesterday. Airline officials said they could not determine whether any passengers were injured. Six bullets hit the plane.)

Peron: ILO Delegate Blames Capitalists, Some of Clergy.

GENEVA, June 17 (AP)—Eduardo Vuletich, Argentine labor delegate to the International Labor Conference, told the conference today the revolt in Argentina was engineered by capitalists and "a small part of the clergy."

The workers of Argentina "have shed their blood to push back the insurrectionists," said Vuletich, who is secretary general of the Argentine General Confederation of Labor.

"The oligarchy of high capitalists have lost the battle after 10 years. They tied up with a small part of the clergy and tried to break up trade union unity."

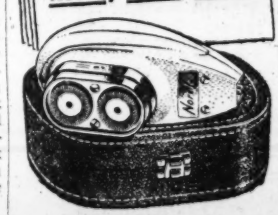

"My Government and the country in general are devoted to Catholicism, but we will never be the instrument of a sector of the Catholic clergy which has denied Christianity," Vuletich said there was "no religious persecution in Argentina, but we shall not allow them to hide behind the Nazarene to disrupt the confederation of labor."

TWO APPOINTEES APPROVED

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—The Senate today confirmed the nomination of Gordon Gray, president of the University of North Carolina to be an Assistant Secretary of Defense.

The Senate also approved the appointment of Richard A. Mack of Florida to be a member of the Federal Communications Commission for a seven-year term beginning July 1.

Mexican-Made Coins for Arabia.
VERACRUZ, Mexico, June 17 (AP)—The Greek steamer Hellenic is on the way from here to Saudi Arabia with a cargo of silver coins minted in Mexico on order of the royal Arabian government. Officials said the shipment includes 5000 boxes of money valued at 40,000,000 pesos ($3,200,000).

ALDERMEN GIVE INDUSTRIAL AREA BLIGHTED STATUS

Step in Redevelopment on North Side—Funds for DeSoto Park Recreational Facilities.

The Board of Aldermen enacted a bill today declaring a north St. Louis industrial tract blighted as a first step in its redevelopment for industrial purposes.

The tract is bounded by East Grand and Taylor avenues, Hall street and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad tracks.

An ordinance appropriating $200,000 of 1944 bond issue funds for recreational facilities in the enlarged DeSoto Park also was passed. The one-block park in the DeSoto-Carr public housing area is to be expanded to an L-shaped tract of 17 acres with the proceeds of $1,000,000 appropriated earlier.

Rat Control Amendment.
The rat control ordinance was strengthened by an amendment passed today that would give the health officer authority to require owners to rat-stop buildings. If the owner failed to do so, the Health Commissioner could do the work and bill the owner. Similar authority to order eradication of rats was given. A revolving fund of $5000 was appropriated for the Health Division to permit it to take such steps when owners refuse.

The amendment also makes it unlawful to permit trash and other materials to accumulate on the ground where the accumulation might offer harborage to rats.

Under the terms of a resolution adopted, the City Plan Commission was authorized to accept a federal grant of $17,333 with which to undertake a program of developing techniques and methods of evaluating obsolescence in commercial and industrial structures.

Such techniques are pretty well established for residential buildings but the problem of establishing the existence and extent of blight in commercial and industrial areas has not been worked out nearly so well. This year's budget sets aside the city's one-third share of the estimated $26,000 cost of the study.

Playgrounds Measure.
Alderman Louis Aboussie (Dem.), Ninth Ward, introduced a bill to appropriate $14,549 of 1944 bond issue funds for the purpose of drawing up plans for improvements and rehabilitation of facilities in 44 city parks and playgrounds.

Two other bills were introduced to authorize condemnation proceedings for the purpose of constructing two cut-offs at intersections in the Wellston area.

One intersection is at Hamilton boulevard and Easton avenue where the cut-off would eliminate a jog in Hamilton. The other is at Wells and Hodiament avenues where a jog in Wells would be straightened out.

AUSTRIANS SAY REDS ARE LOOTING BEFORE LEAVING

VIENNA, June 17 (UP)—Austrian officials charged today that Soviet troops are chopping down whole forests in Austria and shipping the timber eastward in a final "campaign of loot" before the Red Army withdraws.

Members of the Austrian Parliament have charged also that the Russians are stripping equipment from Austrian factories. They called on Chancellor Raab to issue a protest to the Russians.

Under terms of the new Austrian state treaty, forces of Russia, the United States, France and Britain are to leave Russia within 90 days after the Austrian treaty has been ratified.

Innocent Man Awarded $112,291 For 12 Years Spent Behind Bars

LOUIS HOFFNER relaxing in park at New York yesterday after being awarded $112,291 for wrongful imprisonment.

Victim of False Imprisonment in New York Murder Was Freed After Long Fight by Friends.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 17—Louis Hoffner, whose conviction for murder and sentence to life imprisonment were set aside 31 months ago, was awarded $112,291 by the state court of claims yesterday as compensation for the 12 years he spent in prison.
The 41-year-old bachelor was convicted in 1941 of the holdup murder of a Queens bartender. Both the appellate division and the court of appeals upheld his conviction.
The case was reopened in 1947 when a patrolman, now Sgt. Bernard Arluck, and Harry G. Anderson, an attorney, uncovered evidence proving his innocence. Arluck had become interested in the case because he was a close friend of Hoffner's late brother, Max.
An appeal for a new trial was denied and in 1948 former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey refused to pardon Hoffner.
Anderson carried on the case for 11 years without fee. Postman John Minion pounded the streets collecting funds for a "Citizens for Hoffner" committee.
Edward Mowery of the New York World Telegram and Sun worked on the case for five years, turned it into a crusade that won for him a Pulitzer prize in Journalism and led Queens County Judge Peter T. Farrell in 1952 to set aside the conviction and sentence.

POLICE ARREST THREE MEN AT SCENE OF BURGLARY

Three men were arrested early today by police who were called to investigate a burglary in progress at the grocery of Ben Zurchmühlen at 4013 Vest avenue.
As police arrived, they saw a man who later identified himself as Eugene Segasture, a truck driver living in the 1900 block of Newhouse avenue, walk from the front door of the store.
Another man, who said he was Orville Newton, 1500 block of Herder street, was seated in an automobile parked at the curb, police reported.
Entry had been gained by removing a screen and forcing a transom window over the front door. Inside, police found the third man, who said he was Vincent Gendron, 5900 block of Theodore avenue, owner of the automobile parked at the curb. All three were booked suspected of burglary.

24 BOY SCOUTS IN TEXAS HIKING 160 MILES TO CAMP

KENEDY, Tex., June 17 (AP)—Twenty-four Kenedy Boy Scouts are on what they call the longest Scout hike ever tried in Texas—160 miles to Indian Creek Camp near Kerrville, in the Texas hill country.
The hike started yesterday and the boys made it to Fashing, 20 miles southwest of here. They are carrying all equipment and food in packs on their backs. A scoutmaster is going along—walking, too.

FEDERAL ESTATE AND GIFT TAX UNIT TO REMAIN HERE

The federal estate and gift tax unit will remain in St. Louis, although review of unit cases here will be transferred to Kansas City, District Internal Revenue Director Gus Koehler said today.
A move of the unit to Kansas City was never contemplated, although "there has been a lot of hullabaloo by the Chamber of Commerce and some lawyers about the supposed move," Koehler said. There had been protests by the Bar Association and Mrs. Leonor K. Sullivan, St. Louis Congresswoman.
In the interest of economy, Koehler said, reviews of cases in the St. Louis district, and also in the Wichita (Kan.) district, will be handled by the Kansas City office, but in cases which cannot be handled by mail, review personnel will come here from Kansas City rather than require taxpayers and their lawyers to go to Kansas City.

U.S. TO MAKE MORE MILK AVAILABLE FOR SCHOOLS

EMERGENCY U.S. NEWS CENTER, June 17 (UP)—Under secretary of agriculture True D. Morse today announced changes in the federal school milk program designed to make more milk available to school children. Under the modified program, the government will repay participating schools for all milk served to children as a "separate item." In addition to paying for milk served as part of special low-priced lunches as in the past.

Morse, of St. Louis, said 47,000 schools served well over 400,000,000 half pints of milk in this year's program.

Jordan King in London. LONDON, June 17 (UP)—Young King Hussein and Queen Dina of the Hashemite kingdom of Jordan arrived by air yesterday for a seven-day state visit. DOWD QUESTIONED SHOULDERS AND DOLAN IN SECRET

North Theresa avenue, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Pauline Cloin said she was asked to view the photographs of "more than a dozen" policemen yesterday by Maj. James P. Thompson, head of a special police squad which is investigating the reported pay-offs. She picked out several as visitors to the massage parlor.

At the same time, Maj. Thompson asked her if she would agree to take a lie detector test and to sign a statement in regard to the identification she made. Miss Cloin told a Post-Dispatch reporter. She said she refused to do either without consulting her attorney.

Miss Cloin was interviewed yesterday by Maj. Thompson and a member of the circuit attorney's staff prior to her appearance before the circuit court grand jury, which heard 12 witnesses.

Among the witnesses were Werner A. Lytz, former husband of Mrs. June Lytz, a Negro delivery boy who called at the North Theresa establishment known as June's Massage Parlor; a carpenter employed by Mrs. Lytz, and six women who were associated with disorderly houses.

Testimony was also given by Christine Krout, arrested frequently as an operator of a bawdy house, and from Ulrich Brugger, a tavern owner at Boyle and Chouteau avenues.

Mrs. Krout was an important figure in the notorious Muehchen baby hoax 20 years ago. The mother of one of the babies in that case stayed at the Krout home before and after her confinement. Mrs. Krout also testified for Anna Ware in the unwed mother's successful legal efforts to get back her child.

Mrs. Nellie Muehchen had obtained possession of the child which she attempted to pass off as her own in efforts to exact payments from the putative father.

Brugger has provided authorities with information regarding an establishment operated by

Mrs. Lytz at the northeast corner of Boyle and Chouteau, across from his tavern.

He said he was convinced from the large number of visitors that Mrs. Lytz's place was a disorderly house. He also recalled that Patrolman Karl Schottler often would use his tavern as a vantage point to watch the establishment.

As disclosed by the Post-Dispatch, Schottler planned a raid on the house in 1932 but was informed that "downtown said the place couldn't be touched."

One purpose of bringing Pauline Cloin and Mrs. Lytz's former husband before the grand jury yesterday was to determine if they could furnish names of women who worked for the brothel operator, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Because of the character of the witnesses, the circuit attorney's office is seeking corroborative evidence to support any statements obtained in the investigation.

In the absence of Dowd and Bruntrager, the grand jury investigation has been handled by Assistant Circuit Attorney Henry J. Fredericks, aided by Frederick Mayer, another assistant circuit attorney.

After yesterday's session, the grand jury recessed until Tuesday at 2 p.m., when it is expected to resume its pay-off inquiry.

Federal tax liens for a total of $18,823 were filed by the Internal Revenue Service today against Miss Cloin, who was served yesterday with a notice of a jeopardy assessment of that amount.

The liens were for allegedly unpaid taxes, interest and penalties for 1951 through 1953. Amounts sought from Miss Cloin and the years involved are: 1951 — $7907, 1952 — $2297, 1953 — $8624.

Miss Cloin has filed a replevin suit in an attempt to obtain $14,335 in cash found hidden in Mrs. Lytz's establishment on North Theresa after her death. The Cloin woman contends she got about $7000 as her share from the sale of a tavern. The remainder of the $14,335 represents chiefly her savings over several years, she said.

six-lane highway at the busiest time of the day.

Cars screeched to a stop, horns blared, and bumpers smashed against each other.

Unperturbed, Molotov crossed the street, walked back south a few blocks, and then climbed into his limousine.

In the meantime, he had held an impromptu interview with a Chicago Sun-Times reporter who had picked up a knowledge of Russian at Yale University.

The reporter, Pat McGrady Jr., trotted along beside Molotov during his walk and shot questions as "When do you expect to retire?" and "Have you ever heard of a Molotov cocktail?"

How Interview Went.

The interview went something like this:

McGrady: Do you think peace will come in forthcoming East-West meetings?

Molotov: I have just arrived. I cannot answer now.

McGrady: Do you like the stockyards? How about the smell?

Molotov: It is not unpleasant. I remember reading Upton Sinclair's "The Jungle" some time ago.

McGrady: When do you expect to retire?

Molotov: Next question. (A pause) you say you have a pretty lake. What makes it so pretty?

McGrady: Well, you can't see the other side. The skyline view is nice.

Molotov: Your Russian could stand sharpening. You need a larger vocabulary.

McGrady: "That's what I was thinking. (Another pause) How about a Moscow visa?"

Molotov: Here's your man—see Zarubin.

McGrady: Well, how about it, Mr. Zarubin?

Zarubin: You will have to write to the embassy. We will answer you.

McGrady: Mr. Molotov, Moscow said on May day that the United States invented the Iron Curtain. When you sailed into New York harbor, did you bump into it?

Molotov: I was not looking for it.

McGrady: You were in New York during a civil defense drill Wednesday. Does Moscow have a similar system—that is, periodical alerts?

Molotov: In Moscow we live in peace.

McGrady: Have you ever heard of a Molotov cocktail?

Molotov: That is a new one for me.

McGrady: How does American vodka shape up in comparison to Russian vodka?

Molotov: I should not like to offer a comparison.

McGrady: How about a Coke?

Molotov: No, I don't want one.

Where did you learn your Russian?

McGrady: At Yale University.

Molotov: You need some more words.

$152,471 UNDER LAST YEAR

The Webster Groves City Council approved last night a budget of $1,180,950 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, a decrease of $152,471 from the total appropriated last year.

The city spent $401,000 on bond issue projects last year, and is budgeting expenditures of $19,000 this year. Increases in salaries of 6.9 per cent for all city employees were the major increased appropriations.

The council also gave preliminary approval to a tax levy of $1.21 per $100 assessed property valuation for the current year.

City Manager H. C. McClintock stated that if assessed valuations are increased by an anticipated order from the state tax commission later this summer, the tax rate will be reduced in proportion.

103-YEAR-OLD HOME BEING

RAZED ON S. TWELFTH ST.

A 103-year-old house at 1842 South Twelfth street, one of the first residences to be built in the area, is being razed to make way for an outdoor advertising project, it was learned today.

Dr. William G. Swekosky, dentist whose hobby is the study of the history of old St. Louis buildings, said the house was built in 1852 by Dr. Lawrence Auler, whose son, grandson and great-grandson, all physicians, lived there in turn until the place was sold in 1894.

It was purchased by John Benhensky and in 1909 became the property of his son, Frank Benhensky, who sold it this year to an advertising company.

WILLIAM A. STOCK GETS 6 MONTHS AS TAX EVADER

Undertaker Fined $10,000 — Failed to Pay $12,624 He Owed to U.S.

William A. Stock, St. Louis undertaker, was sentenced to six months imprisonment and fined $10,000 today by United States District Judge Roy W. Harper for evasion of $12,624 in federal income taxes for the years 1947 through 1950.

He received a sentence of six months and a fine of $2500 on each of the four counts for each of the years, the sentences to run concurrently.

Stock's attorney, Donald Gunn, asked for leniency and probation because of an enlarged heart and high blood pressure from which he said Stock was suffering.

"I am being lenient because of your age and the co-operation you have given the Government," Judge Harper told the defendant.

Stock was found guilty last May 27 by Judge Harper after waiving a jury. An internal revenue agent testified at the trial that Stock's income taxes for the four years should have totaled $19,750 but that he paid only $7126.

It was pointed out by Judge Harper at that time that the defendant had understated his income for the period by $50,103 and also had failed to report interest and dividends at the same time.

In a stipulation of facts agreed to by Stock and the prosecution, it was disclosed that the undertaker kept two records of receipts from his undertaking business.

Stock, 71 years old, lives at 4397 McPherson avenue and operates undertaking establishments at 2117 East Grand avenue and on Brentwood boulevard near Clayton road in Clayton.

TRAFFIC TICKET TWINS TOTAL UP $5000 — IN FINES

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Traffic cops spent years figuring this one out, but $5000 in fines were handed out when they did. They began issuing summonses back in 1947 on a car owned by a 5-foot, 1-inch brunette, weight, 135 pounds, name, Mrs. Dana Miller.

As the tickets mounted—86 in the eight years—they began looking for the woman, Saul J. Allen, the Traffic Bureau head, would get a report she was seen in a certain neighborhood at 2 p.m. yesterday. Then he would get another report she was seen at 2 p.m. yesterday miles away.

Allen is a stubborn man, however, and today the brunette Mrs. Miller stood in court. With her was another brunette, Mrs. Sonia Shay of Carmel, N.Y.—her twin sister.

Mrs. Miller was fined a record $4300; Mrs. Shay, who had a mere 14 tickets on her car was fined $700.

HOUSE APPROVES $516,000,000 FOR RIVERS, HARBORS

It Restores All Committee Cuts in President's Request and Then Adds $80,000,000.

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—The House rolled the pork barrel yesterday and added $80,000,000 to a bill calling for $436,000,000 worth of reclamation, flood control and navigation projects.

Pork barrel projects are local ones which Congressmen frequently consider as important for political reasons as for the improvements involved.

In revolt against cuts imposed by its Appropriations Committee, the House restored to a public works appropriation bill every dollar originally requested in President Eisenhower's budget. Then it added a few more projects for good measure.

The action was taken in adopting two amendments to the bill late yesterday. One added $32,220,000 to a $113,821,000 committee recommendation for construction by the Bureau of Reclamation. The other added $47,732,000 to a $322,262,800 construction fund for the Army Engineers.

Senate Has Been Generous. The bill now goes to the Senate, which in recent years invariably has allowed more for reclamation and rivers and harbors work than the House.

Representative John Taber (Rep.), New York, and other committee members protested the amendments would give the engineers and Reclamation Bureau too much money for budgeted projects. They said the bureau admitted to having $12,000,000 in unspent funds, and the engineers to having $30,000,000.

But Representative William H. Natcher (Dem.), Kentucky, said the money would allow work on projects "vital in every section of the country." Natcher, who offered the amendment restoring engineer funds, said the projects proposed had been carefully screened both by the engineers themselves and by the Budget Bureau.

The plan for blanket restorations apparently was devised yesterday in a caucus of Congressmen from affected districts. Representative Overton Brooks (Dem.), Louisiana, a power in the unofficial Rivers and Harbors Congress, reported such a caucus had been held.

Separate Amendments.

In separate amendments, the House also allowed $900,000 for work on the Dardanelles dam in Oklahoma, and $25,000 for the Marina del Rey harbor at Venice, Calif., and $68,000 was earmarked for plans for the upper Iowa river project.

A committee-approved item of $1,000,000 for flood control work in East St. Louis, Ill., and vicinity was boosted to $1,285,000. The House overrode committee recommendations and added $4,210,000 to funds for the lower Mississippi and its tributaries, increasing the total for this item to $50,885,000.

It also refused to include a prohibition against use of a $7,500,000 item to resume construction of the controversial Tuttle Creek dam in Kansas.

By the Associated Press.

The House action drew a loud protest from Representative Davis (Rep.), Wisconsin, member of the Appropriations Committee.

"All the things that have been said about log-rolling and pork barrel are true," he told his colleagues. "A rump gathering of Congressmen . . . decided to undo everything the committee has done."

"I am surprised," he said, "at those from the Mississippi Valley who say 'you support my project and I'll support yours.'"

Representative Rabaut (Dem.), Michigan, chairman of the subcommittee which handled the bill, likewise called the House action "a perfect example of 'you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours.'"

SIX IN CHINESE JUNK SAIL FROM JAPAN FOR AMERICA

YOKOSUKA, Japan, June 17 (AP)—Six men—an American and five Chinese—left for San Francisco today aboard an ancient Chinese sailing junk. They confidently predicted their craft would cross the Pacific in 45 days—"or maybe a little longer."

The American, Calvin Mehler of Fresno, Calif., is on leave without pay from his post as vice-consul in Taipei, Formosa.

The 78-foot junk Free China left Keelung, Formosa, April 16 and limped into Tokyo Bay May 13. Between those dates, it had been towed back to Formosa once and helped into Naha Bay, Okinawa. Japan was an unscheduled stop.

PRESIDENT SIGNS MONEY BILL FOR INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

EMERGENCY WHITE HOUSE, Operation Alert, June 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill appropriating $317,573,627 to run the Interior Department in the fiscal year starting July 1.

This is $3,050,000 more than the President had requested in his budget.

TURK GENERAL IN YUGOSLAVIA

BELGRADE, June 17 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Ihsan Seref Dura, chief of the planning section of the Turkish general staff, arrived today for talks with the Yugoslav general staff.

The talks, within the framework of Yugoslav-Greek-Turkish military alliance, are aimed at establishing co-ordination in military planning.

BOSTON BLUNDERS FILL BEACH WAGON WITH TROUBLES

BOSTON, June 17 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Boardman of Manchester came to Boston on a shopping trip yesterday. She parked her beach wagon on Newbury street and went about her shopping. She returned to the beach wagon, deposited her purchases and went off again for more shopping.

When she returned to the beach wagon the second time, the first bundles were missing. Philosophically, Mrs. Boardman retraced her steps and bought duplicates of the missing articles.

She placed those in the beach wagon and drove off toward home.

In the Charleston district she discovered she wasn't driving her own beach wagon. She had somebody else's and—unknown to her—police had listed it as a stolen car.

Mrs. Boardman drove back to Boston and found her own beach wagon with the first purchases she had made.

The confused beach wagon situation was straightened out—but Mrs. Boardman wound up with two of everything she wanted only one of.

SINGAPORE STRIKE APPEARS FAILING, HUNDREDS ON JOBS

SINGAPORE, June 17 (UP)—Hundreds of workers returned to their jobs today and it appeared that a general strike called by Communist-dominated unions might fizzle.

Many more workers were reported to have asked their employers for guarantees of police protection in hope of returning to work. These included drivers and conductors of the Singapore Traction Co., the city's main public transport. Observers said the transport strike would collapse if the traction workers return.

These developments left fewer than 16,000 workers still idle on the sixth day of the strike.

NEW PATRONAGE PLAN FOR G.O.P. AIMED AT WELSH

Committeeman Would Lose His Power to 7-
Member Group—Meeting June 26.

By HERBERT A. TRASK State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

lican National Committeeman A.
D. (Bud) Welsh of all his federal patronage powers in Missouri will be made at the June 26 special meeting of the Republican State Committee at Columbia, it was learned today.

The committee will be asked to create a new seven-member party patronage group, with power to override Welsh and Mrs. Estelle Tanner of Jefferson City, the national committee woman, in the distribution of federal appointments to Missouri Republicans.

Copies of a resolution proposing the new patronage handling system were received today by members of the G.O.P. state committee. The copies had been sent out by Perry Compton, chairman of the state committee, along with the official notice of the June 26 committee meeting.

The new effort to by-pass Welsh and Mrs. Tanner in the distribution of political plums is expected to add considerable fuel to the bitter intra-party feud between the national committee members and Compton.

Move for Mattingly?

The Welsh-Tanner supporters charge the purpose of the resolution is again to place control of the Republican party in Missouri in the hands of Barak T.
Mattingly of St. Louis, former state G.O.P. chairman and national committeeman, who is a close political adviser of the El-senhower Administration.

Erwin F. Vetter of Brentwood, member of the state committee, said he would vigorously oppose the resolution at the Columbia meeting. He declared that the proposed plan would be "extremely detrimental to the party in Missouri."

The resolution calls for establishment of a special committee to pass on patronage matters whenever Welsh, Mrs.
Tanner and Compton are unable to agree on recommendations for appointments to fill federal jobs in the state.

Members of the patronage group would be Roscoe C.
Hobbs of St. Louis, chairman of the Republican state finance committee; William G. Moore Jr., of St. Louis, treasurer of the state committee; Miss Anne Richards of Brookfield, vice-chairman of the committee;
Miss Harriet Combs of Kansas City, committee secretary;
Compton, Welsh and Mrs. Tanner.

The Welsh-Tanner supporters claim that the committee could outvote the national committee members in passing on patronage matters. All federal appointments in Missouri would be handled in this manner except postmasterships in the Second and Seventh Congressional Districts.

The right to recommend appointments for these post office jobs would be left to Missouri's two Republican Representatives in Congress, Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves, Second district, and the veteran Dewey Short, Seventh district.

Compton said the resolution was proposed to "speed up patronage and restore party harmony." He said he hoped that Welsh and Mrs. Tanner would "go along with it."

However, Welsh and Mrs. Tanner plan to attend the meeting and they are expected to make a hard fight to prevent its adoption.

Backers of Resolution.
Compton said the resolution was proposed by a committee he named. The members were Richard Erickson, Kansas City; M.
Stanley Ginn, Columbia, and H.
K. Wangellin, Poplar Bluff, members of the state G.O.P. committee.

Compton and Mattingly forces on the state committee unsuccessfully attempted to put through a similar resolution at a meeting of the state G.O.P. committee in Kansas City last February. After a fiery debate, the action on that proposal was

Nude of Marlon Brando's Fiancee Is Causing Traffic Jams in Paris

Portrait in Store Window —Offers From Five
'Bashful' Americans, None From Actor.

PARIS, June 17 (UP)—The full-length nude portrait of Marlon Brando's girl friend caused traffic jams in busy Place de l'Opera today but failed to arouse any interest from the famous Hollywood actor.

Owner Jean Kisling said he had received no offers from Marlon Brando as yet. He added that five other "bashful" Americans made bids during the first day the painting was exhibited in a department store window on fashionable Boulevard des Italiens.

Kisling said two of the offers were from New York television men. He declined to identify them.

The painting by Kisling's late father, Moise Kisling, was an immediate sensation when it was discovered in the bustling tourist section of Paris yesterday.

It shows Brando's 20-year-old fiancee, Josiane Mariani-Bereng-er, stretched out on a red divan.

The fact that the figure is entirely unclothed is hurting the sale of the portrait, owner Kisling said.

"The Americans are bashful about buying paintings of completely nude girls because of their relatives and friends," he said.

Kisling hastened to add that it was not because Americans have anything against fully-exposed nudes.

"They love them," he said.
"But they are afraid of gossip in their home towns."

Kisling said he agreed to display the undraped portrait only because he wanted his father's work to be appreciated by Parisians. He is asking 3,000-000 francs or $8571.

The painter's widow, Mme.
Renee Kisling, said Josiane's mother had not been told about postponed until the next committee meeting.

Another proposal to by-pass the feuding Republican leaders on patronage matters has been made by John J. Robinson of Maysville, member of the state committee. He proposed that a five-man committee be named to act on appointments when the three top leaders were "unable to agree."

The state committee also may act at the Columbia meeting on a recommendation of a group

Mme. Mariani-Berenger, wife of a French fisherman, might not like the idea of its being dis-

Mme. Kisling said letters from Josiane in the United States in-Brando was still going fine.

The brunette with big eyes met the Oscar-winning movie actor on a trip to America after winning a local beauty contest and becoming a model. She sud-

HEDY LAMARR SAYS $51,000 LOST GEMS HAVE REAPPEARED

HOUSTON, June 17 (AP)— Actress Hedy Lamarr said yesterday that the $51,000 worth of jewels which disappeared from her home here about three weeks ago had reappeared.

Oil man W. Howard Lee, her husband, told police the jewels were found on a recessed set of sewing room shelves yesterday by a seamstress, Mrs. Maurice H. Phears. They were all there, he said, in a satin bag.

Miss Lamarr reported the loss on May 25. She said the gems vanished from a dressing table drawer — within a few hours after she and a maid had "dumped the jewels all out on the floor" of a bedroom, in search for a sorority key.

The loss report set off an intensive investigation, with Miss Lamarr, Lee and their servants being given lie detector tests.

At the time the jewels were reported missing Miss Lamarr searched the house for several hours before calling police. As late as last Tuesday police had made a fruitless search.

The recovered jewels included a $20,500 platinum ring, a platinum bracelet valued at $10,000, a $7000 diamond brooch, $6000 necklace and various gems of lesser value.

PEIPING FOOD TAX REPORTED CANCELED DUE TO FAMINE

HONG KONG, June 17 (UP)—
The Communist newspaper Ta Kung Pao said today Red authorities in Kwangtung province have canceled Peiping's tax of 40 per cent of the food production because of famine in South China.

Ta Kung Pao, in a dispatch from Canton, capital of Kwang-tung, said the food situation there was now "under proper control" though it had been

"tense" since January.

Reports from Red China said lagging production because of the huge government take and drouths and floods had brought famine to at least 150,000,000 persons.

EISENHOWER ASKS FUNDS
FOR POSTAL PAY INCREASEEMERGENCY WHITE HOUSE
June 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday billed Congressfor $156,000,000 to cover the first year's cost of the 8 per cent pay increase the legislators recently voted postal workers.
Asking for this amount for the fiscal year beginning July 1, Mr.
Eisenhower also requested authority for the Post Office Department to transfer $40,000,000 from one fund to another to take care of retroactive aspects of the pay boost. Congress made the increase retroactive to March 1.

EX-FBI MAN PUT ON WHITFIELD
INVESTIGATIONAssigned by Committee to Look Further Into Eisenhower's AEC Nominee.WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)— The Senate Atomic Energy Committee has enlisted the aid of a top congressional sleuth in its investigation of Allen Whitfield, President Eisenhower's nominee to the Atomic Energy Commission.Informal sources disclosed today that former FBI agent Carmine Bellino has been assigned to the atomic committee to work on the Whitfield inquiry.
Bellino is a member of the staff of the Senate Investigating subcommittee.Bellino, a certified public accountant, has figured in many widely-publicized investigations.
He recently concluded a survey of the finances of millionaire captain Harry Lev, who was the central figure in the investigating subcommittee's inquiry into uniform purchases by the armed forces.Estate Under Scrutiny.
Informal sources said that Bellino has been asked by Chairman Clinton P. Anderson (Dem.),
New Mexico, to follow-up the Atomic Energy Committee's survey of an estate in which Whitfield, a Des Moines attorney, was a trustee.Reports circulated at the Capitol, meanwhile, that the Whitfield appointment might be withdrawn—perhaps at Whitfield's own request. These reports were greeted with extreme skepticism in some quarters.One source said a White House liaison man mentioned the possibility that the nomination might be withdrawn during discussions at the Atomic Energy Committee's offices. But another source, equally familiar with the case, said he had seen no indication that the Administration is ready to withdraw it.Informal sources disclosed that Anderson recently sent Whitfield a series of 24 questions relating to the estate of R.
A. Crawford who died in 1937 owning the major interest in a Des Moines bank. Whitfield was a trustee of the estate.Concern Over Public Airing. Anderson has stated that his committee wants to know what happened to Crawford's interest in the bank which was left to his wife for her lifetime and then to a number of philanthropic organizations, including Drake University and an Iowa hospital. Whitfield is reported to have expressed concern that giving the information at a public session might be contrary to the interests of the bank.Bellino, according to informal reports, has been asked to go through the voluminous records in the case, gathered by an Atomic Energy Committee investigator in two trips to Des Moines, and prepare the material for use in hearings on the nomination.The White House announced Whitfield's appointment to the $18,000-a-year post in March.
His nomination was forwarded to the Senate early in April, but the inquiry has delayed
Senate confirmation.1320 N. KINGSHIGHWAY

Kefauver Group Looking Into Juvenile Delinquency Also Calls
'Smut Mill' Operators.

LOS ANGELES, June 17 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe's nude calendar pose becomes an exhibit today as the Kefauver subcommittee investigating juvenile delinquency winds up its stay in Los Angeles.

The Senate investigators get into the art and literature phase of the three day hearings. Subpoenas have been issued to a dozen operators of what committee members term "smut mills." All are expected to be unfriendly witnesses.

Among the exhibits will be a mail order advertisement for "Marilyn Monroe playing cards" featuring Miss Monroe's undraped torso.

The subcommittee yesterday heard a parade of big movie executives defend Hollywood's contribution to culture, despite charges that recent movies have been laden with sex and violence.

Dore Schary, Jack L. Warner, Y. Frank Freeman, Harry Joe Brown, George Murphy and Ronald Reagan all appeared.

Blames Parents.
Freeman, head of Paramount Studios, snapped back at committee counsel James H. Robo when stung by one question.

"Drinking, liquor, divorce—we didn't start them," he said. "When you wind it all up you'll find it comes right back to the rearing of the child in the home."

Jack L. Warner of the Warner Bros. said much of the blame for juvenile delinquency must be laid to the prohibition era and the world wars.

George Murphy defended his studio's production of "Blackboard Jungle."

"I had misgivings when I read the book," Murphy testified, "but when we made it into a movie I was proud. The story was not overdrawn and it focused national attention on a serious educational problem."

Reviewer Critical.
William Moorhead, who reviews films for 50 Catholic papers in this country and Canada, charged before the subcommittee that many recent films were lax morally.

Commenting on sex and violence in films, he said: "I doubt if it can fail to evoke imitative behavior by young people."

He declared that a criminal named Henry Ford McCracken "wasn't attacked and murdered," a young girl after seeing "Johnny Belinda," in which a deaf mute (Jane Wyman) was assaulted.

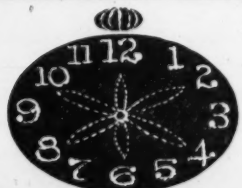

Moorhead criticized these recent films: "Son of Sinbad" ("sheer exhibitionism"); "Not As a Stranger" ("a scene depicted the symbolic connection of animal urges and the sexual urges of two humans"); "Seven Year Itch" ("I'd scratch it—chastity and fidelity are not to be laughed at"); "Five Against the House" ("a 'thrill' holdup"); "Kiss Me Deadly" ("Mickey Spillane trash"); "Cell 2455, Death Row" ("depiction of a living criminal"); and "Big House USA" ("child kidnapping a dominant theme").

Psychiatrist Frederick J. Hacker testified that from his studies in juvenile delinquency he doubted that movies contributed to a recent increase in sexual crimes among juveniles.

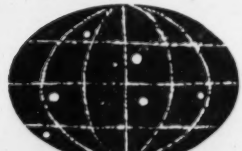

LAST OF QUADRUPLETS DIES

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 17 (AP)—The last of the quadruplets born Wednesday to a New Haven woman died yesterday afternoon.

Two of the four boys died Wednesday night. A third died shortly before 2 a.m. The 39-year-old mother, Mrs. Kenneth Barnes, is in fair condition.

ALTON MAN GETS 99 YEARS, WIFE 30 FOR MURDERS

Both Plead Guilty of Killing Couple After Robbery — Arrests Made in Texas.

James Olive of Alton was sentenced to 99 years in prison and his wife, Laura, was sentenced to 30 years yesterday in circuit court at Edwardsville after they pleaded guilty of murdering a young man and his fiancée at Alton last month.

The victims were Joseph Greene, 23, and Dorothy Ray Browder, 20. They were Negroes, as are the Olives. Olive is 25 and his wife is 18. They also had used the name Oliver. Greene and Miss Browder were beaten and shot to death May 15. Their bodies were found at an unused rock crusher plant. They had been robbed of $115. Green's automobile was found the next day near Springfield, Mo.

The Olives were suspected immediately when Alton police learned they had been with Greene and Miss Browder shortly before the shooting, and had left home hurriedly. They were arrested May 27 at Brownsville, Tex.

Judge Quinten Spivey pronounced the sentences after signed confessions were introduced. Each defendant was given similar sentences for each death, to run concurrently.

Olive and his wife had been to Mexico prior to their arrests at Brownsville.

Teacher and Friends

BOY, 10, INSERTS AD IN NEWSPAPER TO THANK TEACHER

CINCINNATI, June 17 (AP)—George Biedenbach, 10 years old, telephoned the Cincinnati Enquirer yesterday to insert an advertisement thanking his school teacher. Report cards, incidentally, are due today.

George, a fourth-grade pupil, said three of his schoolmates, were joining in the tribute to Mrs. Lucille S. Webb.

"We don't know how to express our feelings and thanks," George's proposed advertisement read. "We can never repay what you have given this year. Thank you so much."

George told the ad-taker—a reporter—that the teacher "learned us our arithmetic and our spelling, brought our reading up terrifically and brought our arithmetic up tremendously." The feelings of the four schoolmates were expressed free of charge as a news story in the Enquirer.

PEIPING RADIO REPORTS ARREST OF SABOTEURS

TOKYO, June 17 (AP)—The Peiping radio said tonight an anti-revolutionary group had been arrested in Manchuria for sabotage.

The Chinese language broadcast, heard here, said the group had infiltrated a government forestry branch in Kirin province, in the eastern part of Manchuria, and used its supervisory powers to cause fires, destroy trains and carry out other sabotage.

The broadcast said arrests were made by provincial security police. It did not say how many men were arrested, when, or what had happened to them.

URGES PUNISHMENT TO FIT THE OFFENDER

Chief Justice Irving Ben Cooper Urges Steps to Avoid Making Repeaters.

Criminal punishment should fit the offender rather than the crime, a widely known jurist said here today.

Chief Justice Irving Ben Cooper of the Court of Special Sessions in New York City made the point in a speech at a meeting of the Missouri Judicial Conference, at Hotel Statler.

By fitting the sentence to the person after a study of his background and potentialities, many first offenders can be prevented from becoming repeaters, he said.

"After interminable hours of listening to charges and counter-charges, quibbling and evasions, painstaking establishment of self-evident facts, and the final officially established legal description of an act, judges often find themselves merely at the beginning of what they should know in order to act professionally," Judge Cooper added.

A pre-sentence investigation should be a routine matter regardless of the cost, he said, for "lack of it costs millions in money and untold years of human suffering and community apprehension."

The speaker said probation has "demonstrated itself a valid instrument of moral re-education in a very considerable portion of cases in which it is used." Courts must be counted among the most important instruments of moral regeneration, he said. Therefore, he said, "Public opinion must be educated to expect courts to look behind the criminal act, to the human or social situation which it reflects and of which it is a symptom, and to provide the needed staffs to do this."

He said parole authorities estimate that half of this country's jail population of 540,000 could have been effectively dealt with on probation, at a great saving in money since the per capita cost of probation is $120 a year, and the cost of imprisonment is $1500.

STEVENSON'S SON 'WON'T BE SURPRISED' IF FATHER RUNS

HONOLULU, June 17 (UP)—Adlai Stevenson's son, John, says he wouldn't be surprised if his father runs for President again in 1956.

John, who left here last night on the way to Japan where he will join the Moral Rearmament mission, said he did not know if his father would be a presidential candidate next year, "but it won't surprise me if he is."

$246,005,672 AID BILLS SIGNED BY GOV. DONNELLY

Funds Provided for Aged, Unemployed, Dependent Children and Disabled.

By the Post-Dispatch Jefferson City Correspondent
JEFFERSON CITY, June 17—
A state welfare and direct aid program of $246,005,672 for the aged, unemployed, dependent children and disabled, in the two years beginning July 1, was approved late yesterday by Gov.
Phil M. Donnelly. He made no vetoes or appropriation cuts.

This fund authorization for all activities of the State Division of Welfare, from both state and federal money, is $9,670,857 greater than the $236,334,815 authorized for the current two-year period.

The amount appropriated for welfare alone is greater than the $231,391,481 appropriated for all state governmental operations of the state in the biennium of 1939-40, 16 years ago.

The new appropriation includes $91,108,078 in state funds and $154,897,594 from the federal social security program.

The welfare activities include old-age pensions, aid to dependent children, direct relief to unemployable persons, aid to disabled, care of homeless children and child welfare services.

The Governor approved also appropriations of $16,824,149 for operation of the State Division of Health in the 1955-1957 periods. This is $919,851 less than the current budget.

Donnelly recalled he had urged the Legislature to pass an old-age pension lien and recovery law, which he said, would have saved the state about $5-750,000 in two years. The bill was not passed.

The Governor signed another fund bill appropriating $45,442-917 for the State Department of Revenue in the new two-year period. This department collects all state taxes, funds and fees.

This is an increase of $5,389,793 over the current biennium.

THREE ANSWERING HOLDUP ALARM HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Police Cpl. George Fritsche of Central District was seriously injured and two other police officers were bruised yesterday when the car in which they were answering a false holdup alarm at United Bank & Trust Co., 600 North Broadway, collided with a tow truck at Eighth and Walnut streets.

Cpl. Fritsche was driving east in Walnut with his emergency lights flashing and his horn sounding when the tow truck, driven by Marvin L. Sherwood, a service station operator, 8422
Stanford avenue, University City, entered the intersection from the north.

The police car skidded about 35 feet before striking the truck.
Cpl. Fritsche was taken to City Hospital suffering from brain concussion and a spinal injury.
Sgt. Charles Mikusch and Patrolman Otto Vogts were treated and released. Defective wiring was believed responsible for setting off the holdup alarm at the bank.

SINGAPORE CHINESE JAILED IN DEATH OF CORRESPONDENT

SINGAPORE, June 17 (AP)— Police investigating the fatal beating of American news correspondent Gene D. Symonds jailed a Chinese truck driver today on charges of being a member of the mob believed responsible for the attack.

At his preliminary arraignment, the truck driver, Ong Ah Too, was ordered to stand trial
June 24.

Symonds, a native of Dayton, Ohio, was beaten to death May 12 during riots that accompanied a bus workers' strike here. The attack was made while

ST. LOUIS NAVY RECRUITERS GET MOTOR SAFETY AWARD

The Secretary of the Navy Award for motor vehicle safety during 1954 was presented to the Navy's St. Louis Recruiting Area yesterday, calling attention to the fact that the 13 vehicles of the organization traveled 212,612 miles last year without an accident.

Lt. Comdr. J. L. Tilden, officer in charge, received the award from Capt. I. H. Cammarn, inspector of the Fourth Navy Recruiting Area, who made the presentation on behalf of the Secretary of the Navy. The St.
Louis Recruiting Area received a similar award for 1951.

MAPLEWOOD BOY, 12, DROWNS IN MERAMEC

Edwin J. Kley Jr. Loses Life While Swimming Near St. Clair, Mo.

Edwin J. Kley Jr., 12 years old, whose parents live at 7433 Elm avenue, Maplewood, drowned yesterday in the Meramec river near St. Clair, Mo. He and four other boys, all members of a Boy Scout troop, had been on an outing there since Tuesday.

Edwin disappeared after swimming out into the middle of the stream at one of its many swift places, his companions told James Zumwalt, assistant chief of the St. Clair volunteer fire department. St. Clair is in Franklin county, about 45 miles southwest of St. Louis.

Zumwalt and other members of the department recovered the body with drag hooks about a half-hour after the boy sank below the surface. The body was lodged against a trot line, a company.

EFFORT TO LIFT SUNKEN BRITISH SUBMARINE FAILS

New Attempt to Be Made —Disaster Laid to Explosion of Torpedo Propellant.

PORTLAND, England, June 17 (UP)—An attempt to lift the sunken British submarine Sidon to the surface with compressed air failed today.

The submarine sank yesterday with a loss of 13 lives after an explosion in the torpedo room. Royal Navy divers reported that the explosion which sent the 1000-ton submarine to the bottom of Portland harbor had punctured the conning tower.

Two navy lifting vessels moved into position over the submarine, lying under 30 feet of water. They will attempt to haul it to the surface with cables.

Divers worked in relays through the day and night, first probing for signs of life within the shattered hull and later closing hatches and sealing valves blown open by the blast.

The conning tower leak was discovered shortly after dawn today and the attempt to "blow" the submarine to the surface was abandoned.

The Admiralty laid the disaster to the explosion of the powerful propellant that fires the torpedoes from the tube. Three officers and 10 crewmen, including a Canadian, were trapped within the submarine when it plunged beneath the water.

(The Associated Press said the Navy announced that 56 persons—crew, passengers and trainees—were on board when the blast occurred.)

The 217-foot Sidon was lying alongside the depot ship Maidstone taking on torpedoes for practice firing exercises at sea. Crewmen scrambled out of the smoking, quivering vessel and dived into the sea.

About 30 men managed to escape in the 20 minutes before the Sidon sank. They were picked up by surface craft. Eight were hospitalized with minor injuries.

The men believed entombed in the hull included five rescuers who boarded the submarine from the mother ship immediately after the blast. The Sidon was tied up with four sister-ships alongside the depot ship when the torpedo exploded.

EAST GERMAN RED DELEGATION GOING TO BIG FOUR TALKS

BERLIN, June 17 (AP)—The Communist East German government says it is sending a delegation to the top-level Big Four conference in Geneva next month.

In a statement issued last night, the Red government demanded that delegates from both parts of divided Germany be allowed to present their views on the German problem to the East-West meeting.

Information Bureau West, a private West Berlin service, said it learned from East German Foreign Ministry sources that Premier Otto Grotewohl might head the Soviet zone delegation. The East Berlin radio said earlier that a "representative delegation" would be sent to the talks.

HEARING ON WRIT TO BLOCK COUNTY POLICE ON JUNE 27

A hearing on an order to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be granted to restrain the new St. Louis county police department from taking over the law enforcement duties of the sheriff and constables July 1 was continued yesterday until June 27.

The injunction was sought by the Village of Edmondson which contended the shift in law enforcement would deprive it of police protection it has been receiving from the sheriff. David L. Millar, attorney for the board of police commissioners, said a quo warranto proceeding to test the legality of the new department was pending in the State Supreme Court and that a ruling was expected soon.

Circuit Judge Douglas L. C. Jones granted the continuance, directing the police board to make its return on the show cause order at Clayton on June 27.

Peron Used Divide-and-Conquer Technique Against Own People In His Rise to Dictatorship

He Decided 7 Months Ago to Strike at Last Possible Source of Opposition to His Rule, the Catholic Church — Learned Trade From Mussolini.

By B. J. CUTLER

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch, NEW YORK, June 17.

AFTER 10 YEARS as dictator of Argentina, Juan Domingo Peron seven months ago decided to strike at the last possible source of opposition to his absolute rule—the Catholic Church. As his rubber-stamp congress ground out anti-church decrees and his police-state machinery moved to put them in effect, it became clear that armed revolt would break out in the 95 per cent Catholic country.

That revolt against Peronism erupted Thursday. It followed a week of Peron-inspired riots against church groups, mass arrests of Catholic clergy and laity, the sudden deportation of two ranking prelates, and Peron's excommunication by the Vatican.

Why Peron would persecute the Catholic church in a Catholic nation is a question that is answered by his background. Unlike conventional dictators who use the technique of divide-and-conquer against foreign enemies, Peron used it against his own people.

Remade Labor Movement. He split the labor movement and remade it as a creature; he set class against class with his talent for demagoguery; he purged potential strong men from the army from which he himself arose; he made "disrespect" of Peron a crime and drove such "criminals" from politics and the judiciary.

Finally he noticed the stirrings of a Christian democratic movement, encouraged by some young parish priests, and determined to use his tested remedy for any political opposition: hit it with massive force and strangle it at birth.

Accompanied by tirades that the church was plotting to undermine his government, Peron passed laws setting up civil divorce for the first time in Argentina's history. He legalized prostitution, suppressed the mandatory teaching of the Catholic religion in schools, advanced a bill to tax church property, and ordered a constitutional assembly to disestablish the church as the official state church.

By an ironic footnote to history, the privilege of obligatory teaching of religion in schools was granted to the church by Peron himself shortly after he assumed the presidency. He also had been pleased to accept in 1947 the Grand Cross of the Order of Pope Pius IX, the second ranking pontifical decoration, from Pope Pius XII.

Born on Farm in 1895. The Argentine strong man born Oct. 8, 1895, on a farm owned by his father, a laborer and small landowner of Italian descent, near Lobos in Buenos Aires province. A hard worker, sports enthusiast and champion fencer, he was graduated from the National Military Academy in 1913 as a sub-lieutenant.

After filling various military posts in a competent but not outstanding manner, he was sent in 1939 to Italy where he studied mountain troops and developed an interest in Benito Mussolini's political philosophy. He also traveled in Germany, France, Spain, Hungary and Albania and returned to Argentina in 1942.

The military coup of June 4, 1943, that overthrew President Ramon S. Castillo gave Peron his chance at power. As an obscure member of "the colonels' clique," Peron refused all offers of high political office and instead asked to head a new department as secretary of labor and welfare.

Peron and his fellow colonels, most of them firm supporters of fascism and the Axis powers, picked and dismissed presidents at will. The first, Gen. Arturo Rawson, lasted only a few days because he was considered too pro-Allied.

As labor boss, Peron made an all-out appeal for the support of the poor working man who had been neglected by the country's aristocratic landowners. He boosted wages, gave social security benefits, shortened working hours, granted vacations and created job severance pay. He meanwhile picked up the

PERON-CHURCH WAR INEVITABLE, SAYS GAINZA PAZ

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, former publisher of the Buenos Aires newspaper La Prensa, said yesterday a clash between the Peron government and the Catholic Church had been inevitable.

Gainza Paz, whose newspaper was confiscated by the Argentine government in 1951, said there are many reasons for the government's persecution of the church. But the "common denominator," he said, is the fact that a totalitarian regime "cannot accept any other organization not totally subordinated to the state."

Gainza Paz said the "last bulwark of freedom" in Argentina has been the "freedom of religion." The fact that the church would not submit to the Peron government made it obvious that "sooner or later there had to be a clash," he added.

He said he knew of no specific connection between the revolt and the recent persecution of the church, but he could "only assume it must have been a determining factor."

posts of minister of war and the president and became the actual power behind the military government. During this time Nazi spy rings operated freely in Argentina with tacit government support. It was only after the strongest Allied economic pressure that Argentina "declared" war on the Axis, although this act was never ratified by its congress.

With hard work, shrewdness and the power to make economic concessions, Peron smashed the old trade unions and replaced them with the General Confederation of Labor, headed by hand-picked Peronists.

Imprisoned by Colleagues. His colleagues in the colonel's group finally grew frightened at his immense power and, on Oct. 9, 1945, imprisoned him on the island of Martin Garcia in the River Plate. This was their biggest mistake.

Rioting broke out in the capital. Peron, with his powerful labor unions demanded his return. The colonels capitulated and on Oct. 17 Peron addressed hundreds of thousands of "descamisados" (shirtless ones) from the balcony of Casa Rosada, the historic government house.

From that moment on Peron was supreme ruler of Argentina. He resigned the vice presidency and opened his campaign for President. He also married Maria Eva Duarte, a beautiful blonde movie bit player and radio actress who had been his companion for several years.

The United States State Department unwittingly aided Peron's campaign. It issued a "black book" outlining in detail the fascist nature of the military government and its dealings with the Axis. Railing against "Yankee intervention," Peron was swept into office on Feb. 26, 1946.

Eva Peron became, in effect, co-ruler of the nation. Her Eva Peron foundation, financed by "voluntary" contributions from business, labor, minority groups and the general public, operated schools, hospitals, clinics, factories, stores and homes for the old-aged. It became the biggest business in the country.

Killed Press Freedom. Peron systematically wiped out opposition. He jailed and exiled politicians. He packed the courts and bought out, intimidated and killed newspapers. La Prensa, the nation's great independent newspaper, was finally expropriated, ending freedom of the press.

Under Peron, the country set out to become an industrial power. It met some success, but ran short of foreign exchange, suffered from inflation and a lack of production. A historic beef and wheat exporting nation, under Peron it was forced at times to import food.

In international affairs, Argentina barely had an economic friend in the world because of Peron's ruthless price-gouging of hungry Europe after the war. Peron's attempt to set Argentina at the head of a Latin American bloc of like-minded nations has had little success.

Peron's partner, his beloved Evita (diminutive of Eva) died of cancer in 1952. It became the occasion for national mourning and she was almost canonized with cities, streets, parks, schools, hospitals and railroad stations named after her.

Peron, the lonely dictator, the sports fan, the strong man hugging his descamisados about "plots" against him, carried on. After consolidating his power he selected as his opponent the Catholic church which, like Yankees, imperialists, capitalists, oligarchs, Communists, landowners and politicians, is now "plotting" against him.

BRITISH DIPLOMAT IN U.S. GETS TOP SOUTH ASIA POST

SINGAPORE, June 17 (AP)—The minister of the British Embassy in Washington, Sir Robert Scott, is getting his nation's top job in Southeast Asia. He will succeed Malcolm MacDonald as commissioner general for the United Kingdom in Southeast Asia.

MacDonald's office announced today that Scott, a veteran of British diplomatic posts in the Far East, would take over his new duties in late September. MacDonald, 54-year-old son of Britain's first Labor Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, has been named British High Commissioner in India. He has been in Southeast Asia since 1946.

Scott, now 49, joined the diplomatic service in 1927, and has served in Peiping, Shanghai, Canton, Hong Kong and in Singapore as unofficial counselor to both MacDonald and his predecessor, Lord Killearn. As an undersecretary of state at the Foreign Office from 1950 to 1953 he was considered among Britain's top Far Eastern specialists.

Dam Built by American Engineer Still Model For Russia's Planners on Electric Power

Modest by U.S. Standards, It Is Forerunner of Larger Programs.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
ZAPOROZHE, U.S.S.R., June 17.

ONE objective of the Kremlin's fifth Five-Year Program is to increase electric power production in the Soviet Union so that by the end of this year it will be 80 per cent above 1950 production. That this is possible was shown in this old and new city of about 300,000 persons where the first large hydro-electric power plant was built under the supervision of the late Col. Hugh L. Cooper, American engineer, to give first form to Lenin's still repeated slogan, "Communism is Soviet Power Plus Electrification of the Whole Country."

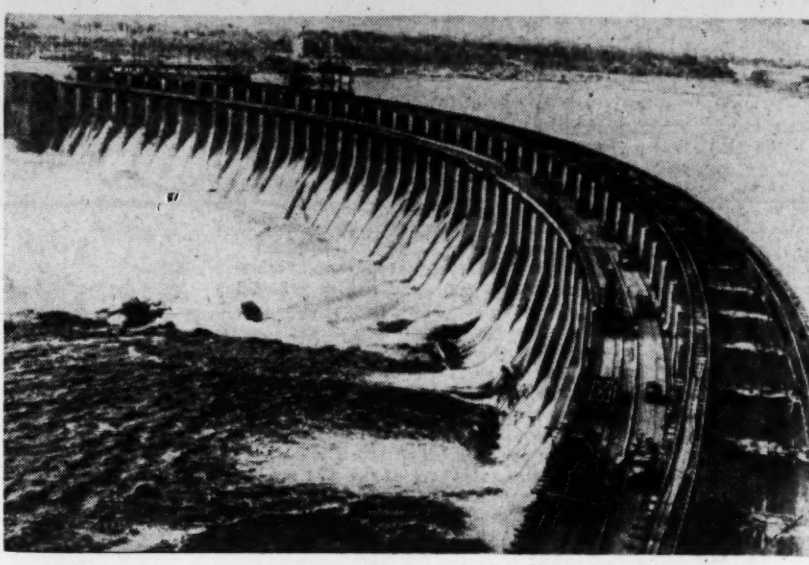

In 1931, with American engineers as my guides, I saw the beginning of this project, called Dniesterstro, which was completed the following year and given the name of Lenin Hydro-electric Station. There were no plants and no homes near the dam site at the time. Col. Cooper, who had built many dams at Kookuk, Ia. Muscle Shoals, Ala., and throughout the world, was skeptical of the grandiose Soviet plan to electrify and industrialize the whole country. It was his technical job, however, to build the best dam possible with materials available.

Nazis Thwarted. He said he had heeded the huge turbines in so much concrete that they were foolproof. When German invaders approached Zaporozhe in World War II the Russians blew up three of the 48 sluices to put the dam out of commission. During the years of occupation, the Germans were unable to put the system back into operation. After the Germans were driven out, it took the Russians three years to rehabilitate the project.

Compared with American projects like the Hoover and Grand Coulee dams, this Russian starter is modest. Its height is only 200 feet and it generates about 200,000 kilowatts as against Hoover's height of 726 feet and capacity of 1,750,000 kilowatts. It has demonstrated, however, what electrification can do for a region and has been the forerunner of numerous vast-larger programs.

In European and Asiatic Russia, as part of the postwar program, the Kremlin is making the Volga the most heavily developed Russian river, with hydro-power of almost 2,000,000 kilowatts at Kuibyshev, 1,700,000 at Stalingrad and other all-purpose dams at Gorky, Molotov and Cheboksary.

While dams are being built, new industrial plants are likewise under construction. American engineers are no longer employed.

A new town is still under construction in Zaporozhe near the dam site. Industries started under the first Five-Year Plan, which began in 1929, are finished and others are coming into being. Power from Lenin station serves the nearby steel plant, largest in Russia, and large non-ferrous metals, chemical dye and electric machinery plants. Power is also shipped everywhere in this region, to Dnepropetrovsk, an industrial city of 700,000, and to the Donets basin to the east where 30 per cent of the nation's coal is mined and 30 per cent of its steel pig iron, 48 per cent of its steel and 35 per cent of its manganese are produced.

Contrast in Construction. The old town with its narrow cobbled streets and pre-revolutionary type houses and the new town with its wide asphalt boulevards, five-story apartments and suburbs offer a striking example of what city planning can do for an industrial region.

One still needed improvement will be a large hotel near the dam. The best hotel in the old city has not a single bathroom and only cold running water in guests rooms. This hotel conforms to the old Communist doctrine by having all rooms at the same price. Three hotels are planned for the two cities.

The dam backs up water for 55 miles and parks are under construction on both banks. Perhaps because many of the inhabitants are industrial workers, apartments appear to be better built than those in Moscow, Stalingrad and Rostov although, by American standards, they are too close together and have little breathing space. One large apartment built in 1949 looks almost new. This is unusual. In the suburbs there are many two- and three-room single homes with small gardens. Allotments are also made for the vegetable gardens of city workers. Posters announce that every worker is entitled to his own garden and newspapers are encouraging this increase of food production. I was told that when new housing developments are planned, homeowners on the site are paid for their properties or have priority for apartments.

The old and new sections seem to have more buildings for culture and rest for workers and more banners and posters than other cities visited. The place abounds in banners seen elsewhere asking for "Peace for the Whole World." In one park was a banner for a "Happy Childhood." The culture and rest clubrooms operated by trade unions of various plants appeared more decorative than functional. Although they had small libraries, reading rooms and theatrical stages, they had few and sometimes no users during daytime visits.

Report on Wage Rates.

The local guide in Zaporozhe was a member of the municipal Soviet. In explaining his lack of knowledge about the dam and surrounding plants, he said he was not an engineer. He asserted that skilled industrial workers averaged about 1500 rubles a month and paid about 70 rubles for monthly rent. At the official rate of exchange of four rubles for a dollar, this would be about $375 in monthly wages and $17.50 for rent. He said a highly skilled workman could make 4500 rubles a month and a skilled bricklayer 2500. The official exchange rate is not an accurate measure. His state-

750,000 N. Viet Nam Refugees Presenting Problem to Saigon

By PRESTON GROVER

SAIGON, June 17 (AP).

IT IS NIGHT, and below my hotel window 400 refugees from Communist North Viet Nam huddle in the rain. It is sticky, smothering hot.

On one side of the street is the big Majestic Hotel, with an orchestra playing. On the other side is a building occupied by shipping and insurance companies. Close to each building is a strip of dry sidewalk protected by the eaves. There huddle the refugees. Only the babies can lie down where it is dry. The grown-ups brace their backs against the wall and pull their legs close up in front of them in ways only orientals can do. But the rain falls steadily on their feet, shins and thighs.

A truck rumbles by, drowning out their occasional low talk. Mostly they are silent, waiting for the dawn when they will begin to dry, and from a street vendor will buy a bowl of rice with a little red vegetable sauce.

Soft Voice. Rarely a baby cries. Sometimes there is a flash of white teeth in a subdued laugh. Their voices, although often high pitched, are soft. In the morning, with the sun, they will begin to be merry.

The patience of the oriental is beyond all western understanding.

These refugees are 90 per cent Roman Catholics. Three quarters of a million of them fled south after the Geneva conference, mostly in French and American ships. They left behind most of what they had because they were afraid life under the Communist-led Vietminh would not be endurable. Here most of them have been placed in camps and slowly will be resettled, but that is a long and wearing process. American money is helping out.

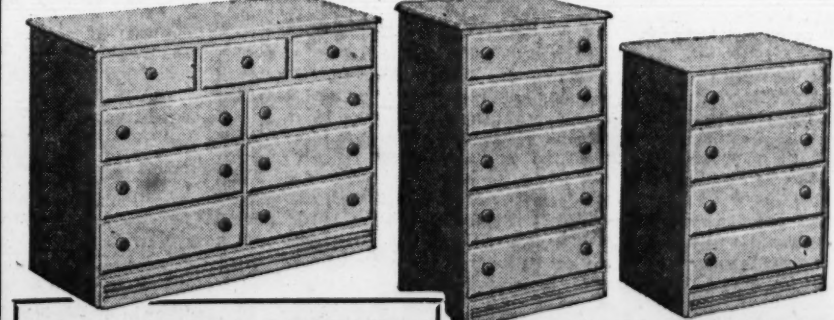

Here in the south they are among people who do not like the northerners too well. Here mostly the people are Buddhists. Buddhism is a tolerant religion, but these northerners have come to crowd for jobs, for land and for space in towns and villages. Premier Ngo Dinh Diem is a northerner and a Catholic, and his government is doing much for the refugees. But it is a continuing problem.

The Viet Namese are a small people. A grown man has the handprint of a 10-year-old American boy. They are finely built, and most of the women are slender, with high cheek bones. Some of the women are beautiful and

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Echo Park Still Alive

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Your June 13 editorial, "Reason on the Upper Colorado," would be excellent except for the fact that it is apparently based on misleading information. The Echo Park controversy is not solved—underscore not.

The proposed Presidential Commission, according to the bill at present, would not study the "alternatives to Echo Park" but Echo Park itself plus alternatives. In other words this Aspinall amendment puts Echo Park right back in, after taking it out.

Conservation leaders are well aware of what this means and will oppose the entire bill all the more earnestly with this amendment in it. The facts and arguments for and against the proposed Echo Park dam have been thoroughly developed and urged for five years already and no board of engineers could do any better than the Bureau of Reclamation has done to try to make a case for Echo Park dam.

The fact is that it already has been demonstrated that this dam would be an unnecessary invasion of the National Park system and even the proponents of the upper Colorado river project now know that the protests against this are so numerous and insistent that Congress never will pass a bill that includes it. No one is going to be fooled by this new proposal.

HOWARD ZAHNISER,
Vice Chairman, Citizens Committee on Natural Resources, Washington.

Sensitive to Gentleness

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Now I express to you the deep appreciation of the entire Y.W.C.A., its board of directors, its staff and the hundreds of present and past members, for the splendid article on Miss Claudia Lide, our retiring executive director, published in the Post-Dispatch June 10.

Mary Kimbrough's insight into character and her skill with a pen are well known to us all. She seemed particularly sensitive in this article to the strength of Claudia Lide's gentleness. Many have made this comment to me.

MRS. ALLEN HACKETT,
President, Y.W.C.A.

No Specifics

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
What Western civilization needs more than the production of butter, guns and cars is a great new moral idea.

One of the big illusions of our civilization is that you can't legislate people into being good. All of the laws on our books precisely belie this. People will at last try if they know the laws are there.

Why are laws made? I have noticed that the new rigor in enforcing traffic laws is making for better and more careful drivers in St. Louis.

There must be many millions here and all over the world who look with dismay upon the latest decision of the Supreme Court on ending segregation in our public schools as a matter for the lower courts.

It may be hard to do right. That is exactly the vitality that the common man all over the world expects that this latest decision would have, by setting specifics as to time and manner when segregation in the schools of the greatest nation in the world should end.

JOSEPH C. CARPENTER.

One Senior to Another

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
As a graduating senior of University City High School I was pleased to send a letter of congratulations to Willard Miller, valedictorian of his Dundee (Ill.) high school class for giving a speech in which he gave his frank and open ideas on the goal of world peace.

I was ashamed to find that some of the adults at the graduation went so far as to walk out on the ceremony because his speech conflicted with their ideas. Their uncalled for and irresponsible charges are a blot on our right of freedom of speech.

I would also like to convey my congratulations to the Dundee School Board for their decision upholding his right to speak.

STEPHEN LONDE, University City.

Asking for a Bonus

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
While Missouri remains as one of the few states that has never paid a bonus of any kind I noticed a story in your paper that Illinois is planning to pay a bonus to the Korean veterans. Are the men from Illinois that much better than the fellows from Missouri? Illinois paid a bonus to the World War II vets in 1947—as did many states.

P.A.D.

Bravo, Stagehands!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It is my personal opinion that the St. Louis Municipal Opera season is off to what may be the best series of performances in its history.

I believe that both the vocal and dancing choruses are at their best; the persons who have had the "leads" thus far this year have shown outstanding ability in acting as well as singing.

But the most deserving toast I believe should go to the staging departments. The backgrounds and settings this year even surpass their previous outstanding accomplishments.

RAYMOND KAYE.

What of Operation Alert?

Now that Operation Alert has come and gone with its imaginary infliction of widespread death and destruction by atomic and hydrogen bomb attacks on 55 major American cities, the next question is: What was achieved?

The answer to that may depend largely on what the Administration and the Pentagon do with the mass of data and observations stemming from the exercise. They have an opportunity to enlighten the general public, which must be rather dubious and confused about this paper work operation that was designed to test local civil defense and to see how well the Government could function when dispersed. There definitely is an opportunity for all to profit from the inevitable misconceptions, mistakes and deficiencies that the exercise must have revealed.

On the very day last month that President Eisenhower issued his directive that all federal agencies co-operate fully in the civil defense tests, the Senate Armed Services Committee approved a report declaring the nation was unprepared for any H-bomb attack. The report, an excellent summation of our highly inadequate civil defense setup, recommended that the President assume "personal responsibility" in developing a satisfactory program.

Mr. Eisenhower, with the Joint Chiefs of Staff and 15,000 key officials, participated in a practice evacuation of Washington, and the setting up of a secret government control center. He told reporters: "We found more complications than I ever believed possible." That comment, coming from the former general who carried out the invasion of Europe in 1944, indicates that the exercise posed a stupendous problem—and that all did not go smoothly.

The evacuation of the Pentagon, with 32,000 persons in that huge military center, did go smoothly. Yet had the alert been a real one it can well be wondered whether many of the evacuees, restricted from assisting their families, would not have balked at abandoning those at home for whom no provisions had been made.

Gen. Thomas R. Phillips (Ret.) the Post-Dispatch military analyst, comments that: "The alert made one thing clear: The armed forces are the only agency of government adequately prepared to continue to function in case of an atomic or thermonuclear attack."

In line with this is the comment appearing in The New York Times which last Tuesday completed a series of six articles on the status of civil defense over the country. It found the major cities unprepared and most citizens apathetic. Chicago "would lie helpless." Pittsburgh was "almost totally unprepared." Los Angeles "would be a horrible shambles." In Boston "almost no chance of survival." Will the final report on Operation Alert confirm this picture?

The status of the big cities is so deplorable partly because the civil defense program—what little there is of it—is lagging back near days of the atomic bomb and the shelter. The cities may retain that status until civil defense shows positive recognition of the fact that today is the day of the hydrogen bomb and evacuation.

It will take leadership on a national scale to instill the needed efficiency into the civil defense program. State and city lines are meaningless now. Local officials and state officials all over the nation have not solved the problem. Governors Harriman of New York and Meyer of New Jersey, as well as Mayor Wagner of New York City, are among those who have questioned whether state and local authorities can cope with the problem.

Operation Alert will have been worth while if it brings the people a true picture of the situation and some leadership coming directly from the White House. The hope that the big powers of the world may find the real solution to the disturbing menace of nuclear warfare has been growing brighter but until it is finally realized this nation must see to its own security.

Building Safety Into Highways

The extent to which safety or danger can be built into modern highways is strikingly shown by the Missouri State Highway Commission's five-year study of the accident record. The fatality rate was only a little more than a third as high on divided highways as on highways of all types, Leon W. Corder, traffic engineer of the State Highway Department, reports.

Access control, as well as divided highways, contributes to lowering the accident rate. Mr. Corder told the national convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers. It was further found that "promiscuous vehicle maneuvering" at "private or commercial entrances and exits" contributed to "a great many intersection-type accidents at points where no road intersection was present."

These and other findings from the study of the five years 1949-53 plainly suggest that new highways are not always necessarily modern, and that the only truly modern highways are those that are as safe as engineering can make them. The man or woman at the wheel will continue to be the most crucial and complex problem in highway safety; but that is all the more reason why the highway engineer should design and build his highways to be as safety-prone as it is possible to make them.

No Place for Amateurs

The assessment mess now plaguing St. Louis county suggests that perhaps it is time the people moved to take the vital assessing function out of the hands of the politicians.

Directly or by inference it has been made clear by Supervisor Matthews and others that assessments in the county are not uniform and therefore not fair. Since fairness in assessments is basic, Assessor Phil G. Deuser, a Republican wheelhorse who has been collecting a salary as assessor in the county for the last 14 years, has failed those who elected him.

Mr. Deuser's office spent $343,666 last year and he enjoys an appropriation of $383,566 this year. That is more than the new County Police Department is to get. There are serious questions as to how efficiently it has been spent. For one thing, some or all of the work may have to be done all over again. Is that efficiency?

To bring uniformity to county assessments a parcel-by-parcel revaluation evidently is necessary. The cost of that task, on the basis of bids by private appraisal firms, ranges upwards to $1,119,000. It is worth noting here that when the County Council decided it wanted an orderly, professional, systematic and fair revaluation it turned to private appraisers, not Mr. Deuser.

While this is not very flattering to the Assessor, it faces up to the realities of the situation. Mr. Deuser's office on the record of its performance is clearly not the place to go for a professional job, as the Council has recognized.

Even so, Mr. Deuser's record is probably no worse than that of most county assessors in Missouri. The notable exception is the assessor in St. Louis, who is appointed, not elected.

Why then should the people of St. Louis count-ty continue to pour out large sums to support the kind of amateur Assessor's office they now have? Would it not be wiser to amend the Charter so that this important governmental function can be turned over to non-political professionals in the same way that the police function has been wrested from the politicians?

Making Public Places Public

Once again the Board of Aldermen has before it an ordinance to end racial discrimination in restaurants, hotels and other places of public accommodation. Similar measures have been defeated in the past, but the time has come to give this one serious consideration.

The proposed bill is the product of careful study and discussion by the city's Council on Human Relations, and in that respect is far superior to a brief anti-discrimination bill introduced by an alderman last session. The new bill emphasizes reasonableness and persuasion rather than punishment. It provides for the Council to investigate complaints of discrimination and to adjust them by conference. Only if conciliation failed would such cases be prosecuted as a misdemeanor.

Thus the bill would place the city government's prestige and moral suasion behind the principle of equal public accommodations for all, regardless of "race, color, religious beliefs, ancestry or national origin."

Among the specific kinds of public accommodation named in the proposed ordinance are hotels, restaurants, theaters, swimming pools, skating rinks, bowling alleys, retail stores, transportation carriers, stations and terminals.

St. Louis's experience of the past few years has demonstrated that this community is ripe to make a constructive choice on the racial, religious and national-origin fronts as on many other fronts.

The opening of swimming pools in city and suburbs, and the opening of universities and church and public schools, all point to the readiness of the community for the kind of ordinance now under consideration.

The Council on Human Relations proposes a temperate and yet productive start on making public accommodations public. Some will be attracted to the idea because it comports with their sense of rightness. Others should be attracted to it because it will mean progress for their community and profit for themselves.

The barriers of prejudice are barriers to trade as well as to people, and pulling them down will mean more and better business at large.

False Issues on Vaccine

There is a false note on both sides of the debate over free polio inoculations for all young people under 19.

If a great many young people were likely to miss out on the shots unless they were free, the Federal Government certainly should pay the whole cost. But in this year of record national income it is just not a fact that how to pay for shots is the major question for most families. To demand a subsidy for all inoculations, when only a minority really need to be subsidized, is to raise a false issue.

But it is equally spurious for the American Medical Association and Welfare Secretary Hobby to raise against the free inoculation plan the old, tattered banner of "socialized medicine."

This phrase is used against almost all public health measures, whether they concern the national Veterans Hospital program or local anti-disease controls. It ignores the fact that undertakings such as the Salk vaccinations concern not only the individual, but also the community.

Once the present scarcity of the vaccine has been overcome, it may be possible to handle most of it through private channels. But the promises of the Administration and A.M.A. spokesmen that "no child will be denied a vaccination" because of inability to pay for it or for a physician's fee must be made real. And the Public Health Service must give to the whole national program what it conspicuously failed to give in the beginning—firm, foresighted, vigorous leadership, which knows the difference between a public health job and that old scare-call of "socialized medicine."

Revolt in Argentina

The rebellion in Argentina is a civil war which Dictator Peron invited. Such appalling bloodshed was entirely unnecessary to legal separation of church and state.

Peron was assured of complete success in his legislative efforts to separate religion and politics. Simply by decrees rushed through a rubber-stamp Congress, he legalized divorce and restricted religious teaching in public schools. His Congress then passed a bill aimed at ending the official status of the Roman Catholic Church under the Constitution, and this move was certain to succeed.

But the Argentine President obviously was not satisfied merely with a legislative separation of church and state. He denounced and insulted the leadership of the Church. His followers demonstrated against Catholic congregations and riots were provoked. His police raided hundreds of offices and homes, detained priests and arrested scores of laymen. Finally he expelled Bishop Manuel Tato from the country.

By this time the excommunication of Peron, now announced by the Vatican, was easily predictable. And civil strife was inevitable.

Why would Peron pick a fight with the Church? He had conquered the army, the legislature, the state governments, labor, business and the press. National Catholicism sheltered the one unassimilated group in his fascist state and appears to have been last on his list. By provoking resistance, the Peronists induced dissident elements to show themselves in open rebellion. If this was a deliberate trap, the rebels fell into it.

Dictator Peron can consolidate his power by crushing the rebellion. But he will do so over the bodies of his countrymen, and their blood is on his hands.

Saving Babies in Illinois

The Illinois House has taken an important and commendable step toward expanding the state's pioneer program for the care of prematurely-born infants.

If proponents now can persuade the Senate and Gov. Stratton to approve the full $780,000 appropriation voted by the House, every premature baby in the state will receive the fine type of specialized care that up to now has been reserved for only a few. These have been handled in three centers, including the one at Christian Welfare Hospital, East St. Louis.

The Illinois program has been run since 1943 as a limited demonstration of what can be done to save premature babies. It has long since proved itself. It is now high time to put it in effect throughout the state, as would be possible as a result of the House-approved appropriation.

WHAT STRANGE CRUSADES THEY GET HIM INTO

Security System Under Fire

Between Book Ends

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Administration's program of security-loyalty hearings is under broad attack and not only from political opposition; bipartisan group urges commission to review question of protecting individual rights; Attorney-General fights rear-guard defense.

William H. Stringer, Chief of the Washington Bureau, in The Christian Science Monitor

A significant change in attitudes on the whole controversial question of security-loyalty procedures is evident in Washington.

The Administration program is under fire, a Democratic-controlled Senate subcommittee is hearing hard-hitting attacks on established security-loyalty concepts, and a bipartisan "royal commission" to re-examine the whole vexing problem of controlling subversion in Government and industry has been proposed.

Latest evidence of the changed atmosphere is the attack of Philip B. Perlman, former Solicitor General, who before the Senate Civil Service subcommittee charged that the Eisenhower Administration's employment security system is a "national disgrace" and "in direct violation of the intent of Congress."

Mr. Perlman, an official in the Truman Administration, might be expected to sound off strongly. But a year ago he would have been trounced and denounced by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy and a chorus of voices. Now the Senator is largely silent and the Administration itself is fighting a rear-guard defense of its procedures against a running attack.

'Royal Commission' Asked For

The very fact that four Democrats and three Republicans joined—despite the Justice Department's obvious displeasure—in approving a resolution calling for a commission to put the Government's security problems under bipartisan scrutiny is indicative of the changed mood.

It is quite conceivable that this "royal commission" recommendation of a Senate subcommittee will be sent to the Senate floor by the full Senate Government Operations Committee and be approved by the Democratic Congress.

The Eisenhower Administration has taken the position that there is nothing radically wrong with its procedures—nothing that cannot be remedied by administrative adjustments. Attorney General Brownell, who has masterminded the Administration's security approach, recently defended his policy of keeping secret informants wholly secret.

Ex-Senator Cain Joins Attack

But the attacks on the Administration for its stand-pat attitude have been landing more frequently. Among the most significant recent events—attacks, court decisions, and Administration retreats—are the following:

1. The sharp testimony of Republican former Senator Harry P. Cain, now member of the Administration's Subversive Activities Control Board, who has charged that Mr. Brownell's list of subversive organizations is obsolete and should be revised extensively, with its use carefully restricted and safeguarded. Mr. Cain, once an ally of Senator McCarthy, now believes the Government's security program should be revised in a half-dozen ways.

2. The testimony of former Solicitor General Perlman, who accused the Administration of misinterpreting the basic law by mingling loyalty and security categories when Mr. Brownell contended it was the intent of Congress in the 1950 act to keep separate "disloyalty" and "security risks."

3. The retreat of the State Department, which, after refusing for two and one-half years to grant a passport to Dr. Otto Nathan, German-born natural scientist and executor of the will of Dr. Albert Einstein, finally allowed him a passport. This came after federal courts had ordered the State Department to grant a passport or hold a valid hearing on Dr. Nathan.

4. The Supreme Court's 7-2 decision in the case of Dr. John P. Peters, which held that the old Loyalty Review Board was without jurisdiction to pick up and post-audit an already cleared case such as that of Dr. Peters.

The majority opinion left unsettled the constitutional issue raised by Dr. Peters, a Yale professor of medicine and a prolific joiner of doubtful organizations, as to whether he should have been allowed to confront and cross-examine his accusers.

Role of Faceless Informers

5. Concurring opinions in the Peters case had harsh things to say about "faceless informers," suggesting how the court would act when and if it is squarely confronted by the issue of whether a "badge of infamy" can be pinned upon a Government employee by the mere testimony of "faceless informers."

6. John Stewart Service, one of the "old China hands" dismissed from the State Department in the days when "inside" causes for the loss of China to the Communists were being sought intensively, is seeking reinstatement in his job in the federal courts on the ground that the same Loyalty Review Board which took up the Peters case was equally without jurisdiction in taking up his case after he had already been cleared by a departmental review board.

The mounting attacks on the Administration's program, of course, are partially political in origin. The Democrats, smarting under accusations that the Eisenhower Administration had found thousands of subversives in the Government when it took office, has determined to show up what it terms totally misleading figures and false accusations.

'The Tide Is Turning'

But there also has been a general conclusion throughout the land that the subversive danger has been overplayed and over-emphasized for political purposes, that remedial procedures have endangered American freedoms and hard-won liberties, and that a revision of security-loyalty programs is overdue.

No one is suggesting that the Government let down the bars against subversion. But men such as Mr. Cain are advocating new procedures, for instance: Revise drastically the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations. Provide a worker accused of being a security risk with a lawyer at Government expense.

Stop suspending workers without pay when they are called before a hearing board (which often means depriving them of funds for fighting their cases).

Require that hearing boards be granted subpoena power to produce witnesses whose appearances would not jeopardize the national security.

The tide is turning.

ANNIVERSARY FOR FARMERS

From the Rural Electric Missourian.
Last month marked a red letter day for more than 4,000,000 rural families. Twenty years ago the Rural Electrification Administration was born.

The month did not see many 20-candle "electric" cakes, but throughout the land, plus Alaska and the Virgin Islands, REA members were thankful.

The federal agency that loaned the farmers money to build their electric lines and lent a technical hand in helping them along the way to operate these lines properly deserves a warm pat on the back. REA has brought a world of good wherever its 1,300,000 miles of lines reached. And it has paid its way.

A Soviet Apologist

SOVIET CIVILIZATION: SECOND EDITION, by Corliss Lamont. (Philosophical Library, Inc., 448 pgs., $5.)

Among the more widely known apologists for the Soviet Union is Corliss Lamont, who has drawn the attention of more than one anti-Communist investigator. Son of a famous financier, Dr. Lamont has several books about the Soviet Union to his credit, including an earlier edition of "Soviet Civilization."

It is easy to discern the author's bias, even for the reader with little specific knowledge about the Soviet Union. Lamont emphasizes heavily the constructive aspects of the Soviet system and dismisses quickly any criticisms which might be made. For example, he admits that Russia is controlled by a dictatorship, but he insists that this dictatorship soon will become a full-fledged democracy in accordance with Marxian theory. The absence of any signs indicating a transfer of real political power from the Soviet rulers to the people does not bother Lamont at all—Communist theorists said democracy will come, so Lamont insists it will.

Basically, he believes in the Marxian concept of materialism to the extent that he considers advances in economic well-being all important no matter what the price in human freedom and individuality. Moreover, he approves the idea that capitalism will decline and Communism will expand, inevitably. We might expect that someone with an orientation like this would talk Communist party line, and Lamont certainly does.

At the books beginning, the Soviets' nationalities policy is discussed in terms of the absence of discrimination and the encouragement of national traits. The theory is not unattractive, but Lamont forgets that in practice, the Kremlin has manipulated national groups at will according to their loyalty to the Soviets.

The second part of the book dealing with American-Soviet relations is the section in which the "line" is most obvious. According to Lamont, the Soviet Union is the great champion of peace, while the United States is the aggressive leader of the forces of fascism and imperialism. Our Presidents should prevent the build-up of power which now threatens the Reds.

"Frankly, however, I do think that the United States bears the major responsibility for starting the cold war—and that... the Truman Administration took the first hostile steps toward the Soviet Union...."

"The first such step to arouse Soviet resentment was the abrupt order... for the suspension of all Lend-Lease shipments to the Soviet Union."

So we started it by stopping Lend-Lease! It is no wonder that many people are angry or mystified at Corliss Lamont.

Carrying the Word

IN MY FATHER'S HOUSE, by Grace Nies Fletcher. (McGraw-Hill, 235 pgs., $3.50.)

In Lee Nies's house were many mansions, for he was a Methodist minister worthy of the inheritance of his calling. In her house were the many mansions which Grace Nies Fletcher inherited from her ministerial father and which she has celebrated in her story of his life. Lee Nies was an immigrant's son who at the age of 18, with little formal education, decided to become a minister. Preaching first in scattered farm parishes of New England, his warm-hearted place in the pulpits of Boston and other cities and it is the testimony of his daughter that he restored the faith of thousands. "In My Father's House" adds to the long list of paragon books of recent years and justifies its appearance by being better written than most.

WALTER LIPPMANN

U.N.: For All, Not Against a Few

WASHINGTON. IN A RECENT ARTICLE I spoke of the United Nations as being a universal society to which all governments, with no exception, wish to belong and from which none wishes to resign. There is, of course, another conception of the United Nations, which is to think of them as a league to enforce peace against military aggression.

This second conception was invoked in the case of the Korean War. It raises really disturbing questions. In this country at least they account for much disappointment, and for such popular opposition as there is to the United Nations. The Korean War, which was fought in the name of the United Nations as a world institution to enforce peace, was an unpopular war in this country. For the American people found themselves bearing the brunt of a nasty and bloody war in a distant country. It was, moreover, in the conventional sense an indecisive war.

Malik

Malik's Strange Absence. It may be said, I know, that on a commemorative occasion it would be more tactful to forget all this and to let bygones be bygones. But, in my view, the future of the United Nations will be brighter and healthier if the issues raised by the Korean experience are discussed and are not left to fester in the dark.

Now the controlling fact, which is often forgotten but which it is necessary to remember, is that the Korean War could never have been fought as a United Nations enterprise but for a mysterious, as yet unexplained, accident.

This was the absence of the Soviet delegate to the Security Council when the North Korean army launched its invasion of South Korea. Had Mr. Malik been present, he could and he would have vetoed the decision of the Security Council to act against the North Korean invasion.

There is no reason to think that the Soviet Union, or any other permanent member of the Security Council, is likely in other cases to be absent when such a decision is being taken. Nor is any government likely to hesitate to use its veto if the Security Council were about to take military action against one of its dependent states.

Threat to Japan Base.

If the great power possessing the veto has not already restrained the dependent state, it has in fact authorized it to commit the aggression, and to prevent the United Nations from crushing its satellite.

The Korean war did demonstrate that the United States and some of its allies would under certain conditions go to war against aggression. If we are frank and objective about it, we shall recognize that the North Korean aggression threatened the vital position of the United States in Japan and that we had the military forces available to resist it.

But the Korean war did not demonstrate that the United Nations will or can be an institution for the collective enforcement of peace against military aggression.

The notion that the United Nations is such a collective agency is in fact a popular misconception. The Charter does not facilitate, in fact it all but prevents, collective enforcement of peace. The system of the veto by the great powers, who are permanent members of the Security Council, was at least as much an American as it was a Soviet condition for adherence to the United Nations. Now the system of the veto means, and was put into the Charter in order to mean, that military action can never be taken against any of the great powers, nor against any small power which is under the protection of a great power. The common sense of the veto is that military action by great powers against great powers is nothing less than world war, and it would make no sense to try to establish a universal society which is organized to wage world war.

Great Powers in Control.

What is left of the idea of the collective enforcement of peace is that if and when the great powers are unanimous, small powers are much less likely to wage war. They are much more likely to yield to the pressure and influence calling upon them to negotiate and to accept mediation.

The idea of an international league to enforce peace became current during the First World War. In the Charter of the United Nations the idea was apparently adopted. But it was in fact rejected. There are sections of the Charter which authorize collective action against aggression. But they are really fossils left over from that earlier period, now long since past, when the idea had not been put to the test.

For these sections cannot be made to operate except when the international conflict is of little importance, and does not involve the serious interests of any of the great powers.

Where All May Speak.

This balance of power, now augmented by nuclear weapons, has made improbable, because the consequences are incalculable and intolerable, wars of aggression and crusades of liberation. It is not the United Nations alleged role as an enforcer of peace, but the balance of the powers with their new revolutionary weapons, which has brought the world to the point where there is, as the President has said, no alternative to peace. Believing as I do that the mission of the United Nations is to be a universal society—without sovereignty and without military power but with an increasing influence over all sovereignties and powers—I think it is a good thing for the future that the United Nations should cease to be thought of as a league to enforce peace.

So far as we are concerned, let us leave the enforcement of peace, the resistance to aggression, to the armed alliance to which we belong. Let us treat the United Nations as the universal society to which all belong, whether they like each other or not, where each nation can talk with any other nation, where talks are never finally broken off, where the issues, however insoluble, are never pressed so far that they bring the ultimate doom and disaster to mankind.

ORSON WELLES HAS 2 ROLES IN OWN PLAY

Also Is 'Moby Dick' Producer—London Critics Impressed.

LONDON, June 17 (AP)—Orson Welles brought the sea story of Moby Dick to the Duke of York's theater last night in a stage version written by Orson Welles, produced by Orson Welles and with the two top roles acted by—that's right, Welles produced the Herman Melville classic as if it were being rehearsed on a bare stage by a 19th century American theater company. He played both the company's manager and Captain Ahab, Melville's one-legged whaler skipper.

With no props except a few packing cases and a tangle of fly ropes, Welles set out to create the drama of Ahab's ferocious search for Moby Dick, the fabulous white whale. The climax of the story—Ahab's fatal battle with the whale—he fought out standing on a table set down from the stage among the seats. The whale didn't show.

Welles himself spewed and roared to such effect that he registered a direct hit in the eye of Daily Mirror critic Fergus Cashin, sitting seven rows back. Cashin said he forgave the spit because the performance "was a magnificent effort, tremendously exciting and effective."

The News Chronicle critic called the whole thing outrageous and impossible... but it comes off... it left me breathless with admiration."

Cecil Wilson of the Daily Mail thought that Welles the author occasionally got in the way of Welles the actor, allowing "too many words to impede his action."

"But when the play does move," Wilson added, "the whole theater shudders with the fury of man and mammal alike."

The critic of the Times was less enraptured but still said the evening had "been worth having." He said the second half of the play fell off and described the fight with the whale as a failure, "like nursery heroics taken too seriously."

LUTHERAN DISTRICT GETS OK TO BORROW $1,000,000

A request for authority to borrow $1,000,000 to finance new churches during the next two years was approved yesterday by the Western District of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. The Board of Directors may borrow the money from churches, church organizations, and individuals.

Ten new churches are needed in St. Louis County, the district convention was told by the Rev. Martin C. Schaefer, district director of missions.

MEMORIAL SERVICES MONDAY FOR SHIRLEY O'NEAL JONES

Memorial services for Shirley O'Neal Jones, New York artist who was born in Webster Groves, will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in First Congregational Church, 10 West Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves.

Mrs. Jones, who signed her paintings Shirley O'Neal, was the wife of Harry W. Jones, Columbia University School of Law professor. She died June 2 in New York at the age of 42. Surviving besides her husband are her mother, Mrs. Morgan E. Coggeshall, and two brothers, John H. and Morgan E. Coggeshall Jr., all of Webster Groves.

7 PRINCIPAL STAFF CHANGES IN COUNTY MOVE PROGRAM

Seven staff changes at The Principia, in connection with the institution's program to move its elementary and high schools from St. Louis to the county, were announced yesterday. They will be effective July 1.

Included in the changes were these: Lee McCandless, assistant to the president and chief business manager at The Principia College campus; Elsie, Ill., will become assistant treasurer of The Principia Corporation; Bertram T. Clark, school business manager here, will become vice chairman of the committee on development of the corporation; and Cyrus Bunting, business manager of the college at Elsie, will become director of plant and construction at all three campuses.

The Principia Corporation, with offices in St. Louis, holds legal title to the assets of the schools and the college and handles legal matters, fund-raising, and endowment. It will take on new responsibilities in connection with the program to move the elementary and high school to the county campus, McCandless said.

A. L. GRATTENDICK'S FUNERAL TOMORROW

Veteran Republican Leader and Attorney Died Yesterday at His Home.

Funeral services for Alfred L. Grattendick, lawyer and veteran St. Louis Republican leader, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Calvin F. Feutz undertaking establishment, 4828 Natural Bridge avenue. Burial will be in Zion Cemetery.

Mr. Grattendick, 62 years old, died yesterday of heart disease at his home, 5455 Arlington avenue.

Born in St. Louis, Mr. Grattendick served for many years as Republican Committeeman of the Twenty-seventh Ward and as treasurer of the G.O.P. City Committee.

He was the Republican nominee for Congress in the old Thirtieth Congressional District in 1946. He also was a Republican candidate for circuit judge four times, in 1934, 1938, 1940 and 1942.

When he resigned as treasurer of the Republican City Committee in 1950, he was highly critical of party factionalism and the lack of campaign funds, which he charged were responsible for the Republican defeat in Missouri that year. The intra-party strife of which he complained has continued to the present.

However, he accepted re-election as treasurer of the city committee to help out in the campaign of 1952. He served as a delegate to the Republican national convention that year.

Mr. Grattendick attended City College of Law and Finance and had been a practicing attorney since 1926. He had been active in the Lawyers' Association of the Eighth Judicial Circuit and in the North St. Louis Businessmen's Association.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elsie K. Grattendick, and a son, Kenneth Grattendick.

CIVIC NEEDS COUNCIL HEADS

Carl H. Goener has been elected chairman of the General Council on Civic Needs for 1955-1956, it was announced today.

Other officers: Roy L. Slatery, vice chairman; Frank E. Lawrence Jr., secretary; Carl W. Pinckert, south side district chairman; Edward J. A. Gain, west side district chairman; and Christ Hermann, north side district chairman.

JOHN GOLDEN DIES; BROADWAY PRODUCER

Was Successful Also as Actor, Song Writer, Stage and Costume Designer.

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—John Golden, veteran theatrical producer and impresario, died early today at his estate in Bay-side on Long Island.

Golden, who would have been 81 in 10 days, had been an actor, songwriter, producer, stage and costume designer and a success at every one.

He made enough money in the chemical manufacturing business so that by the time he was 26 he could devote all his efforts to song writing.

This too turned to gold. Lyrics for one song, "Poor Butterfly," sold 2,000,000 copies, and he became wealthy enough to back Broadway shows.

From this he stepped in World War I days to producing his own shows. For the past 35 years his name has been a legend of success in the theatrical world.

Golden began his string of successful Broadway plays with "Turn of the Mind" in 1916. He scored nine hits in his first 12 shows.

Over the next 30 years, he produced 74 shows, including "There's a Family," "Seventh Heaven," "The First Year," "Claudia" and "Susan and God."

Private funeral services will be held Sunday at his home. He is survived by his wife, the former Margaret Hesterich whom he married in 1909. They had no children.

DANTE THE MAGICIAN DIES

HOLLYWOOD, June 17 (AP)—Harry A. Jansen—Dante the magician—veteran of circuses, vaudeville, radio, movies and television, died of a heart attack yesterday at his ranch in nearby Northridge. He was 71 years old.

In recent years he operated a small factory there, turning out paraphernalia for other magicians. He came to the United States from Denmark at the age of 6.

EMERGENCY CAUSES COST LUTHERANS $100,000,000

ST. PAUL, June 17 (AP)—Lutherans have spent more than $100,000,000 over the globe in emergency causes since the end of World War II. Dr. Carl E. Lund-Quist of Geneva, Switzerland, reports.

Dr. Lund-Quist, secretary of the Lutheran World Federation, said the money went for "the most extensive relief, reconstruction and inter-church aid program ever undertaken by any church group."

He told the ninety-sixth annual synod of the Augustana Lutheran Church last night that Lutherans have aided more than 3,000,000 refugees, including the help given 100,000 of them to emigrate to the United States, Canada, Finland, Australia, South America and South Africa. Delegates yesterday returned President Oscar A. Benson as Augustana's leader and re-elected Dr. Emroy Johnson, St. Peter, Minn., as statistician.

CHICAGO ART INSTITUTE BUYS NEW PAINTING BY MARTYL

Purchase of a large oil painting by Martyl, former St. Louis artist, was announced today by the Art Institute, Chicago. The artist, whose work is included in the City Art Museum collection, is in private life Mrs. Alexander Langsdorf Jr. of Chicago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Schweig, 5314 Waterman boulevard.

The picture, painted after a recent European trip, is a cubist reorganization of the sights of a marketplace in Barcelona, Spain. Dimensions are three by four feet. Price of the painting was not announced.

Spanish paintings by the artist formed her recent solo show at the Feingarten Gallery, Chicago, and the institute's purchase was chosen for inclusion in the institute's fifteenth annual exhibition of the Society for Contemporary American Art. A work of art from each exhibition in the series has been added to the institute collection.

ACTING ENGINEERING HEAD AT WASHINGTON U. NAMED

Henry M. Reitz, professor of civil engineering at Washington University, has been appointed acting chairman of the department of engineering. It was announced today by Carl Tolman, vice chancellor and dean of faculties.

Reitz, 6 Ridgeline drive, joined the university faculty in 1949 as an assistant professor of civil engineering. He was appointed a full professor last April.

He received his bachelor of science degree at Washington University in 1942 and a master's degree at Harvard University in 1949. After three years of military service he joined the firm of Horner & Shifrin, consulting engineers, and was made a junior partner of the firm in 1948.

ENGLISH ABBOT ARRIVES TO REVIEW SCHOOL PLANS

The Rt. Rev. Herbert Byrne of the Order of St. Benedict, abbot of Ampleforth, York, England, arrived in St. Louis yesterday to review plans for a Catholic country day school for boys to open in St. Louis county in September 1956.

He will confer tomorrow with Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis, at whose invitation the English Benedictines are taking up their work here.

With the Very Rev. Columba Cary-Elwes, recently appointed prior of the foundation setting up the school, he will inspect the school's 85-acre tract at Mason and Conway roads.

"All-California Team Could Defeat Russians."

—JIM KELLY.

OLYMPIC leaders will be present this weekend at the annual track and field meet of the National Collegiate Athletic Association when the pick of the nation's college winners in outdoor events this season will go through the ordeal of a two-day competition.

The event is regarded as a preview of the Olympic trials, which next year will determine the makeup of the United States Olympic team to be sent to Melbourne, Australia. The meet is especially important because of the number of newcomers to the Olympic scene, brought out in the Pan-American Games and in many outdoor collegiate competitions this spring.

Russia ought to have a couple of scouts in attendance. They might get an eye for the new help this country will have in their rivalry with the highly propagandized state-planned and state-financed Soviet athletes.

Present will be James Kelly, chairman of the United States Olympic track committee. "Russia isn't going to beat our team at Melbourne," he told Los Angeles reporters at a luncheon. "I believe I could pick a team from California alone that would win a dual track meet from the Soviets." He was basing his opinion on the many great United States athletes developed recently.

That's interesting, if confined to the men's track meet. It's just as well to forget our chances of winning the women's track competitions, it appears at this time. The Soviet team and Australia's speed are likely to repeat the Helsinki Olympics, in which our maids scored only one victory—the relay race.

Santee Predicts Defeat Of Sensational Miller.

ESPECIALLY interesting this weekend at Los Angeles will be the racing of Bobby Seaman in the mile race against some highly rated talent. In the Compton relays Bobby finished second in 4:01.4, behind this country's No. 1 miler, Wes Santee, who won in 4:01.2.

Rather surprisingly, Santee predicts that Seaman will be beaten by Billy Tidwell of Emporia State College, Kansas—that's Santee's home state. How does he get that? "I think Seaman is a great future but he's not mature enough to set the pace and win," Santee explains. "Tidwell can run a quarter in 47 and is thoroughly experienced in big time competition. Seaman should finish second and the winner's time should be around 4:07."

You wonder how Santee reasons in view of the fact that very recently Seaman, in time six seconds faster than Wes's forecast, finished only a step behind the great Santee himself.

Triple-Race Match
For Nashua, Swaps?

MAYBE the Nashua-Swaps meeting to decide two championships is just wishful thinking. But there's still a chance and the best proposal appears to be one advanced by Mervin Leroy, president of the Hollywood Turf Club. It envisions three races instead of one, to be run in California, Chicago and New York, each for $100,000, winner take all. The series would be at three distances. And he points out that the known engagements of the principals would make such a schedule possible. If both owners would agree to a little give-and-take as to dates and conditions.

It is a fascinating idea in that it would test the all-round merits of the rivals, should the distance be, for example, at a mile, a mile and one-quarter and the true derby route of one and one-half miles. A real test, we'd say.

The proposal removes the possibility of either horse suffering a disadvantage, in case only one race were held in California—a proposal that owner William Woodward turned down on behalf of Nashua. In his place we'd think hard, too, before accepting.

The new suggestion seems fair and also would be profitable, to the possible extent of one horse winning $300,000 for his owner. In Woodward's case it seems he will never have a clear title to the 3-year-old championship and "horse of the year" honors, until his Nashua redeems his Kentucky Derby defeat.

THE triple-race idea was carried on one occasion in this country, but three horses were involved. It happened in 1924, when the great Epinard, French 4-year-old champion, was brought to this country to oppose two picked American horses in three match races at six furlongs, one mile and one and one-quarter miles.

After the three races they called the visitor "Epinard II" because second was where he finished in each event. Epinard was conceding weight-for-age in each case to the respective 3-year-old winners: Wise Counselor in the sprint, Ladkin in the mile and Saracen in the 1 1/4-mile event.

In taking the final event the 3-year-old Saracen, 120, won in the then remarkable time of 2:00.4.

Brooklyn's Power Boys Here---Cards to Face Newcombe

Pittsburgh Is Shut Out By Haddix On 4 Hits

By Bob Broeg

Because it's smart baseball, good business and as fashionable as Bermuda shorts to tailor a ball club to property on which it plays seven times more games than in any other park, the Cardinals just might continue their first winning streak in almost a month.

Right now it is all of two games, a result of the Redbirds having put victories back to back for the first time in 27 contests or since May 18, the last time the Brooklyn Dodgers were here. And by a coincidence ordinarily more pleasant for the box office than the local ball players, it's the league-leading Dodgers who come in tonight for a weekend series of three games.

In the 8 o'clock opener big Don (10-1) Newcombe probably will pitch for the Dodgers, defeated in their last two starts at Cincinnati, against Gordon (1-2) Jones of the Cardinals. Newcombe beat the Redbirds recently at Ebbets Field, 6 to 1, while Jones went only four innings as an unsuccessful starter in the only game the Cards won out of five there.

For all of Brooklyn's power and prestige, though, there's far greater chance of defeating the Dodgers at Busch Stadium than at Ebbets Field. The fact is, the Bums are Beau Brummels in knee breeches back home, a right-handed-hitting lineup in park favorable to their strength. And the kid Cardinals, predominantly left-handed-batting, are tailored for the short right field of the Grand and Dodger rectangles.

Cards Pick Up in Scoring.
The difference between the fledgling Redbirds at home and away was demonstrated again during the first series of this stand at Busch Stadium, where they've built a 15-10 winning record compared with a losing 9-21 mark on the road.

In the three-game Pittsburgh series that might have been swept with a little more of the recently-encouraging pitching, the Cardinals scored with a consistency that has enabled them to average 5.2 runs a game here, a reliable rate by contrast with the youngsters' 3.5 on foreign fields.

The young St. Louis hitters still are not to be confused with Brooklyn's veteran sluggers, but they do resemble the Dodgers more while wearing their white home uniforms than the gray monkey suits of the road.

For instance, in 30 games in other park, the Cards have batted only 238 as a team with just 21 homers, but here in only 25 contests they've hit a husky 236 as a club and have belted 32 circuit drives.

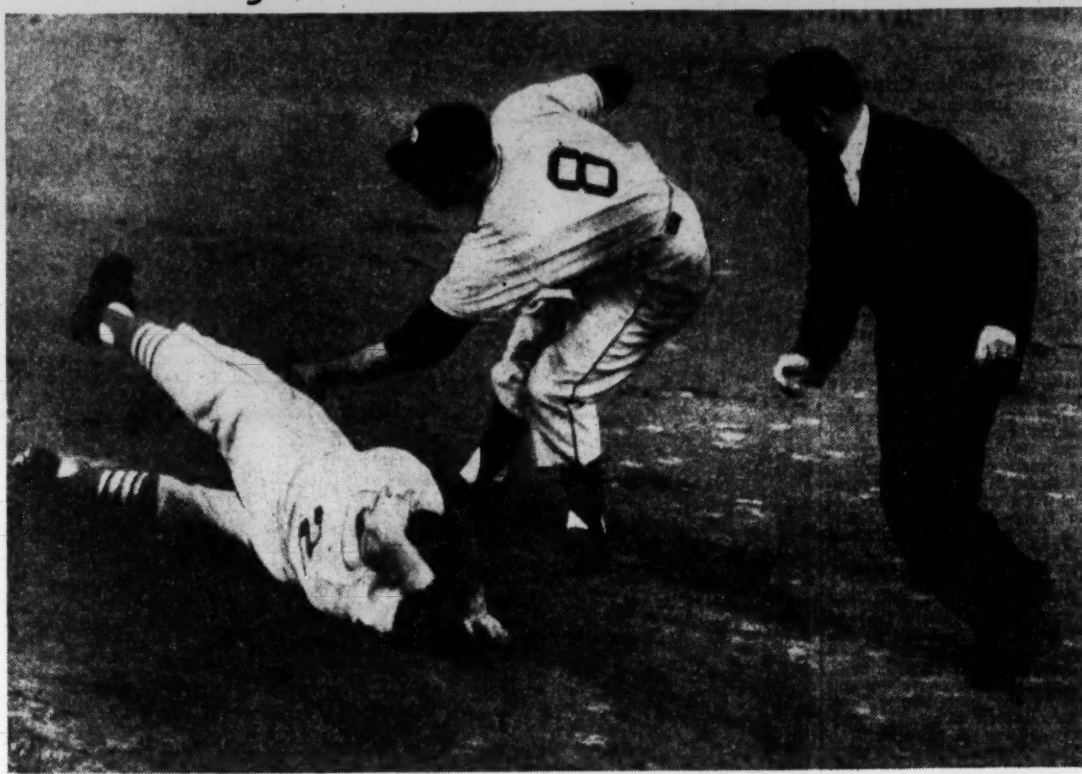

The seven four-base blows credited to the Redbirds in the Pittsburgh series were only one fewer than the team's total on its last 12-game trip, a journey during which the opposition clobbered 20 off the Cards, 11 of them by Brooklyn in five outings. The Dodgers, you'll recall, didn't hit any here during their first 1955 visit. They didn't win, either.

Haddix Shuts Out Bucs.
For the second straight night against the Pirates, Capt. Red Schoendienst found the range into the pavilion, scoreless tie game, for the first time since 1930, and Schoendienst, who drove in three runs in a 5-0 St. Louis victory, now has hit three of the 55 homers that previously would have been long singles or short doubles. The Cards have had eight to the enemy's three.

Bill Sarni also homered last night, reaching the more distant bleachers in left field off right-hander Vernon Law, victim of all Redbird runs on a night when many weren't needed, not with Harvey Haddix hurling as no one had seen him pitch this miserable season.

The outpaw star of the last two years finished what he started for only the third time in 13 tries, gaining only his fourth victory against eight defeats with his first complete game triumph. He pitched a four-hitter in which no Pittsburgh runner reached third base, walked only two batters and

Caught Red-Handed, but He Got Even

AL (RED) SCHOENDIENST of the Cardinals is tagged out by the Pirates' GENE FREESE as he tried to steal second after singling in a run in first inning at Busch Stadium. Schoendienst later hit a homer with a man on. The umpire is LEE BALLANFANT. The Redbirds won, 5-0, behind the four-hit pitching of Harvey Haddix.

In stride again he would be as welcome to the Cardinals as their own ball park and a long-winning streak.

1960 Winter Olympics to Be In California

PARIS, June 17 (AP)—The skiing resort of Squaw Valley, Calif., today was selected by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) to stage the 1960 winter games.

It will be the second time the Winter Games have come to the United States. In 1932 when the summer Olympics were held in Los Angeles, the winter games were held at Lake Placid, N.Y.

The vote came during the final session of the fifth IOC meeting, the official number of votes each of four candidates received was not announced. However, it was believed that Squaw Valley, and Innsbruck, Austria, had a hard, close fight for the honor.

The other two candidates, each of whom has staged at least one winter Olympic game, were Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, and St. Moritz, Switzerland.

During the closing stages of the IOC meeting here this week Squaw Valley had picked up supporters daily. Until 10 days ago few of the members of the IOC had ever heard of the little valley near the California-Nevada state line.

Call the Vigilantes!

red bird notes

Having pitched the equivalent of five ball games in three days, Harvey Haddix certainly was entitled to the shutout triumph he gained last night at Pittsburgh's expense.

To sharpen his control, The Kitten went out to Busch Stadium both Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, hurling against imaginary targets on the left field wall, throwing 200 to 250 times each day or roughly double the total a pitcher might be expected to use in a regulation nine-inning game.

But didn't he tire, though, in the four-hit performance against the Pirates?

"Naw," Haddix said, grinning. "I felt great out there, strong all the way."

Although he has only a 4-8 record and 5.25 earned-run average, Harvey has walked just 28 batters and struck out 65 in 89 innings, an indication that he has his stuff all along—and at least on the surface—passable control, too.

"Stuff, yes, but not control," Haddix emphasized, "and that's why I was out there throwing those two days, trying to get my curve ball low enough so it wouldn't hang any more. That's the pitch most of those home runs (13) were hit off."

Dick Cole tried to avert Pittsburgh's eighth shutout defeat with a leadoff double in the ninth, but Haddix pleased a 6277 crowd by mowing down the middle of the Bucs batting order—and Cole never moved.

The Cardinals announced they had signed Jerry Keller, star pitcher for Jerry Hill School. An 18-year-old right-hander, he is scheduled to report to the club's Albany (Ga.) farm in the Class D Georgia-Florida League. —B.B.

Louise Brough And 15-Yr.-Old In Tennis Final

LONDON, June 17 (UP)—Louise Brough, the defending champion from Beverly Hills, Calif., gained the final in women's singles today at the London Lawn Tennis championships with a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Angela Buxton of England.

Miss Brough, tuning up for her bid to regain the Wimbledon title during the next two weeks, gave the British Wightman Cup player few chances. Miss Buxton held her service only once in the match—in the sixth game of the second set.

Jean Forbes, 15-year-old South African tennis player, scored her second surprise victory in two days to win the title to oppose Miss Brough for the title. Miss Forbes upset Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. Yesterday she eliminated Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif.

Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., and Beverly Baker Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., won the women's doubles title by defeating the British team of Angela Mortimer and Anne Shilcock, 8-6, 3-6, 6-3.

Richards and Greenberg Will Confer on Player Trade Snag

BALTIMORE, June 17 (UP)—Paul Richards, Baltimore's general manager and field manager, said he plans to talk to Cleveland General Manager Hank Greenberg today in an effort to "straighten out the whole business" regarding Billy Cox's decision to retire.

The 35-year-old Cox started his decision to quit baseball yesterday following his being traded to the Indians by the Orioles.

Baltimore had sent Cox and outfielder Gene Woodling to Cleveland in exchange for outfielders Dave Pope and Wally Westlake plus cash, but Westlake complicated matters by claiming he received a "raw deal" from the Indians. He said Westlake, who received permission from the Orioles to return home to Cleveland and visit his sick wife, said he was "tired of traveling and might quit for good."

But Westlake phoned Richards yesterday to report that his wife was still sick. He said nothing about quitting to the Oriole manager.

Sona Hurls 3-Hit Shutout for Pine Lawn

Aubuchon Team Gains Third Legion Victory

By John J. Archibald

Next to a ball and a bat, there is nothing more necessary to a game of baseball than a pitcher and a catcher. The Pine Lawn team had a good supply of balls and bats when the present American Legion season got under way, but until last night the defending Zera-Smith League champions were considerably in doubt about their No. 1 battery.

Things appeared to come around for Pine Lawn, however, as a previously sore-armed Al Sona pitched a three-hit shutout and Gary Knamiller made his first complete game behind the plate an impressive performance. The game was called because of darkness and the Legion's 10-run rule when Pine Lawn made the score 10 to 0.

In the other Zera-Smith game at Heman Park, Creve Coeur scored a run in the first half of the ninth to defeat Thomann-Boothe, 4 to 3.

Stockham Post skinned past St. Louis No. 4 by a 3-2 score in the Leo Browne League, but Missouri-Pacific surprised unbeaten Walnut Park by tying, 5-5.

Aubuchon-Dennison picked up its third victory without a loss in the Scully-Menzie-Dorrill League by clipping Goldman, 10 to 5, and 138th Infantry defeated Anheuser-Busch, 13 to 6, as Jim Miles hit a bases-loaded home run for 138th.

Pine Lawn showed well in everything against Vassar—12 hits, a fairly steady defense, and good speed—but the battery work was the most pleasing to Coach Chuck Meyers. Sona, a fire-balling success in the high school season who included a 2-1 victory over Suburban League champion Webster Groves among his triumphs, had been ailing in Legion play. He was batted hard in a game by Thomann-Boothe, but Pine Lawn managed a 5-5 tie, which will be replayed later.

Facing Vassar, Sona struck out seven batters, walked four, and the three hits were widely scattered. In the seventh inning he indicated his reserve strength after Jerry Hanley Maplewood's DICK HOPKINS didn't evade the tag in this first inning play. NELSON CRENSHAW of the Donald Monroe Post had already put the ball on Hopkins and he was called out as he tried to reach third base in their American Legion junior game on the Maplewood field. Maplewood won, 8 to 0.

Top Jockey Is Suspended

Meaux Is Out for 10 Days

Clarence Meaux, Fairmount's leading jockey with 26 firsts to his credit, will sit out the races for 10 nights, (starting tomorrow night), the result of a suspension handed him yesterday by the stewards.

Ralph Choiser, representing the state; Robert P. McAuliffe and Sterling Hudson, who compose the board of stewards, set Meaux down for careless riding while leaving the gate aboard the two-year-old Magnolia Bloom Wednesday night. The Felix De-Mary filly ran third to Derby W and Shade S.

With Meaux on the sidelines, Billy Gummow, Rafael Sanabria and Bruce Brinkley will have a chance to move into the lead. Gummow is second with 23 trips into the winner's circle, while Sanabria and Brinkley each have 21 firsts. Sanabria won with Sharp Mark and Brinkley with Poltroon last night. Meaux will be eligible to ride again July 2.

The $298 who attended wagered $189,508. The double on Blue Eternity and Benson paid $101.20 for $2. . . . Angelo Cilio brought W. E. Carroll here from Chicago to ride Billet-Doux in the fourth race. . . . After winning, Carroll flew back to the Windy City. . . . The Cilio entry paid $9.80 for $2 to win.

Jockey Leo Dotter is a veteran who came here from Maryland. . . . And A. J. Bevalacqua, who has been riding on Canadian courses, rides under the name of Johnny Bev. . . . Brill Lam, winner of the seventh, was claimed by Mrs. Mary Phillips of Collinsville for $1500. . . . C. H. Springs and Pete Maxwell, the track's top trainers each had a victory—Sharp Mark and Dry Bones.

Crackice, which has won four consecutive races for Tom McCarty, will try to make it five straight in tonight's sixth race over the six-furlong route. . . . Carrying 119 pounds, the McCarty color bearer will face such previous winners as Comet Meadow, Quick Imperial and Fast Song. . . . In the seventh, Tinaja A will seek its fourth victory for its third owner at the meeting. . . . Pete Maxwell's Fox will be one of the public choices in the race.

Illinois State Senate Passes Bill to Cut State's Race Tax

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 17 (AP).

THE Illinois Senate approved and referred to the House a bill which waives 2 per cent of the tax on pari-mutuel wagering at Cahokia Downs and Fairmount Park when the wagering falls below $300,000 on any racing day.

The Senate refused to pass a bill recommended by Gov. Stratton to consolidate the Illinois Racing Board and the Illinois Harness Racing Commission.

Sponsors of the bill postponed the roll call when the bill failed to receive sufficient votes.

Wake Forest Gains N.C.A.A. Baseball Title

OMAHA, June 17 (AP)—Wake Forest of North Carolina is the N.C.A.A. college world series baseball king. The Deacons made it by winning two of three games from Western Michigan, the only team that could score against them.

The Deacons and the Broncos met for the third time last night and Wake Forest won, 7-6, on alert base running and pinch hitting, something the Broncos specialize in themselves.

The score was tied at six-all in the eighth when Wake Forest won the game with wide-awake baseball. Luther McKeel waited out Miki Schwartzkopf, a good right-hander, for a base on balls.

McKeel wheeled down to second on a passed ball. Then he moved to third base on a short passed ball. At the plate Linwood Holt, a fellow who likes to take a full swing, waited until he had a count of 3-2 and then punched the ball over second base for the run.

That was it as Jack McGinley, Wake Forest relief pitcher, kept up the steady hurling he had put on display ever since entering the game in the fourth.

The fourth was one of the oddest innings in the series and it looked then as though the Deacons were going to beat themselves. Western Michigan got three runs in that inning for a 6-3 lead on one hit, two bases on balls, two stolen bases, and two errors. The errors let in all the runs.

The Difference in taste is TERRIFIC!

Two to one, most of you have never tasted a "Wed-in-the-Wood" blend. For in these days of fighting for more business at lower costs, "Wed-in-the-Wood" is an almost forgotten art of blending. It plain takes too long—costs too much for the big volume boys.

But not for us. We believe anyone with a grain of common sense knows "Wed-in-the-Wood" adds a distinctive character—a peak of perfection nothing else can touch. And anyone who can't appreciate the wonderful difference this makes in taste—well, he just doesn't know his whiskey.

Old Thompson, to our knowledge, is now the only blend in the country that's still "Wed-in-the-Wood." That means it probably will never be in big supply. So when you see a bottle, latch on to it—but fast.

*First the straight whiskies are aged—then blended with fine grain neutral spirits—then, instead of being bottled immediately, the blend is put back into barrels to "Wed-in-the-Wood."

STOCKS CLOSE WEEK WITH A STRONG NOTE

All-Around Betterment in List After a Day of Mixed Prices.

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—The stock market came through with an excellent show of improvement today in late trading and closed higher.

Most of the session the market was mixed. Better prices for rails, rail equipments, tobacco, movie issues, chemicals, motors, and many miscellaneous issues brought about an all-around betterment in the list.

Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed up 5.6 of a point at 171.3, a new record high. The industrial stock index also rose 1.2 points to a new record. The utilities made a new high on the gain of 2 of a point. The rail index was up 2 of a point.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 440.09 up 1.60 at the close and another record high; the 20 rails were up .09 to 161.16 and the 15 utilities 64.22 up .06.)

Prices were up between 1 and 2 points at the best in key sections. Losses went to a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks set another new record high mark.

The market narrowed 10 issues from yesterday at 195 issues. Of these 546 closed higher, 407 lower and 24 unchanged. There were 62 new 1955 highs and 12 new lows.

Volume came to an aggregate 2,340,000 shares compared with 2,760,000 shares traded yesterday, when market was up slightly.

The daily index of London stocks compiled by the Financial Times was up 1.7 points to 213.9, a new 1955 high.

The market maintained a thoroughly mixed position throughout most of the day. In the afternoon, there was marked improvement in the railroads and railroad equipment issues.

Buying followed predictions of expanded freight traffic with a consequent need for more equipment.

Tobacco was in demand early in the day, and then they eased back from their best and turned quiet. Movie issues perked up late in the day. Major divisions like steels, motors, and aircrafts were mixed.

Among advancing stocks at times were Studebaker-Packard, United Aircraft, American Telephone, American Smelting, Victor Chemical Works (a block of 15,000 shares traded unchanged at 33 1/2), American Tobacco, Pullman, Reynolds Tobacco Co., Northern Pacific, Ashland Oil, Columbia Pictures, Loew's, ACF Industries, and Standard Railroad Equipment.

Lower at times were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Admiral Corp., Anaconda, Eastern Air Lines, and General Portland Cement (including a block of 10,000 shares off 1 at 52 1/2).

Northern Aircraft improved following publication of a higher earnings report.

BUSINESS WORLD

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Helena Rubenstein Inc., cosmetics firm declared a 50 percent stock dividend on common payable July 19 to holders of record July 15. The usual quarterly cash dividend of 25 cents, previously declared, will be paid July 1.

Scullin Steel Co. declared a dividend of 30¢ a share to stockholders of record June 29. This dividend is payable in part from current earnings and in part from surplus, it was stated.

Ward's automotive reports said United States factories will build 146,121 cars and 23,446 trucks this week. Last week 134,673 cars and 25,023 trucks were built and in the comparable 1954 week 113,626 cars and 20,267 trucks were assembled. Wildcat strikes trimmed General Motors car assembly this week by 12 per cent, Ward's said.

Demand deposits in St. Louis Clearing House Association member banks increased $107,298,000 to a record high of $1,038,660,000, in the week ended Wednesday. The major portion of the increase was due to heavy federal and state tax deposits, it was stated. Loans and discounts increased $18,994,000; bond and stock accounts decreased $23,000,000 and time deposits were down $180,000.

Universal Pictures Co. reports earnings for the 26 weeks ended April 30 of $2,014,960 equal to $1.87 per common share compared with $1,721,063 or $1.57 a share in the like period a year ago.

Dresser Industries Inc. reports earnings for the six months ended April 30 of $4,372,772 or $2.23 a share vs. $4,563,284 or $2.38 a share in the like period a year ago.

MRS. SULLIVAN URGES FOOD STAMP PLAN OK

She Says Program Would Aid Need, Solve Surplus Problem.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 17—Congressional approval of a food stamp plan to distribute stocks of Government-owned surplus food to needy persons was urged today by Representative Leonor K. Sullivan (Dem., St. Louis).

Testifying before the House Agriculture Committee, Mrs. Sullivan said a food stamp bill she has introduced would aid "millions of Americans living on the edge of economic disaster" and would provide a "practical, effective means" of disposing of surplus commodities purchased under the farm price support program.

Under the bill, the Secretary of Agriculture would be authorized to distribute up to one billion dollars of surplus food annually to low-income families and persons on relief rolls, Mrs. Sullivan said. Eligibility would be determined by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Current programs of food distribution carried on by the Department of Agriculture are of "a hit and miss nature, with no uniform national standards assuring equal treatment for all," she declared.

Under present program, "registration procedures are determined on the local or state level, and so, I understand, are eligibility standards," she added. "Thus you have a situation where in some states people who virtually have to prove they are starving to death can eventually get a pound of butter and some cheese and rice; in another adjacent state, families

Crop Control Comes a Cropper, Not a Grain of Truth to It

Order Issued as Part of Operation Alert—Field Offices Calmed by Second Round of Telegrams.

EMERGENCY PRESS HEAD-

QUARTERS, Operation Alert, June 17 (AP)—Despite government telegrams indicating otherwise, the Department of Agriculture wants it known that all crop controls continue in effect.

And the wheat referendum, which like crop controls almost became a casualty of Operation Alert 1955, will be held as scheduled on June 25.

The Agriculture Department, as part of its mobilization role, dispatched telegrams to many if not all states yesterday announcing cancellation of acreage allotments and farmers' marketing quotas on all crops except tobacco — and forgot to mention that the orders were just make-believe.

There was momentary consternation in the field offices, for the telegrams sounded urgent and were signed "Benson."

The wires also called off the with incomes of as much as $5000 could qualify."

Mrs. Sullivan said her bill would limit eligibility for surplus food to persons already receiving some form of public assistance or in need of public assistance.

However, the measure would provide also for a study by the Agriculture, Labor and Welfare departments on the possibility of extending eligibility to persons receiving unemployment benefits and Social Security pensions and "other low-income groups," she told the committee.

The bill is one of several pending before the committee.

wheat referendum on June 25—the idea being to unleash full farm production for a nation supposedly at war.

A department official here sadly admitted: "It was a mistake of course." A second round of telegrams was sent out to explain what had happened.

It was doubtful that Secretary of Agriculture Benson knew anything about it. He had a speech date in Milwaukee and didn't take part in yesterday's operation.

$11,500 REWARDS OFFERED FOR RETURN OF JUDGE, WIFE

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., June 17 (AP)—Rewards totaling $11,500 were offered today for the return of missing Circuit Judge C. E. Chillingworth and his wife.

The family designated the Rev. Harry H. Waller, pastor of the First Methodist Church, as intermediary, indicating a belief the wealthy couple may have been kidnaped.

Courthouse associates of the judge expressed belief he may have been kidnaped for ransom or revenge.

PROPERTY VALUE RISE IN COUNTY IN YEAR

$30,000,000 on Urban Real Estate, $4,000,000 on Rural Acreage.

Assessed value of urban real estate in St. Louis county this year is $388,802,130, an increase of about $30,000,000 over last year's $358,887,830, it was disclosed in abstracts forwarded last night to the State Tax Commission by County Leo E. Sievers.

Not only was the number of city lots increased from 207,275 to 218,850 by the establishment of more than 200 new subdivisions in the last year, but the average assessed valuation of the lots also rose from $1732 to $1776, Sievers said.

Sievers said the rise in average value came from improvements made on previously vacant or partly improved lots and from changes in land value as it was converted from rural to urban classifications.

Rural property rose also in both acreage and value. There were 226,815 acres in 1954 with an assessed value of $74,215,620 which increased to 228,264 acres with a value of $78,249,450 this year. The average assessed value per acre rose from $372 to $342, Sievers said.

The increase in acreage was attributed by Sievers to reversion of some city lots to rural status as plans for some subdivisions were abandoned and also to accretions along the banks of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

Personal property assessments totaled $123,115,070, an increase of $6,977,520 over last year. Thus, the total value of all locally assessed real and personal property in the county was $590,166,650 this year.

The State Tax Commission has indicated it would raise the assessed value of real estate, both urban and rural, raised to about $746,000,000. Its formal order is expected some time between next Monday and July 11.

ECONOMIST WARNS ON 'SPECULATIVE BOOM' BACKFIRING

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., June 17 (AP)—The Federal Government's chief economist said last night the nation is setting new records in production, employment and incomes, but care must be taken to guard against "speculative booms."

Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers to President Eisenhower, said private citizens must share this responsibility with the Government.

In an address at a conference of economists at Pennsylvania State University, Burns said:

"It is not prudent to rely on our ability to check an economic recession once it develops. The time to begin combatting recessionary forces is during the prosperity phase of the business cycle, when excesses often develop in the sphere of prices, credit and inventories."

"Such a course is not popular because it is not yet fully understood. This makes the task of the Government harder but it does not diminish its responsibility."

82 SPIES, REBELS SEIZED IN PEIPING, RED CHINESE SAY

HONG KONG, June 17 (AP)—Chinese Communist newspapers received in Hong Kong today reported that Red authorities arrested 82 "secret agents, criminals and counter-revolutionaries" in Peiping last month. Among them, the papers said, were eight persons seized in raids who "clandestinely possessed firearms and radio stations." The other 74 taken into custody reportedly were "counter-revolutionaries concealing themselves in hotels in Peiping."

Barge Capsizes, 43 Saved. NEW ORLEANS, June 17 (UP)—The tug Delilah today picked up 43 men in the Gulf of Mexico after a drilling barge capsized about four miles south of Grand Isle, La. The Coast Guard said there were no drownings. The name of the barge owner was not immediately available.

EISENHOWER GIVES ZIONISTS PALESTINE PEACE FORMULA

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—President Eisenhower told the annual convention of Zionist organizations in a message last night that peace in the Middle East can be achieved "only through patient and conciliatory examination of problems" in that area.

America can contribute, the President said by "urging development of understanding" of the problems among peoples there. "Our Government attaches great value to its firm friendship with Israel," he said, "and seeks establishment of an enduring peace in the Middle East."

SLOVAK RESISTANCE LEADER GETS DEATH, 11 SENTENCED

VIENNA, June 17 (AP)—A Czechoslovak military court at Bratislava sentenced one man to death and 11 other persons to long prison terms yesterday on charges of organizing a Catholic resistance group in Slovakia.

The Bratislava radio said the group, alleged to be led by a Bernard Newmcek, tried to overthrow the Communist Government and re-establish an independent Slovak state, like the one founded by Father Josef Tiso in World War II.

The court pronounced the death penalty for Newmcek. Dr. Josef Kassicky, former secretary of Father Tiso, and Stefan Buhar, a former leader of the Catholic Hlinka-guards, received life sentences. The rest were sentenced to prison terms ranging from six to 25 years.

ANTI-NAZI NAMED TO TOP GERMAN MILITARY POST

BONN, June 17 (UP)—A high-ranking staff officer who was arrested for anti-Nazi activities during World War II was appointed yesterday to the highest-ranking military post in West Germany's new armed forces.

Gen. Adolf Heusinger, who has been a top military planner here ever since rearmament of West Germany was first mentioned, was appointed Inspector General by Defense Minister Theodor Blank.

talk business...

it's a salesman you want, you'll look far before you'll find a better one than a Post-Dispatch want ad.

Small as it is, it packs a mighty wallop, and gets in places where a two-legged salesman don't. There are no barriers a want ad can't hurdle; it encounters no sales resistance because it's paid for by the advertiser and sought by the reader, who buys the Post-Dispatch to know what's for sale and who has it for sale.

The want ad is a tireless worker for anyone willing to hire its services.

It is a guide to business opportunities, often a promoter of an enterprise. It sells real estate, unused commodities and has a voice in thousands of transactions like no other medium of advertising.

It talks business to everybody, and is heard. For the price you pay, a Post-Dispatch want ad is a force in selling you can't afford to ignore. It's wanted.

So, for things you want to buy, sell or rent, read and use Post-Dispatch want ads.

JOSEPH KELLEY NEW HEAD OF VA OFFICE

Served as Assistant Since 1945—Succeeds E. J.
Weiland.

Joseph F. Kelley of Ellisville, St. Louis county, today was appointed manager of the St. Louis office of the Veterans Administration, which handles veterans matters in the eastern half of Missouri.

Kelley, who has served 36 years in the Veterans Administration as a civil service employee, has been assistant manager of the office here since 1945. He succeeds E. J. Weiland, who retired last January.

The appointment of Kelley figured in the bitter patronage fight between A. D. (Bud) Welsh, Republican National Committeeman for Missouri, and State G.O.P. Chairman Perry Compton. Kelley was supported by Welsh and Mrs. Estelle Tanner, the national committeewoman. Compton had backed Harold L. Butterfield of Sumner, the unsuccessful G.O.P. candidate for State Auditor last year.

An overseas veteran of World War I, Kelley joined the Bureau of War Risks, forerunner of the Veterans Administration, in 1919. He had served in VA offices in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Jefferson Barracks before joining the St. Louis office.

Col. Enoch Paulson, now stationed at Selfridge Air Force Base, Michigan, was named to succeed Kelley as assistant manager.

DRIVER CAUGHT IN 70 M.P.H. CHASE FACING 3 CHARGES

A young man who said he was John R. Meiborg of Fenton, was charged with careless driving, destruction of city property and resisting arrest after a chase at speeds up to 70 miles an hour early today by a Crestwood police officer who fired two shots. Patrolman Melvin Tinsley said he chased Meiborg west on U.S. Highway 66 after he saw him speed out of a tavern parking lot a short distance east of Lindbergh boulevard. The chase ended on Rott road, which joins Geyer road south of the highway, when Meiborg's automobile struck several mailboxes, then went in and out of a ditch. The police car skidded into Meiborg's machine.

Meiborg, 21 years old, was treated at St. Louis county hospital for cuts and bruises. Two passengers in his machine were also held.

6 ADAMS DRIVERS SUE 3 DAIRIES AND UNION

Allege Their Pay Was Reduced by Contract Employer Was Forced to Sign.

A $900,000 damage suit was filed today against St. Louis, Pevely and Quality dairies and the AFL Milk Wagon Drivers' Union by six drivers for Adams Dairy, who alleged their pay was reduced by a union contract which Adams was forced to sign by the other dairies.

The suit, filed in United States District Court, alleged the defendants violated the Sherman anti-trust laws. It was filed by Arthur J. Riley Jr., George F. Powell, James A. Frye Jr., David T. Hockensmith Jr., James P. Strode Jr., and Elgin H. Hartshorn. Each plaintiff seeks $50,000 actual damages and asked the court for treble damages.

Some Adams drivers, the petition said, earned as much as $1400 a month prior to the signing of the 1950 union contract. After the contract was signed their salaries dropped to less than $700 a month.

The petition said that prior to July 1, 1950, when a new union contract was signed, the drivers for Adams received a nominal salary plus a 2-cent commission on every quart of milk sold.

Under the new 1950 contract, the petition said, Adams and the other dairies had to pay the drivers 4 cents a quart for every quart over 40,000 they delivered a month. Since Adams sells only at wholesale and does not make home deliveries, many of its drivers were delivering up to 52,000 quarts a month.

By "coercing" Adams into signing the union contract, the petition said, the defendants were attempting to force that dairy to increase its price, which is normally 2 cents a quart lower than other dairies' prices.

Adams, however, did not in-

EXPERT SAYS AUTO ACCIDENTS REACH EPIDEMIC STAGE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., June 17 (AP)—A Harvard University public health expert said last night automobile accidents are becoming a "mass disease of epidemic proportions."

He called for "intensified efforts" to learn the basic causes of auto accidents. That knowledge would "provide a foundation for improved methods of accident prevention," he said.

In a talk prepared for the summer meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers, Ross A. McFarland of the Harvard School of Public Health said the number of persons killed and injured in auto accidents in the United States has been "increasing from year to year with fair regularity."

"In 1954 there were approximately 36,000 deaths and more than 1,000,000 injuries disabling beyond the day of the accident," he said. "In addition, the direct costs of these accidents approximate 1 1/2 per cent of the national income, or about four and half billion dollars."

McFarland said present trends indicate that "one person out of every ten in this country may be killed or injured in a motor vehicle accident within a period of 15 years."

crease its price, but instead split its routes so that no driver would deliver more than 40,000 quarts of milk a month, with the result that the pay of some drivers was cut.

William H. Biggs, attorney for the drivers, said they have since left the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union and are working under a separate arrangement with Adams.

The Adams company filed a $500,000 damage suit a year ago against Pevely and St. Louis dairies alleging that an industry-wide labor contract negotiated without its approval in 1950 "was designed and intended by the defendants to increase and interfere with the plaintiff's distribution costs and thereby stifle or prevent the plaintiff from competing with the defendants."

RUSSIA CALLS U.S. RAID TEST MOVE TO FRIGHTEN PUBLIC

LONDON, June 17 (AP)—The Moscow Radio today called America's Operation Alert an effort by the Government to intimidate the public into more expenditures for armaments.

The broadcast declared "war hysteria is continuing in the U.S.A." and added:

"This large-scale simulation with all its noise and clatter is evidently calculated to intimidate the population and to compel them to believe in the inevitability of atomic war and to become reconciled to the colossal expenditure on armaments."

FAMILY INCOMES CHANGED LITTLE BY 1953-54 SLUMP

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—The average American's financial position was "little changed" by the 1953-54 business slump, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

The percentage of people in debt early this year was much the same as a year earlier, and so were the amounts they owed, the report said. It noted a dip in the percentage of people with money in checking accounts, savings or other liquid assets (such as Government bonds), however, and in the amounts involved.

These findings were based on a survey in January and February by the University of Michigan, some details of which were published today.

The cash income of the average "spending unit"—a family or group of people living together and sharing their income and expenses—was $4420 in 1954, compared to $4570 in 1953, the report said. Because of a decline in income taxes, the average in-

JAMES ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK AT BELLEVILLE TOMORROW

United States Representative James Roosevelt (Dem.), California, will be the principal speaker at a picnic and wurstmarkt given by Democratic leaders tomorrow at Belleville, John Sprague, president of the St. Clair County Democratic Club, announced today.

Roosevelt will be met at Lambert-St. Louis Field and escorted to a luncheon of Democratic leaders and officeholders at the Belleville Hotel at noon. The luncheon will be followed by a motorcade starting at Mascoutah Sportsmen's Park and visiting a number of smaller towns in the county before returning to the park for the picnic and wurstmarkt, Sprague said.

Roosevelt's address is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. at the park, which is one mile east of Scott Air Force Base on Illinois Route 141.

come after taxes in both years was the same—$3920. Because prices were practically stable, the 1954 income bought as much as the 1953 income.

VIET NAM REBEL UNITS REPORTED TRAPPED IN WEST

Bulk of Hoa Hao Sect
Army, Most of Diem's Enemies Believed Surrounded.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, June 17 (AP)—An authoritative source said today that 15 national army battalions have trapped the bulk of the Hoa Hao religious army and most of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's personal enemies in western Viet Nam.

The sources said the rebel forces are surrounded in a four-mile square between Gacghia on the west coast and Thot Not, 35 miles northeast. Trapped in the area are two regiments of rebel Gen. Le Quang (Ba Cut) Vinh's forces and two elite guard battalions led by Hoa Hao commander Tran Van Soai.

Ousted Chief of Staff. Along with them, the source added, are ousted Chief of Staff Nguyen Van Hinh and the army's outlawed former inspector general, Nguyen Van Vy.

Soai and the remnants of his force were reported decoupled out of the Can Tho-Vinh Long-Sadec triangle, about 90 miles west of Saigon, two days ago to make a junction with Ba Cut's two regiments.

The army did this by spreading false information and staging aerial maneuvers in another sector. Then it closed the trap, the source continued.

Ba Cut's forces are estimated at some 5000 men by the army, though French and other sources have placed them as high as 30,000, counting irregular units.

Diem and two visiting United States Senators went to the Thu Duc military base south of Saigon today for the first public demonstration by the Viet Nam army since the United States took over responsibility for its training and reorganization on Feb. 1.

The Premier's American visitors were Senator Dirksen (Rep.) Illinois and Senator Clements (Dem.) Kentucky, who are touring Asian countries receiving American aid. The United States is contributing $400,000,000 in economic and military aid to bolster South Viet Nam in its fight against Communism.

Model Battalion. Members of the government, military officers and the diplomatic corps inspected a model battalion along with Diem and the Senators.

Dirksen said the model battalion looked as good as any he had seen. The head of the training program, United States Lt. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, said the Viet Nam soldiers were as good as any in the world. He also directed training of South Korean troops.

U Nu Arrives in Britain. LONDON, June 17 (AP)—Premier U Nu of Burma arrived last night from Yugoslavia for a week's official visit to Britain.

52 LAMBS, RAISED BY BOY, TOP 4-H CLUB MARKETING

Fifty-two lambs, raised by 14-year-old Julius Larrick, brought $1026 yesterday at the annual lamb marketing day at National Stockyards, East St. Louis, Larrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clive Larrick, of Shelby, Mo., raised the animals as a 4-H Club project.

Fifty-five other youths from Missouri and Illinois sold 386 lambs which brought a total of $8036. The annual day is sponsored by the Producers Livestock Marketing Association in co-operation with 4-H Clubs and Universities of Missouri and Illinois livestock specialists.

Young Larrick's exhibit was judged best for which he received a book on livestock feeding from the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. Of his 52 lambs, 12 were graded choice and prime, top meat grades, 31 were rated good, eight medium and one common. This is the third year Larrick's exhibit was judged best.

HIS DISMISSAL NOT VALID, WELLSTON PRINCIPAL SAYS

Owen E. Thompson, whose contract as principal of Wellston's Central Elementary School and Junior High School has not been renewed, maintained today that he is still entitled to the position.

Thompson asserted that he was notified April 27 by the Wellston school district Board of Education that he had not been re-appointed. Since state law requires that such notices be given by April 15, the decision was not valid, he said.

School officials, however, said that notice was given to Thompson by April 15. The six-member school board has twice split, 3 to 3, on the issue of a new contract for Thompson, who was Wellston's first mayor and who has been principal for 17 years.

3 MEN BURNED SEVERELY IN BLAST AT ATOM PROJECT

KANSAS CASH REGISTER

Spillway for the new $19,500,000 Kirwin dam on the north fork of the Solomon river in Kansas, simulates the flowing front of an old cash register in this aerial view. The dam, dedicated June 10, was designed for flood control, irrigation and power purposes. The Bureau of Reclamation, in charge of the project, is building the Webster dam on the Solomon's south fork, scheduled for completion next year.

STRANDED BY STRIKE

Mood of this strike-bound group of travelers is reflected in dismal expressions as they waited for their luggage in London's Waterloo station yesterday. Travel plans were altered when a seamen's wildcat strike forced cancellation of the scheduled departure of the liner Queen Mary from Southampton, England. About 1100 passengers bound for New York were forced to disembark from the liner and return to London.

DELIGHTED WITH DIPLOMA

Closing In

The Vanishing Wide Open Spaces

By Leonard Hall

ONE day recently our friend Paul Justus came by Possum Trot on his way home to St. Louis from his farm in southeast Missouri. As we sat talking on the back porch, the subject came up of how the Americans of the future are going to find areas of open country for outdoor recreation. The choice must be made, it seemed to us, of doing some careful planning or else of being content to becoming a nation of spectators, willing to crowd together in masses in great arenas while a handful of highly trained athletes perform for us. Spectator sports are thrilling and well worth-while, at least as long as they're honest. Yet I somehow doubt they will ever completely satisfy a people whose forebears of only a few generations back were fully occupied in matching their wits, skill and brawn against the great wilderness of unconquered America.

This problem of conserving some open space in our country for outdoor recreation has occupied the attention of at least a few people for the past 50 years. But our population is outgrowing the efforts of this handful of enthusiasts. We well recall that on the 8000-mile trip we made last winter through the eastern and midwestern United States, we found almost no city or town which wasn't literally bursting at the seams and spilling out into the surrounding countryside. Great super-highways spanned the landscape, taking over thousands of acres of farm and wild land.

RIGHT HERE AT HOME we have noticed a tremendous difference in the short 10 years we've been at Possum Trot. When we came, Highway 21 from the Meramec south was a scenic road through the Ozark foothills, with scattered farmsteads and only an occasional hardy pioneer pushing out to build a home from which he commuted to the city. From Hillsboro to Potosi there was much semi-wild land; while from Potosi south the forest bordered the road in an almost unbroken line. Today all this has changed. Residences line the road almost solidly for 30 miles from the city to Hillsboro. Even south of Potosi there are today perhaps 500 small home sites which have grown up during these years. Truly, the cities, suburbs and town are closing in fast.

One interesting thing to note is that all this "out-pushing" is the result of a desire for more space; for a bit of air and sun, for green trees and grass and a garden plot. The difficulty is that such movements without planning—and most of it is certainly without community planning—becomes eventually self-defeating. The two-room shack on its quarter-acre presses close against the well-designed and carefully landscaped home. School facilities become crowded and sanitary arrangements are woefully inadequate, so that water supplies are in danger of contamination. Even in the city itself we notice the pressure, especially on our parks. More space is given to buildings and areas for car parking and similar "improvements"; each one subtracting from the acres of shaded greensward.

THERE ARE MANY SUGGESTIONS being made to remedy this situation—or at least to prevent it from becoming any worse than it is today. Such groups as New York State's Regional Plan Association, Inc., the National Recreation Association, the Wilderness Society and the National Park Association have all offered plans. In cities and towns themselves, the answer must lie in better zoning not only within corporate limits, but in surrounding suburban and country areas. The time has arrived when cities must think ahead in this matter, perhaps actually acquiring large acreages of low-valuation land in the surrounding countryside to be maintained in a fairly natural state and used for recreation.

The National Park policy should come in for careful study and perhaps a new approach. Already taking care of 50,000,000 visitors per year, the parks are being administered on a budget and have tourist facilities and park personnel sufficient to handle more than 25,000,000 visitors annually. Although the parks are beautiful, it has been pointed out that none of them truly represents such great areas of the country as the Great Plains, North Woods, Mississippi Valley or seashore. Perhaps worst of all is the present tendency of the Federal Government to allow pressure groups to break down the carefully planned policy for preservation of the parks.

THE TIME HAS ALSO COME when the individual states must give more attention to setting aside large land areas for recreation. Some like California have already made a fine start in this direction. Others like Missouri have barely begun; nor do they seem apt to make much progress until there is a broader understanding among people at large of the serious nature of the problem.

Here is the St. Louis area perhaps the greatest single step we could take toward providing present and future recreational opportunities for our people would be through proper development of the Meramec river watershed. Nor does this mean the construction of a series of huge high dams and fluctuating impoundments which would flood out all the arable land in the valley and accomplish little or nothing for recreation. It would mean the creation of something like the Watershed Conservation Districts of Ohio, where numerous small reservoirs, along with a fine program of reforestation and soil conservation, today provide good fishing, boating, swimming, camping, picnicking and hunting for vast numbers of people from such crowded industrial cities as Akron, Toledo and Detroit.

St. Louis with her new bond issue and through the efforts of many forward-looking citizens is planning for the future. One area for this planning, unless we want to see the day when one must drive out 40 to 50 miles in any direction before finding open country, must be the setting aside of recreational lands not too far from its doorstep. Only in this way can the citizens of tomorrow be assured of breathing space in the great outdoors.

Social Problems

READER asks: "Is it proper for a person to accept two invitations for the same evening? To explain further: I invited a friend to dine with my husband and me the other evening. I took it for granted that she would spend the entire evening with us either playing cards, watching television, or just talking. But about a half hour after dinner she said that she had to leave as she promised the A's she would make a fourth for bridge. I felt hurt over this and thought she was very rude to accept a second invitation. I would very much like your opinion of this?"

If she rushed off immediately after the meal was over, I think she was very rude. But if no special plans were made for after dinner and she stayed for an hour or more talking, it was not rude of her to leave.

DEAR MRS. POST: May a hostess wear a long dress at a party she is giving in her house when the guests will, in all probability, be in street-length dresses?

Answer: It is entirely proper for a hostess to wear a long dress at her own party.

A Conductor and His Life of Music

Jascha Horenstein, Who Will Lead Little Symphony, Recalls Early Career

By Thomas B. Sherman

"WHEN a young conductor tells you conducting is a pleasure," said Jascha Horenstein, "don't believe it. It is an ordeal and continues to be so until the material of a wide repertoire has passed through his mind over and over again."

Horenstein, who will conduct the St. Louis Little Symphony Orchestra for the remainder of its season, beginning tonight, is now 57 and can look back on an experience of more than 30 years with orchestras all over the world. If he now can assess some of those experiences with philosophical detachment, it is not because they have grown so vivid.

He recalls an early occasion in a city in Germany when he was booked with a pianist who was to play the Liszt E Flat concerto. When he arrived he found that the A Major Liszt concerto was advertised.

"It was an agonizing situation," he said. "I hadn't studied the A Major concerto. Fortunately the pianist was willing to work with me practically all day in preparing the performance. Now, of course, to me or to any experienced conductor, a last minute change of program would mean nothing."

Before he had quite realized how much was involved in controlling an orchestra and bringing a score to life Horenstein was talking shop one day with Otto Klemperer, even then a veteran conductor though still in practice. Klemperer told him that it took at least 20 years of active experience to make a conductor a real conductor.

Horenstein didn't quite believe him. After all he was a practicing conductor already and in that moment of self-confident youth would have taken on anything. Now he realizes that even 20 years is not enough. He believes that it takes 30 years.

As it happened Horenstein did not begin his musical career with the expectation of becoming a conductor. Though born in Russia, he was taken to Vienna at the age of 6 where, as an adolescent he studied theory and counterpoint with Joseph Marx and composition with Franz Schreker. While launching out as a composer with a number of chamber works, he took up choral conducting as an assistant to Siegfried Ochs. Choral conducting is a different orchestra and presented an opportunity. So he made his debut as an orchestral conductor with

JASCHA HORENSTEIN, WHO BEGINNING TONIGHT WILL TAKE OVER AS CONDUCTOR OF THE LITTLE SYMPHONY.

Mahler's First Symphony. This event, which took place in Vienna during 1923, led to his being engaged by Wilhelm Furtwängler to rehearse Bach's B Minor Mass for a festival performance in Frankfurt.

Furtwängler was so impressed by Horenstein's work that he interested himself in the young man's career to the extent of recommending him to several cities including Berlin. Horenstein has been a conductor ever since.

The Berlin engagement was associated with a significant experience. He got a lesson in conducting from Richard Strauss which cost him nothing except a minor bruise to his self-esteem. When his time for the performance in Berlin came around, Horenstein had been appointed chief kapellmeister at the Dusseldorf Opera and was to conduct Strauss's opera "Ariadne auf Naxos." Knowing that Strauss was in Berlin he asked permission to see the composer in order to consult with him about the score. As he also was conducting Strauss's "Till Eulenspiegel" in his Berlin concert he suggested, hopefully, that Strauss might drop in for that part of the concert.

out with unfailing tact and inexhaustible patience. It was another free lesson in musical analysis and inspired human relations.

"I treated him so badly," said Horenstein, "and he treated me so well. Usually when a great soloist finishes his part of a concert he goes home. But Rachmaninoff stood in the wings for the whole program."

NEEDLESS to say the conductor couldn't have asked for a more heartening vote of confidence.

Following the Nazi rise to power Horenstein left Germany to make his residence in Paris. Later he came to the United States and subsequently became an American citizen. In addition to his European engagements, he has conducted orchestras in New Zealand, Australia, Israel, and in North, South and Central America. He came to St. Louis last week, where he is a guest of his brother-in-law, Leo Solta, immediately after concluding an engagement with the Orquesta Sinfonica de Mexico in Mexico City.

Horenstein is represented on a large number of records made since the introduction of the long playing record, mostly with European Orchestras. These include the Bamberg Symphony Orchestra, an organization with a unique history.

Up to the time of the Russian occupation of Czechoslovakia it was the Prague Orchestra, but rather than take its chances with a new political regime the members decided to move to Germany and as Bamberg had no orchestra this small city was chosen as a future home. It is now supported by municipal and federal funds, by plays only a short season in Bamberg. The remainder of the time it tours or makes records. Its tours have carried it all over the world.

Like most conductors, Horenstein is grounded in the classic and romantic literature but is optimistic about contemporary music and the future of music generally. He sees talent everywhere and is particularly impressed with Luigi Dallapiccola, the Italian composer.

"Dallapiccola is known as a follower of Schoenberg," he said. "But though he writes in the twelve-tone system, the effects of his Italian tradition—of Monteverdi, Vivaldi, Rossini, yes even Puccini—is stronger still. So he can be as lyrical as an aria from Aida."

When modern music is unsatisfactory or dry or just bad, said Horenstein, it was not because the technique is new but because the composer has no message. "The primitive technique of Erik Satie couldn't conceal the fact that he had a message."

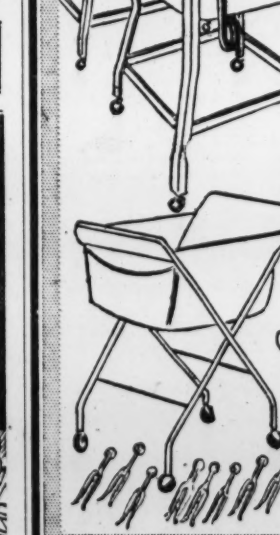

"You can't explain Mozart in terms of technique," said Horenstein. "In fact you can't explain Mozart at all. Bach and Beethoven are great composers but Mozart, like Rembrandt, is just there, a miracle beyond analysis."

"CAN you tell me," asks a reader, "the origin of the phrase 'he stole my thunder'?"

This phrase, meaning to appropriate for one's own use something created by another person, has been traced back to John Dennis, a playwright in Restoration England. It seems Dennis was a better sound-effects man than dramatist for the most impressive thing about his production of "Appius and Virginia" was a new method of creating realistic-sounding thunder. A few weeks after his play closed, Dennis attended a performance of "Macbeth" at a rival theater. As the curtain rose on the Witches' Scene, he heard thunder remarkably similar to the effects he himself had originally devised. Clapping his hand to his forehead, he cried: "See how the rascals use me. They will not let my play run—they steal my thunder!"

Creamed Green Peas With Oysters and Bacon Ingredients: One package (10 ounces) frozen green peas, one can (10 ounces) frozen condensed oyster stew, two tablespoons flour, four slices buttered toast, four to eight slices bacon (crisply cooked).

Method: Cook peas according to package directions; drain, reserving any liquid in saucepan. Heat oyster stew over low heat until completely defrosted; stir often. Lift out oysters with a slotted spoon. Mix peas with reserved oyster liquid and two tablespoons of the cooking liquid from green peas (or use water).

Dampproofing Basement Floors.

AS many basements are nice and cool during the summer, a good way to beat the heat, over a weekend is to go down to said basement and dampproof the floor. You'll spend a couple of nice cool days and end up with a floor that won't become damp in spots after heavy rains.

The way to start this job is to cut out any cracks in the floor so that they are wider on the inside than on the outside—so they form an inverted V—and then wet down the sides of the crack and patch with patching mortar or one part cement to two parts sand.

After this patch is dry, the floor should be given a coat of asphalt waterproofing compound. This, if applied so that it completely covers the floor, will produce a waterproof membrane and prevent moisture being drawn up through the new floor surface. The new surface consists of a two to three inch coating of concrete—one part cement, two parts sand and three parts gravel applied directly over the asphalt waterproofing compound.

IT'S A WISE IDEA, before the concrete is poured, to set strips of bevel wood siding around the walls of the basement with the wide edge facing up. Coat these with oil so that the concrete won't stick to them. After the concrete is hard, the wood strips can be removed and this joint between floor and wall filled with tar to make a damp-proof seam.

This remedy gives good result if your trouble is simply dampness. If the water coming up through the floor is under pressure, you'll need something more rugged—membrane waterproofing paper set in asphalt with a three to four inch reinforced concrete floor over it.

1. WILL EDUCATION MAKE GIRLS AND BOYS EQUAL? YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question 1. NO. Their aptitudes will still differ. Psychologists find that girls talk earlier, have larger vocabularies, and excel in language. They also have better memories, quicker perception of the details of clerical work and much greater finger dexterity. But the boys have a greater amount and range of general information and better ability in mathematics and in mechanical manipulations.

Answer to Question 2. True. The National Safety Council says the total cost of accidents of all types in 1953 was $9,700,000,000. By all means the larger part of highway accidents and deaths was due to speeding, drinking and lack of common good manners.

Answer to Question 3. It is harder for the employer to do it face-to-face, but it is far better for the employee. Many firms dodge this responsibility by slipping a note in the pay envelope, which usually breaks the heart of the employee—whereas, a sympathetic talk with the manager often preserves the courage of the discharged person. Firing by letter is both brutal and cowardly.

Souvenirs of Boyhood Youth Revisited

By Hal Boyle

KANSAS CITY, June 17 (AP).

WHAT does a man find if he comes back years later to his old home town, and tries to dig back into his boyhood? Well, the surprises he discovers may rather in a small way reconcile him to the guy he has become.

HAL BOYLE

The first day I came back without her and threw away my youth all alone with both hands. I feel now I threw too much away. But it's a personal handicap. Anything in life ... if it is life ... I don't like to see go.

As I said before, excavating the souvenirs of youth—only from your own living—is a surprising experience. I don't hesitate to use the word amazing. I am amazed to discover that, at the age of 44, except for the weapon of experience, I face life with no brighter sword than the hope and courage and intelligence I had when I was 19. All you acquire is the information of caution.

THROWING AWAY the mementos of your life is rather hard. These old memories have hands in them that grip you from old times.

The first day, when Mama was there and said, "You can't live ahead while you're still trying to live behind you," I was stubborn and threw little away.

The next day I came back without her and threw away my youth all alone with both hands. I feel now I threw too much away. But it's a personal handicap. Anything in life ... if it is life ... I don't like to see go.

As I said before, excavating the souvenirs of youth—only from your own living—is a surprising experience. I don't hesitate to use the word amazing. I am amazed to discover that, at the age of 44, except for the weapon of experience, I face life with no brighter sword than the hope and courage and intelligence I had when I was 19. All you acquire is the information of caution.

WHAT I FOUND in the basement, I believe, proves my point. Digging back through the dirty debris of childhood, I find my outlook has changed little.

After finishing my high school classes and riding a bike for pay for the drug store six days a week at 15 cents an hour from 6 in the evening until 11 o'clock, I would go home and draw cartoons, because I wanted to be a cartoonist.

I gave it up because I didn't have what it takes—talent, ability. So I turned to words, and earn this living.

I wrote poems then, but poems in that time, as in this time, were the cake of the spirit and bought no bread for the body.

DIGGING THERE ALL ALONE in the basement, I found the poor sad practice cartoons (they weren't as bad as I thought them. They looked rather good to me, after these years. It isn't the pencil, it's the idea). I found the poems. I read them and felt then again (what is a poem but the lyric reach of a heart grasping beyond the imprisoned mind?).

Of course, there all alone in this rubble of remembrance in the basement, there were many things that needed to be thrown away, and many of them I did (and miss already). There were old school pictures, faded photos of girls then pined for and later half-forgotten, friends dead and remembered by the force of their passing, and relatives revived.

BUT THE MAIN DISCOVERY in the basement was that, coming back after these many years, I was in no real way superior to the dreaming boy who had tried long ago to preserve these souvenirs I was discarding.

I didn't think in my lifetime I later shaved a better man than that boy. It was really a voyage in self-discovery to go back into the basement and see him again. Don't know whether I feel good or bad.

At the Movies

IN "TO PARIS WITH LOVE," at the PAGEANT and RICHMOND THEATERS, Alec Guinness discards his usual comedy character of the diffident little man with a wicked anti-social gleam in his eye that takes form in outrageous behavior, and becomes a cool, dignified British aristocrat. And the picture changes from his usual hilarious comedy to a gentle, wispy, polite one. This tale of a middle-aged widower's fling at youthful heady romance with a 20-year-old Parisian shopgirl and his rueful realization he ought to act his age has its charm, its delicacy and its chuckles, but it is distinctly not top-notch Guinness.

A groundwork is laid for a racy, sophisticated farce. Col. Sir Edgar Fraser (Guinness), 42-year-old laird of a Scottish castle, and his 20-year-old son (Vernon Gray) arrive in Paris in the spring (beautifully pastel in Technicolor), and their bond begins to stir. They meet the charming shopgirl, Lisette (Odile Versois), and her wealthy and sveltly beautiful employer, Sylvia Gilbert (Elna Labourette). The son tries to promote a romance between Sylvia and his father as a suitable pairing, but Sylvia has more youthful ideas and amorously appropriates the young man herself. Sir Edgar himself has a jaunty and youthful eye for Lisette, and falls sincerely in love with her, handicapped somewhat by the shadowing of her suspicious taxi-driver father and her jealous boy friend, the motor-scooter type.

Trouble is, this farce never falls into zany uninhibited mirth on the one hand; and on the other, it avoids with faintly lifted eyebrow that Gallic type of raucous and spiciness which it might have followed. After the first half, comic invention, never too sharply developed, dies on the vine. "To Paris With Love" is jaunty, but not debonair enough. What could have been, in contrast, a poignancy in the lonely middle-aged man's tenderness for the girl is never allowed fruition. The tale is not allowed to dance gayly along romantic bypaths, but after a few frolicsome skips is slowed to a saunter. A couple of moments of slapstick by Guinness somehow don't fit; they seem too deliberately inserted and out of tune. The comedy, like Sir Edgar, carries well-restrained restraint too far. It is as if Guinness had refined his comedy by underplaying (and scripter Robert Buckner by underwriting) until the star realized it was tenuous to the point of being thrown away, and had decided to pump some red blood into it.

Wendell Mayes, Welder-Turned-TV-Writer, Now Working on 'Spirit of St. Louis' Film Script

By Edward A. Harris
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

HOLLYWOOD, June 17. LD MAN RIVER just kept rolling along, and from its banks at Caruthersville the little boy watched with a mixture of wide-eyed wonder and envy. The river was restless in spirit and full of movement; it went to far places, as did the shrill-tooting boats in the town harbor, and the boy longed to travel, too.

There in the swampest corner of Missouri, where the booteel was lifted out of the mud and mud through prodigious effort, the Mississippi often overran its course. The boy, Wendell Mayes, is now in his late thirties, married, and newly one of television's most talented writers. But before reaching his goal as a writer his wanderings rivaled that of his beloved river.

He has been a law student, a filing clerk, summer theater stage manager, a gold prospector, a truck driver, a reading clerk in the State Legislature at Jefferson City, a welder (and member of the CIO United Marine Workers' Union), an actor and an exterminator salesman—surely a remarkable background even for Hollywood, where Mayes currently is working on the movie script for the Charles A. Lindbergh story, "The Spirit of St. Louis."

Possibly there is something even more astonishing about Mayes. He has been highly praised by television's brilliant but severest critic, John Crosby, a pleasant shock from which Mayes, a quiet, modest fellow, is still recovering over at the Warner Brothers lot.

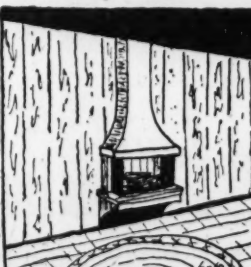

Crosby wrote, in part: "Specifically he wrote a fine poignant TV play called 'No Riders' about a truck driver's acquisition of a small Mexican boy. It was a very distinctive piece in which the dialogue was cut down to the minimal requirements and it immediately attracted the attention of Leland Hayward." Hayward, whose company is producing the Lindbergh screen story for lease by Warner, hired Mayes and brought him to a portion of the West where Mayes is far more apt to find gold nuggets than he ever uncovered in Arizona.

TO say that Mayes has reached his goal is perhaps too presumptuous. Goals change from time to time, and no one can tell just what is in a man's heart, but it can be safely said that for many years Mayes wanted to be a successful writer, and it is only in the last few months that he has achieved this aim. A brown-eyed, dark-haired man with an expressive, handsome face, his only title to Hollywood was so far is that he wears a plaid sports coat at work, but even the coat is quietly expressive, rather than strident. Nor has he yet caught the Hollywood fever for racy Jaguars, kidney-shaped swimming pools or flying weekend trips to nearby "Vegas" (in the movie capital one never says LAS Vegas).

If Mayes has good judgment as well as great ability, he owes much of it to his mother, Irene, and his father, Von Mayes, who at 79 is one of the oldest members of the bar, still practicing today in Caruthersville. Wendell was born in Hayti, a railroad town about five miles from Caruthersville, but when he was only a few years old the family moved to Jefferson City, where his father served as a State Representative and State Senator, becoming widely known in political circles throughout the state. During this period Caruthersville became the home town.

Both of Wendell's grandfathers came to southeast Missouri when it was still a desolate and sparsely settled swamp. One, Capt. Daniel Haynes of the Union Army, built the first railroad down there, a narrow-gauge track from Malden to New Madrid. Wendell's father's father, Anthony Mayes, was a physician in Hayti. They were of Scotch-Irish- Welsh forebears.

"AND INCLUDE SOMETHING IN THAT BUDGET FOR A NEW MOP, GENTLEMEN."

WENDELL MAYES . . . HIGH PRAISE FROM CRITIC JOHN CROSBY.

Wendell's schooling and career started off with deceptive normality. Many a boy along the Mississippi levees watched the river with longing and stayed right in school, so did Wendell. He learned the three Rs in Caruthersville, went to Prep school in Tennessee just across the river, graduated high there and went on to Central college in Fayette, Mo., and finally took up law at Cumberland University in Lebanon, Tenn. But one year of law seemed more than enough. The moving Mississippi still tugged at him, the urge to travel grew stronger as the desire to learn the law waned, and he went to the nation's Capital to take a job as a filing clerk for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

In Washington, for the very first time in his life, he went to a theater to see a professional play—"Romeo and Juliet," in which Katherine Cornell played the leading role. The effect on Mayes was profound. He decided he wanted to be a writer. He quit his Government job, moved to a boarding house on Capitol Hill, and began to write short stories. He was given harsh but constructive criticism by an astute friend whom he had met as a filing clerk colleague, and who subsequently became the head of a successful chemical company. The criticism was such that Mayes didn't dare send his efforts to magazine editors.

To learn more about writing, including playwriting, he went to New York to get a job in the theater. "It didn't go too well there," he recalls ruefully. "I did get work as stage manager of summer stock, and I kept on writing. But the stories came back with rejection slips, all of them."

His staunchest supporter during this trial by rejection slips was his father, who had made no attempt to persuade his son to follow his legal footsteps. The elder Mayes not only encouraged Wendell to keep plugging away at the typewriter, but sent him plot ideas of his own and even subscribed to a writers' digest so that he could learn more about the consarned business of putting words and plots together. After Pop had thoroughly studied each issue of the magazine he would send it along, somewhat ragged at the edges, to Wendell.

It took the son some time to realize that his father, himself, was a rich source of material, not so much in the plots he connected hopefully for his son but in his own life. Years later Wendell wrote "Hang Up

My Guns" for television, in which he said the leading character, an attorney, is based on his father as a young man. The play is about a family of mountaineers, a rugged, feuding clan whose youngest member becomes accused of a murder he didn't commit and is successfully defended by a clear-thinking wise young attorney, Harry Townes. Townes is, in Wendell's mind, his father, and Mayes's admiration for and devotion to his father is strikingly reflected in the play. It goes without saying that he's equally devoted to his mother.

BUT young Mayes, back in New York, had yet to recognize the story material in Caruthersville. He did seem aware that he had to live more in order to write cogently about it, so he suddenly took off for Arizona. There he found work at first at an exterminating job but was happy to abandon it very soon for gold prospecting in the mountains. He didn't find enough of the yellow stuff to stake out, but he did get to know many rough-cut prospectors, and this stood him in good stead for writing purposes. Meanwhile he kept writing, even trying a movie script, his first and last—until he went on work on the Lindbergh story.

From Arizona he wandered over to El Paso, Tex., where he hired out as a truck driver at $50 a week, making regular runs to Carlsbad, N.M., and back. Often he drove 12 or 13 hours a day, and slept in the truck overnight. Once he gave a lift to a little Mexican boy; later he was to write "No Riders," based on just such an incident but expanded with a storyteller's license to a touching tale, and written with understanding and compassion. These qualities Mayes may have picked up somewhere in his long odyssey, but it's a better bet he got them from his own parents. In any case they give his writings the depth of feeling that inspires Crosby to commendation.

Truck driving lost its adventurous lustre after awhile and Mayes decided it was high time he touched home base. After a family reunion he took the job in Jefferson City as reading clerk. "This was something completely new," he related, "and I found the political world a fascinating new world in itself." He met many politicians, and it would be logical to predict that some will take shape some day as fictional projections in a Mayes play or motion picture.

BY the time World War II broke out, Mayes was camping at St. Augustine, Fla., back at the writing binge. Abruptly his writing ceased. He went to a Baltimore shipyard and found work as a welder, after a few weeks of training. Instead of creating plots he helped create Liberty ships to help win the war, and soon he joined the Navy as a petty officer ship builder. Aboard the carrier Hornet (the first Hornet was sunk), he saw service in most of the battle areas in the Far East before the ship was partially disabled by a typhoon. By the time it got back to the States for repairs the war was over.

Discharged in December 1945, he visited home once more and then started all over again in New York, undaunted by his earlier failure there. Still his writings failed to click. He turned to acting, stage managing and play production. In 1949 he met and married Phyllis Manning of Cincinnati, who also was active in summer theater work, and together they produced several summer plays. For eight years Mayes stayed away from story writing. Then in the spring of 1954, in New York, out came the typewriter for one last fling.

He and Phyllis bought a television set. Mayes began to get interested in the magic mirror, and decided to try his luck in that direction. His television scripts kicked around a while, handled by an agent, but one day the phone rang and at the other end was Charles Jackson, author of "The Lost Weekend." Jackson is editor of an ABC-TV dramatic hour. He told Mayes he had seen his scripts, and while he couldn't buy them he did want to see anything else Mayes wrote. Soon Jackson had in his hands "No Riders," which he bought and produced, later on also buying "Hang Up My Guns."

Other successful television plays followed in quick succession. But most wondrous of all was the call from Leland Hayward and the bid to fabulous Hollywood. Jimmy Stewart is to play Lindbergh in "The Spirit of St. Louis." Billy Wilder will direct, and Lindbergh has offered to assist in whatever way he can.

Each of these men, along with Producer Hayward, are noted in their fields, and they're leaning heavily on Mayes for the kind of screen treatment the epic story urgently needs. Yet scarcely three months ago this welder-turned-writer was unknown, a man whose literary magnetism attracted only rejection slips.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

IT is not always easy to appraise the true value of a fine play because there is no knowing that the opposition would have done in the absence of that play. Take the following case for example:

South, dealer.
East-West, vulnerable.

♠K1074
♥Q97
♦A7
♣K1085
♠Q82
♥K6 ♦Q6532
♣432
♠93
♥AJ1083
♣AJQ

This deal occurred at match-point duplicate, and most of the North-South pairs ended up at four hearts, making either four or five depending on whether a spade was led against them by West at some early stage. This was the bidding at most tables:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♥	Pass	4♥	Pass

The mere two-heart rebid was rather conservative, but few Souths felt that the hand justified a rebid of either three hearts or two no-trump.

The usual opening lead by West was a low diamond, and the jack went normally, with South taking the first trick with the jack, then going to dummy's diamond ace and finessing trumps. Then there was variation. Some Wests, after winning the trump trick, shifted to spades, others to clubs. In the former case the declarers were held, to the contract itself; on the club shift, an overtrick was obviously the result.

Only one declarer was farsighted enough to influence the defense in his own favor. He saw that it would be worth precisely nothing to make three natural diamond tricks instead of two; the real crux of the matter was to dissuade West from shifting to spades if he got in with the missing king of trumps. So this declarer put up dummy's diamond ace at Trick 1 and dropped the jack from his own hand, then finessed in trumps. West, in with the trump king, reacted just as South hoped. Why try to guess between the black suits when it was likely that no harm could come from a diamond continuation? So West didn't shift; he led another diamond. South won, ruffed his low diamond, drew trumps and then ran off four club tricks, discarding a spade and making the overtrick.

St. Louisans to Attend Wedding in Dayton, O.

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

DR. AND MRS. CHARLES ALLEN THOMAS, 609 South Watson road, Ladue, and their daughters, Miss Frances and Miss Katharine, will be in Dayton, O., for the wedding tomorrow of Mrs. Thomas's niece, Miss Marianna Mead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Mead, to Frank O'Brien, professor of English at Groton School, Groton, Mass.

MISS FRANCES THOMAS... TO ATTEND WEDDING.

Mrs. Thomas and her daughters departed yesterday and Dr. Thomas will follow today, arriving in time for an elaborate bridal dinner at the Moraine Club. The hosts and hostesses, all uncles and aunts of the bride, will be the Thomases, the Secretary of the Air Force, Harold E. Talbot, who is

Mrs. Thomas's brother, and Mrs. Talbot, of Georgetown, Washington, and Mrs. Thomas's brothers-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jones of Sea Island, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Thayer of Newtown Square, Pa.

Miss Elizabeth Wade, daughter of Mrs. Crunden Wade, who shared an apartment with Miss Mead in New York, is to be a bridesmaid at the ceremony in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The reception will be held in the garden of the Mead home.

Mr. O'Brien is a staff man at Keewadin Camp, Timagami, Ont., which is attended by numerous St. Louis boys.

Debutantes Honored at Two Parties.

MISS ELLEN ERWIN and MISS CATHERINE BETTS CORLEY, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Corley, will share honors tonight at a buffet supper dance at St. Louis Country Club to be given by their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Walsh Jr., 9 Portland place. In addition to debutantes of this and last year and their escorts, guests will include Miss Mary Power, Stamford, Conn., and Miss Elizabeth Cliff, Detroit, who are visiting Miss Ellen Corley.

Plans are for supper to be served at small tables arranged around the out-door dance floor overlooking the polo field. Miss Ellen Corley was presented to society at a reception Sept. 21 at her parents' home, 13 Upper Ladue road. Miss Catherine is among the 1955-56 debutantes.

Miss Marion Bischoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Bischoff, 23 Brentmore, Clayton, was guest of honor at a luncheon yesterday given by Mrs. C. Alvin Snodgrass at her home, 18 Georgian acres, Frontenac. Luncheon was served on the terrace at a table decorated with yellow daisies.

Guests were Miss Bischoff's cousin, Miss Margot Ketcham, who with her mother, Mrs. Gordon Ketcham, is here from Coronado, Calif., visiting the Bischoffs; Miss Power, Miss Cliff, Miss Ellen Corley, Miss Phyllis Vierheller, Miss Elizabeth Brandon, Miss Nancy Jones, Miss Harriet Switzer, Miss Anne Smith, Miss Mary John Wilson, Miss Sally Woolwine, Miss Lillian Sheldon, Miss Georgia Kurrus, Miss Shelley Bush, Miss Barbara Whittemore and Miss Janet Crowell. Mrs. Snodgrass also entertained Mrs. Bischoff and Mrs. Ketcham.

Church Wedding for Adelaide Stephenson.

RACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH in Kirkwood was the setting for the marriage Wednesday night of Miss Adelaide Towne Stephenson to David Greer Davies. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles Duell Kean of the Church of the Epiphany in Washington, a former rector, and the Rev. James Doubleday, who currently occupies the post. Both the bride and bridegroom were graduated from college this month—she on June 8 from Washington University's School of Retailing, and he, June 11, from the University of Michigan with a degree in naval architecture and marine engineering.

MISS HAMPTON... IN WEDDING PARTY.

Rufus Towne Stephenson, the bride was, given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. Edward Leroy Burns of Toledo, O. She wore a gown of hand-clipped French lace and nylon tulle, fashioned with a high neckline, elbow-length sleeves, and a billowing tulle skirt. Her veil was caught to a crown of tiny organza flowerettes centered with pearls.

Mrs. Walter Emmanuel Sapp (Ann Garland Stephenson) of Springfield, Mo., who was matron of honor for her sister, wore yellow organza embroidered in white. Similarly dressed were the bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Burns of Toledo, Miss Beverlee Hampton, Miss Beverly Taylor and Miss Sally Hallio. The young women carried white daisies, except for the honor attendant, who had yellow daisies.

Santo Ponticello of Syracuse, N.Y., served as best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Allen Davies of Mertz Hill road, St. Louis county. Mr. Sapp, William Diamond of Flossmoor, Ill., Graydon Dee Hubbard and William Benslek, both of Kirkwood, were ushers.

A reception was held that night at the Ruenzi home, 1141 South Geyer road, Kirkwood.

Miss Hager to Be Married June 29.

A GROUP of relatives and friends will be in Winnetka, Ill., for the marriage Wednesday, June 29, of Miss Carol Weber Hager, a former St. Louisan, to Harold Ferris White III. Mrs. Arthur B. Birge, grandmother of the bride-elect, departed yesterday. Others attending will be Miss Hager's uncles and aunts, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott, Alto; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Muren, Webster Groves, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Birge Jr., Memphis, and the following friends: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Finch Jr., Miss Madeleine and Miss Esther Veron and Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Reiner, St. Louis.

Mr. White and Miss Hager, daughter of Mrs. William Parr Wiseman of Winnetka, and the late Edward Frederick Hager, will be married at 4:30 o'clock in Christ Church Chapel. The reception will be given at Indian Hill Country Club.

Miss Barbara Birge Hager is to be maid of honor for her sister, whose bridesmaids will be Miss Martha Crenshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bransford Crenshaw, formerly of Webster Groves; Miss Eve du Pont Williams and Miss Mary Katherine Williams, all Winnetka girls.

Palmer White will be best man for his brother, and Dr. Edward Birge Hager is to be one of the ushers. The bridegroom-elect, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. White of Glenview, Ill., was commissioned in the Air Force at his graduation from Williams College a few days ago. In December he will report at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., for pilot training. Until then he and his bride will live in Chicago.

Officers for St. Louis Vassar Club

NEWLY-ELECTED OFFICERS FOR THE ST. LOUIS VASSAR CLUB ARE FROM LEFT, MRS. JOHN W. SEDDON, PRESIDENT; MRS. GENE B. STARKLOFF, VICE PRESIDENT; MRS. WILLIAM WOOD CARTER, SECRETARY; MRS. RICHARD D. SHELTON, TREASURER. THEY WERE ELECTED WEDNESDAY AT THE CLUB'S ANNUAL SPRING PICNIC WHICH WAS HELD AT THE HOME OF MRS. GEORGE K. CONANT JR., 9630 LADUE ROAD.

Ferguson Residents' Mid-June Visitors

JOHN C. ATWOOD III, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Atwood Jr. of Chestnut Hill, Pa., is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. John C. Atwood, and his uncle, William L. Atwood, 38 North Maple avenue. Mr. Atwood attended his class reunion at Culver Military Academy, Ind., before coming here. He had recently received his discharge from the Navy after serving four years aboard the carrier, Kearsage.

The visitor is being entertained informally by his aunts and uncles: Mr. and Mrs. Clark P. Fiske of Kirkwood; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Armstrong of Ladue and Mr. and Mrs. George B. Atwood of University City. He will leave early next week for Pine Bluff, Ark., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baker Atwood. He will rejoin his parents and will sail with them for Europe July 2. They will spend a month cruising the fjords of Norway and Sweden and touring England. Upon their return Mr. Atwood will enter Cornell University.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Carlspecken, 38 South Elizabeth avenue, have as guests their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dougherty of Morgantown, W. Va. The visitors arrived Tuesday for a week's visit and will then leave for La Jolla, Calif., to spend the summer.

MR. AND MRS. Howard L. Finney Jr., 25 North Maple avenue, have as guests for a week her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shannon of San Francisco. The visitors who have been spending a month in New York, Philadelphia and in Michigan, are en route home.

Mr. and Mrs. Finney will entertain the family at dinner Sunday, June 26, in honor of the golden anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Finney, 134 North Clay avenue, which occurs June 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Nemnich, 425 Church street, had as weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sanders, and her children, Mary Kay and Jeff, and her brother, Peter Foley, all of Chicago.

MR. AND MRS. Lester A. Rowden Jr. and their daughter, Gail Victoria, arrived June 3 from Vancouver, Wash., to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Rowden, 5 Raymar place. Mr. Rowden, Jr., will return home Sunday and Mrs. Rowden and Gail will remain for a longer visit. The Rowdens' daughter, Mrs. Don E. Wessler of Arenzville, Ill., and her young son, Jeffrey, are also visiting them.

Frances Rodgers To Be Feted at Party Series

MRS. ROY L. BRANDENBURGER, 35 Overhills drive, Ladue, was hostess at a luncheon at her home today in honor of Miss Frances Louise Rodgers, whose marriage to Gordon Cameron Crowell of Lincoln, N.C., will be an event of Tuesday night, June 28. A swimming party and supper will be given at St. Albans Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reason and their daughter, Miss Laura Reason of Mason road, St. Louis county. Mrs. Robert F. Bemis, 9720 Litzinger road, Ladue, and her daughter, Miss Mary Bryan, have planned a luncheon and swimming party for the next day at Westborough Country Club.

The spinster dinner, which will take place next Friday, is to be given by Miss Elizabeth Harris at her home, 212 Bristol road, Webster Groves. The wedding party and the out-of-town guests will be entertained at a dinner Monday night, June 17, after the rehearsal. The party will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney M. Studd, 30 Huntleigh Woods, Huntleigh Village. Mrs. Melchior Wagner was hostess yesterday at a luncheon at her home, 9 Ladue lane.

Miss Rodgers has asked Miss Carolyn Uzzell of Wilson, N.C., to serve as maid of honor. Her sister, Miss Elizabeth Rodgers, and Miss Harris are to be bridesmaids. Dr. Lester A. Crowell Jr. will be best man for his son; ushers will include the bride's brother, Robert Beardslee Rodgers, James A. Rodgers Jr. and Joseph Eades. Ladue Chapel will be the scene of the marriage ceremony at 8 o'clock, after which the parents of the bride-to-be, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Rodgers, will give a reception at their home, 38 Beacon Hill drive, Creve Coeur.

Martha Carr's

Today's column is devoted to teen-agers who are invited to submit their problems to Martha Carr.

Dear Martha:

I answer to "In Doubt," who said boys don't like feminine, courteous girls, there are still many boys, like myself, who prefer the feminine girl in ruffles and lace instead of one in shorts and boy haircuts, and the girl who is quiet, courteous and, above all, feminine. Nothing will attract honorable boys quicker than conservatism in dress and action. Another thing, please don't group all of us with the so-called hepcats who don't care for femininity.

INDIGNANT MALE.

Dear Martha:

I CERTAINLY AGREE with your answer to "In Doubt." I am a sophomore in high school and any boy I have ever met really likes feminine girls. Girls with boy haircuts, jeans, men's shirts and bad language may be all right to talk to but the majority never are dated. I'm sure many boys will agree with me that girls should act like girls.

READER.

Dear Martha:

I'M NOT VERY POPULAR AT SCHOOL so I was really thrilled when a nice boy paid some attention to me and seemed to like me. Our church club decided to give a party and the girls were to invite boys. I sent him an invitation, but he didn't even answer. A girl wrote back and said she went steady with him. She goes to another school and that's why I didn't know about it. I hate to face him now. If he should say something, what should I do? PATRICIA.

I think he deserves to be told that you were sorry he wasn't man enough to turn down his own invitation. He could have done so without even telling his girl friend let alone hiding behind her skirts and permitting her to embarrass you. But don't let this keep you from asking other boys if the situation arises again. Be friendly to everyone at school, whether you get invited out or not. There are still plenty of boys who don't go steady and would be glad to accept your invitation.

IN ANSWER TO Peggy: At a backward party, where the girls invite the boys, the girls pay for the tickets of admission and if they wish, provide comedy corsages or boutonnières. Usually, though, the boys provide the transportation, and sometimes the refreshments if couples go to a public restaurant after the party.

Send today for Martha Carr's free leaflet on scavenger hunts. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Choice of Her Own

By Ruth Millett

THEY are about the same age and they lost their husbands about the same time. When Mrs. M.'s husband died her married children stepped in and decided she mustn't live alone. So she went to live with a married daughter and her family.

RUTH MILLETT

of her decision, though they knew they would worry about her living alone.

Mrs. M. and Mrs. B. are acquaintances. Who do you think envies whom, the older woman who lives with her daughter or the older woman who lives alone?

The answer may surprise more grown children than widowed parents. It is the protected Mrs. M. who envies Mrs. B. who lives alone.

THE REASON FOR THE ENVY is obvious. After five years of living with a married daughter and her family, Mrs. M. has few friends her own age. She didn't have to make friends for she could always share in the life of the household and so she didn't make the effort.

Having run a home all of her life, she feels she has to keep busy. But sometimes she senses that her daughter would really prefer to run her own house in her own way. She has lost a lot of her enthusiasm for living in the years that she has become just Jane's mother to all who meet her.

But Mrs. B. is having a fine time living her own life, entertaining friends in her own home. She's a person instead of just somebody's mother.

Both sets of children wanted to do what was right for their mothers. Only one set of children realized that only their mother knew what was best for her to do with her life.

The Question Box

By Josephine Lowman

Q. "My greatest trouble is that I do not know how to count calories. I am very anxious to lose weight but do not seem to be able to lose a pound. I don't eat breakfast and have quit sugar, cream and salt. Super is my main meal."

A. I can guess why this reader does not lose. She admits that she knows little about calorie counting. It is perfectly possible to make up the calories you missed in the morning at the evening meal. As a matter of fact skipping a meal is a bad idea. You need the breakfast foods for health and will probably eat more in two meals a day than in three because you will be so hungry when you go to the table.

Sugar and cream count up if you are going to drink a lot of coffee. However, do not forget the high calorie count of fried foods, desserts, salad dressings and cream sauces. The sensible way to reduce is to eat three meals a day and keep strict count of the calories these meals bring you.

Q. "ABOUT TWO OR THREE MONTHS AGO I put a dye on my hair to make it a lighter color. I do not want to continue putting it on. Now that it is growing out, the color at the roots is different from the rest of it. What can I do? I have been told that the only thing I can do is cut my hair off but I do not want to do this because I do not look good with short hair."

A. I think you will just have to go through the unpleasant stage of letting it grow out. I suggest that you go to a well qualified beauty shop and ask if there is anything they can do. Also, there are pencils with which you can touch up the hair close to the scalp.

Designing Woman

Attractive Cafe Curtains

By Elizabeth Hillyer

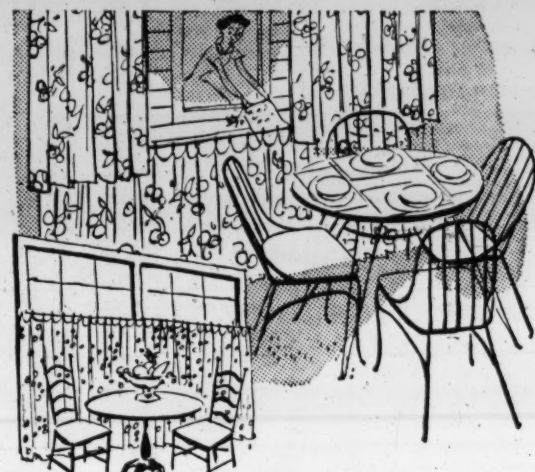

SO MANY new houses try to make one big happy family out of next door neighbors. Wide windows facing any other close window makes it difficult to lead a life of your own.

But curtaining comes to the rescue, and of all kinds, the cafe type which started out as such a small curtain. Now curtains as wide and high as they need to be hang from slender rods on rings.

Here are two ways, they plot privacy most attractively. For one style, the curtains hang in tiers, and this has the advantage of completely covering the window all the way up when both tiers are closed.

The other curtain design puts a single rod high enough so that a standing figure is screened from the outside. The larger measure of privacy comes with an opaque fabric, but more popular all the time are the fabrics which can't be seen through plainly, but which are semi-sheer enough for light to filter through.

MRS. W. W. "We are planning to tile our kitchen and wonder what color the tile should be. The floor is in a white background marbled pattern with red and black in it. The table is silver fox, and the chairs are red. Cabinets are natural birch with gray tops." Gray in a well-chosen light shade is a good possibility. Or you might find a creamy color that seems to echo the birch color, and this would simplify the scheme by completing a one-color wall effect.

Underneath those layers of dingy varnish you may have something there—a beautiful piece of furniture that needs only to show its fine wood grain. Learn how to work refinishing wonders with the help of Elizabeth Hillyer's new booklet FURNITURE REFINISHING—HOW TO DO IT YOURSELF. It's yours for 15c in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to Miss Hillyer at the Post-Dispatch.

The Little Woman

Those Things That a Man Forgets

By Clarissa Start

A MAN in our office made the casual remark the other day that he never could remember the birth dates of his children.

"Not remember your own child's birth date?" we said indignantly. "What kind of monster are you? Why, the date and hour of my little Bruce's birth are forever engraved in my heart, etc., etc."

"Look," the forgetful father said coldly, "when you get past 40 years of age and have five kids, you won't remember all their birthdays either."

"Maybe so," we grudgingly admitted. "Maybe if you have a lot of children you get confused."

JUST THEN ANOTHER FATHER, the doting parent of one, came into the room.

"Ah there's a man who knows his own child's birthday," we greeted him. "What is it?"

"Why, of course, it's October 12," he said proudly.

We looked puzzled and he suddenly corrected himself.

"I mean February, February, what was I thinking of?"

He beat his head as the other men guffawed at his embarrassment.

"I knew it was February," we told him, "because he was born two months before my friend Diana's little boy and that was in April and I remember because it was the Easter I was sewing on that blue suit. I mean when her husband called to tell me."

This, of course, led to much hooting and jeering about the tangled threads of useless information with which women clutter their brains. Before long, the discussion became a battle of the sexes, with the men contending that women remember all that trivia of wedding anniversaries and birthdays and the year Mehitabel's husband wandered off the reservation simply because they have nothing more important to occupy their thoughts.

We contended that some people have orderly, organized minds and others don't.

"For instance," we ended triumphantly, "my legally minded husband always remembers dates."

"Huh," the men last worded, "you probably won't let him forget them. Probably put signs all over the house the week before your anniversary."

THAT NIGHT we put the question to the test.

"Dear," we asked, "when is our wedding anniversary?"

He answered promptly and correctly, but since it was the following day and some mention had previously been made of it, this was hardly fair. As a matter of fact, we had put up a sign.

"When is my birthday?" we followed up.

Again he passed with flying colors.

"And when is Bruce's birthday?" we pursued.

"It's October—uh-October—uh- well it was 1951," he ended up, slightly belligerently.

My Day

A Refugee's New Life

By Eleanor Roosevelt

FALL RIVER, Mass.

ON Monday night I again saw "Inherit the Wind," with Paul Muni, and enjoyed it just as much as the first time.

Tuesday I went for the day to Wilmington, Del., attending in the afternoon a christening of a very delightful young lady just about three months old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Spedd.

I first met Mrs. Spedd when she came over here in the early Nazi days, a refugee from Austria, and we have kept in touch with each other ever since. She has become a wonderful citizen, possessing much of the enterpriser of our early pioneer Americans. She makes up her mind what she wants to do and somehow her determination and persistence fits her to do the job, and she does it remarkably well.

I AM VERY PROUD of the way she has built her life in this country and her husband, Clifford, who is a New Englander, has helped her in every possible way. They are a happy couple, and their baby is a crowning joy. It was wonderful to be with them and with their many friends in Arden, Del., on this happy occasion. Luckily a girl baby can have two godmothers, so even though I fear I may not be a very useful one, she will have one young godmother to fulfill the necessary duties of that office.

In the evening I spoke at a meeting in connection with the bond drive for Israel.

Sun Bathers

Take Care!

A Few Tips

THE sun worshiping cult is in full swing now and will be until the first nip of fall or business pressure or getting the children ready for school forces them indoors again.

Thousands of people will dash out into the bright sunlight, lie prone in their back yards or on the beach, at the edge of the swimming pool or along the river bank, with the conviction that they are soaking up health; getting fit in a hurry.

This outdoor life is all to the good not only in pleasure but in additional energy if you enjoy it in a sensible way.

IN THE FIRST PLACE those warm rays which make you want to stretch are not the ones which give you the suntan or burn. The dangerous part is the part you cannot see—the ultraviolet rays. Therefore, many people are misled by the cloudy day at the beach or when on a picnic.

Because the sun is not beating down on them they feel no worry about getting sunburned. For this reason this is a day full of hazard. These ultraviolet rays are twice as intense when reflected from water or white sand.

REMAIN only 10 minutes on each side in your sun bath the first day. Gradually increase this. Remember, too, that it is best to begin your life in the sun by going outdoors early in the morning or late in the afternoon when the rays are not so direct.

Today there are many creams and lotions which are effective in protecting you from burning. Be sure to use one and then remain in the sun only a reasonable length of time.

Hawaiian Spareribs

Ingredients: Two sides young spareribs (three to three and one half pounds), two tablespoons cornstarch, one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth cup elder vinegar, two tablespoons American-type soy sauce, one and one half cups pineapple juice, one clove garlic (cut in half).

Method: Have meat dealer crack large end of ribs in half across middle. Place in single layer in large shallow roasting pan. Roast in a moderate (650 degrees) oven, turning once, until cooked through and browned —about one and one half hours.
Cut spareribs through every other bone for serving-size pieces; discard fat in pan.
Shortly before spareribs are finished, stir cornstarch and sugar together thoroughly in one quart saucepan; add vinegar and soy sauce; stir until there are no lumps. Add pineapple juice and garlic. Cook and stir over moderate heat until thickened and clear. Discard garlic. Pour over spareribs and serve at once. Makes four servings.

CUT OUR WAY—By J. R. Williams

I KNOW WE JUST PUT IT ON, BUT THIS GUN SPOILT TH' JOB. AN' IT'S GOT TO GO TO TH' WELDER TO PUT BACK ON WHAT HE TOOK OFF TOO MUCH!

I'D SLAM THAT WALRUS RIGHT ON TH' SNOUT IF HE BROADCAST A MISTAKE I MADE LIKE THAT!

HE CAN'T BE SO GOOD HIMSELF IF HE HAS TO EXPLAIN TO THE CRANE MAN WHY HE MUST OF MADE SOME MISTAKES HIMSELF!

LIFE'S LONGEST MINUTE

MANDRAKE—By Lee Falk and Phil Davis

THE CLAY CAMEL MUST BE GONE BY NOW--WITH MY REAL JEWELS!

OH-OH! HERE,
HE COMES!

THERE HE IS! THE CLAY CAME!

Keep alert while you drive—chew gum!

Alert drivers are safe drivers. Avoid drowsiness and driving jitters. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you fresh and alert. Chew any brand you like, but chew while you drive. Naturally we recommend refreshing, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, full-bodied flavor and real, smooth chewing enjoyment!

have no illusions about Crosscut. I wish I had.
